Conference Approves Free Danube

Romania Peace Treaty Draft Is Completed

Vote On River Issues Is 15 To 6 With Usual East-West Division

"DOLLAR DEMOCRACIES" ACCUSED BY MOLOTOV

Byrnes To Preside When Parley Takes Up Bulgarian Treaty Today

PARIS, Friday, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Paris peace conference approved today a joint American and British proposal for free navigation on the Danube river and completed work on the terms of the peace treaty with Romania.

The vote on the Danube issue was 15 to six—the division being along the usual East-West lines. Earlier the American and British pleas for free navigation on this key European river and unhampered trade in the Balkans were met by Soviet accusations that "dollar democracies were seeking to further their "imperialistic" ambitions.

The conference agreed to the opening of the Danube, its navigable tributaries and connecting canals "on terms of entire equality to the nations, vessels of commerce and goods of all states."

Earlier, Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) told the conference that a free Danube is "indispensable to the economic health and therefore to the peace of Central Europe." British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, in full support of the American position, charged that Soviet opposition "gives rise to a good deal of suspicion to the designs of the Soviet Union in this part of the world."

Conference Approved

By a 14-to-seven vote the conference also provided that Romania, all other Danubian states and the Big Four would have a conference within six months after the Romanian treaty goes into effect for the purpose of establishing the river's "new international regime."

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov presided at the session which opened yesterday and continued until 1:50 a. m. today (7:50 p. m. EST Thursday).

United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes will preside when the conference convenes again at 9:30 a. m. today to take up the provisions of the Bulgarian treaty.

The conference already has put its final stamp on the Italian treaty and still has before it the treaties with Hungary and Finland as well as the Bulgarian pact.

Jury To Hear Garsson Evidence Is Sworn In

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP) — A federal grand jury was sworn in today to hear Justice Department evidence on the wartime operations of the Garsson munitions combine. Court papers listed bribery and perjury as among possible charges.

The government prepared to present its case in District Court almost three months from the day (July 12) that Henry M. Garsson declined to testify before the Senate War Investigating Committee.

Garsson, identified before the Senate committee as head of a wartime munitions group which got war contract help from Rep. Andrew J. May (D-Ky), stood on his constitutional right not to give evidence which might incriminate him.

Allied Control Council Confirms That Goering And Ten Associates Will Hang Next Week

BERLIN, Oct. 10 (AP) — Hermann Goering and three arch Nazis lost an appeal tonight to die a soldier's death before a firing squad and the Allied Control Council confirmed that Hitler's once-designated successor and ten of his associates will die on the gallows next Wednesday.

After five and one half hours of deliberation, the four-power council rejected clemency appeals for 16 high Nazis convicted for crimes against the world and humanity.

In confirming the death sentences, the council rejected appeals by Goering, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl to be executed by a firing squad instead of a soldier's disgrace by hanging. It also refused the plea of Grand Adm. Erich Raeder to be shot instead of given life imprisonment.

Thus Goering, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Keitel, Jodl, Alfred Rosenberg, Hans Frank, Wilhelm Frick, Fritz Sauckel, Julius Streicher and Arthur Seyss-Inquart lost their last chance to escape the hangman's noose.

Ernest Kaltenbrunner, Hitler's former chief of secret police who also was sentenced to die, made no petition for clemency.

The council also rejected the plea for clemency on behalf of Martin Bormann, the 12th Nazi sentenced to die at Nuernberg although he was tried in absentia. The council said his plea was "premature" but that a new petition could be submitted within four days of his apprehension, should this occur.

Only a four-power commission, two press representatives from each of the four occupying powers and one official photographer will witness the death walks to the gallows.

U. S. Planes Again Fly Over Hungary, Czechoslovakia

Unexplained Suspension Of Flights Lifted; Romania Ban Continues

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 10 (AP)—An unexplained suspension of American plane flights over Czechoslovakia and Russian-controlled Hungary was lifted suddenly late today but a United States military ban still remained on flights by either civil or military aircraft over Romania.

Officials in headquarters of United States forces in the European theater steadfastly refused to give any reason either for yesterday's original suspension order or for the confusing removal of the Czech and Hungarian bans.

Troop Movements Believed Cause

(Military officials in Washington expressed the private belief that the temporary ban was due to maneuvers or other troop movements. They said a similar order was in effect for a short time earlier this year and was ascribed at that time to a Russian request.)

A Pan-American Airways pilot whose plane was turned back at Prague yesterday said in London that the ban may have been invoked "because the Russians are believed to be holding army maneuvers between October 9 and 14."

Ban Disclosed Wednesday Night

The pilot, Capt. Calvin Dyer, Jackson Heights, N. Y., said he understood "the Czechs have received similar orders from the Russians not to permit any civil flights over the area between Pragie and Vienna between October 9 and 14."

United States Army orders forbidding either civil or military planes of American ownership to fly over any part of Czechoslovakia, Hungary or Romania were disclosed last night after the Pan-American plane bound for Vienna was turned back at Prague.

This afternoon the ban on Czechoslovakia was removed, then a few hours later flights to Hungary were restored.

Lane Will Return Home For Polish Policy Conference

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP) — Arthur Bliss Lane, ambassador to Poland, will return home shortly for a full dress review of American relations with the Poles, the State Department announced today.

His chief policy talks will concern Poland's commitment to hold free elections by the year end.

Diplomatic authorities speculated that some new American moves might be forthcoming as the result of Lane's visit. It will be his first trip home since he opened the American Embassy in Warsaw in July, 1945.

Will Return To Poland

A department spokesman, Lincoln White, said that Lane definitely would return to Poland after conferring here with department officials and presumably with President Truman. Some of his activities in Poland were severely criticized by the Polish government earlier this year in a formal complaint describing him as unsympathetic, but Lane got the prompt, unqualified backing of the President and Secretary of State Byrnes.

Concurrent with the department's announcement of Lane's return, there were these other diplomatic developments bearing on the general issue of relations between the western world and Russian-dominated Eastern Europe and the Middle East:

Dardanelles Situation

1. The United States, Britain and Turkey tightened their ranks in opposition to Russia's renewed demand for a hand in the defenses of the Dardanelles, although leaving the way open for discussion of greater rights for Russia in the use of the straits. London reports said the British government had sent a note along this line to its ally, Turkey.

2. The State Department announced a new $25,000,000 credit to Greece for the purchase of surplus Army property overseas. This appeared to be in line with Anglo-American decision to back the anti-leftist governments of the Eastern Mediterranean with economic assistance.

Army Cuts November Draft Call To 15,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Army has cut its November draft call to 15,000 men, the smallest since Selective Service started before Pearl Harbor.

The October quota was 35,000 and September's 25,000.

Maj. Gen. Willard S. Paul, War Department personnel director, said the record-breaking enlistment of nearly one million volunteers in the last year was the primary reason for the reduction.

Atlantic, Gulf Operators Quit Shipping Talks

Union Positions Make Negotiations Futile, Owners Declare

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. (AP)—The ship owners and agents committee for the Atlantic and Gulf coasts withdrew tonight from the maritime strike negotiations asserting "the positions of the unions make a continuation of negotiations futile."

The committee made its position known in a telegram sent out by Frank J. Taylor, chairman of the committee for the owners and agents of the Atlantic and Gulf coasts. The message was addressed to Capt. Harry Martin, president of the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots of America, and E. P. Trainer, chairman, of the negotiating committee for the National Marine Engineers Beneficial Association.

The announcement of the committee's withdrawal apparently took both the government and the unions by surprise and there was no immediate comment forthcoming from them on the new development in the situation.

Assurance Refused

Taylor said the both unions had been asked on Tuesday for an assurance that Atlantic and Gulf coast ships would sail in event the current negotiations were successfully completed.

The Masters, Mates and Pilots replied that they would give such an assurance if the other union would do likewise, Taylor added.

Taylor declared that the Marine Engineers Beneficial Union "flatly refused to give such an assurance unless and until the United States Maritime Commission would issue an order requiring its agents on the West coast to apply on government-owned ships the terms and conditions as finally negotiated for the East coast and the Gulf."

600 Ships Tied Up

The Atlantic and Gulf coast owners and agents, Taylor said, are willing to continue to negotiate but that the discussions "must be based on the understanding that, if successful, the men will return to work without awaiting action or approval by any party not connected with the negotiations."

"The position taken by both unions make such a result impossible to attain," Taylor's message commented.

The refusal of the unions to give an assurance that Atlantic and Gulf coast vessels would sail without regard to other occurrences or other contingencies has been communicated to the principals of our committee. In the absence of such an assurance the committee has been instructed to withdraw from the current negotiations. All tentative suggestions, tentative offers and understandings made during the course of these negotiations must now be regarded as withdrawn."

The 10-day strike has tied up 600 ships on all coasts of the United States.

Re-election Of May Is Urged By Sen. Barkley

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Oct. 10 (AP) — United States Sen. Alben Barkley talked for more than one hour today urging the election of fellow Kentucky Democrats next month without mentioning names, until in a concluding statement he said "send Andrew J. May back to Congress."

The mention of Congressman May was the first by Barkley in his speaking campaign of Eastern Kentucky counties in the interest of Democratic candidates. He made no other reference to May.

May has done no campaigning of his own since returning to his Prestonsburg home to recover from a heart condition that made him ill in July on the eve of questioning by the Senate War Investigating Committee.

Surrender Ends "March To Glory" Of Portuguese

Young Army Officer Leads Small Group Of Soldiers In Revolt

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 10 (AP) — A young Portuguese army officer led a small group of cavalrymen and armoured cars on a "march to glory to conquer freedom" in Northern Portugal in a short-lived revolt today, it was reported here.

The incident caused the government of Premier Dr. Antonio De Oliveira Salazar to take extraordinary military precautions in the capital and cut the city off from communications with most of Portugal and the world.

The precautions were ordered at 3 a. m. The situation appeared under control at 3 p. m.

Communique Expected

An official communique was expected later, to be followed by the restoration of Lisbon's telephone communications with Northern and Southern Portugal.

Reports reaching the capital said the young officer broke into a cavalry barracks at Monte Predralva near Oporto, harrangued the soldiers to begin "a march to glory to conquer freedom," and persuaded four or five score to join him.

Near Coimbra, a third of the way to Lisbon, however, they were met by a detachment of Republican guardsmen (militarized police) and persuaded to surrender. Coimbra is 100 miles north of the capital.

(London reported its telephone service with Lisbon was cut off after receipt of this incomplete dispatch, the British Post Office saying it could not put through calls until tomorrow.

Opposition To Premier Reported

(Authoritative diplomatic sources in London said reports had been reaching the British government of opposition to the "benevolent dictatorship" of Premier Dr. Antonio De Oliveira Salazar and that "deep rumblings of discontentment, if not exactly a civil war" could be expected.

(The Portuguese Embassy in London did not receive its usual telephone call from Lisbon.)

All troops, police and the anti-Communist volunteer legion, "Legiao Portuguesa," were called to their barracks at 3 a. m. as a preventive measure.

Future Of Government Pay Control Up In Air

Truman Delays Accepting Resignations Of Two Industry Members Of Wage Board

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The future of the government's pay controls was up in the air tonight as President Truman delayed accepting the resignations of the two industry members of the Wage Stabilization Board.

A. Colman Barrett and Earl N. Cannon, reported to be dissatisfied because the board was by-passed in order to give maritime strikers more money than it was willing to sanction, asked that their resignations be made effective today. But Mr. Truman said at a news conference that he had made no decision on whether to accept them.

Barrett told reporters after the White House statement that he would attend a meeting of the board scheduled for tomorrow. But in a formal statement he added that "Mr. Cannon and I are of the opinion that all wage controls should be ended. We hope that the President will not deliberate too long in accepting our resignation and ending all wage controls."

Leans Toward Public Board

"If we are to have wage controls," Barrett added to reporters, "I would rather see a public board rather than a tri-partite board which was very good during the war but has outlived its usefulness." The present board has been composed of public, industry and labor members.

Chairman W. Willard Wirtz, of the board, told a news conference that he had taken a poll of industry representatives on the 11 regional boards, serving under the national board, and had found a division of opinion about resigning.

He said resignations had been received from the industry members of the Seattle and San Francisco boards, but that the others had not resigned "and most of them have indicated that they have no present intention to do so."

Barett said he had polled the regional board members yesterday and "was surprised at what I learned indirectly today." He expressed the opinion that the majority of the industry members in the field would choose to resign.

Armed Forces Send German V-2 Rocket 102 Miles Into Air

WHITE SANDS, N. M., Oct. 10. (AP)—The armed forces sent a German V-2 rocket 102 miles high today at the rate of 3,600 miles per hour and kept it aloft for 11 minutes with special devices which slowed its descent.

The warhead carried cameras and various instruments, including improved Geiger counters for obtaining cosmic ray data. These instruments were installed under the direction of the Naval Research Laboratory, Washington, D. C.

Initial tests were made with new devices which were ejected at selected points in the missile's downward projectory. These were designed to slow down its velocity and protect the instruments.

AFL And CIO Vie For Power Union

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 10 (AP) — Three other labor unions sought today to become bargaining agent for 1,700 members of the striking independent power union, as the city's costly power strike dragged through its 17th day.

A National Labor Relations Board hearing was held on a petition of the AFL-United Mine Workers District 50 for a bargaining election of production and maintenance workers of the struck Duquesne Light Company. Two other labor organizations, the CIO Utility Workers and International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), intervened and asked to be included in any election.

Negotiations still appeared tightly deadlocked, but federal conciliators plugged away and were scheduled to meet tonight with company representatives.

In Washington, Ernie Adamson, counsel for the House Committee on Unamerican Activites, said the committee was investigating what he termed "subversive influences at work in Pittsburgh."

Adamson said the activities had been noted by the committee "in connection with the numerous strikes and particularly the electrical tieup" and that Committee Chairman Wood (D-Ga) intended to examine several witnesses in Pittsburgh and other cities.

The statement said Adamson had "Personally observed conditions in Pittsburgh and that the community is approaching a state of anarchy."

Hull Is Improving

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP) — Cordell Hull showed considerable improvement today, the Naval Hospital reported. This was noted in a 4 p. m. bulletin issued by the hospital, where the 75-year old former Secretary of State is being treated for a stroke which he suffered September 30.

Beef Packers File Petition For Decontrol

President Declines To Say If He Still Favors Price Ceilings

REFUSAL TO COMMENT CAUSES QUESTION MARK

Full Cabinet To Review Shortage Today; No Action "Imminent"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—With the question of easing meat controls to the fore, President Truman went into a huddle tonight with key advisors, including the two who would draft any executive order.

The decontrol issue was placed squarely up to the administration in a formal petition of the beef packers, backed by sworn statements that livestock on the hoof is plentiful.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, to whom the petition was made, promised a speedy answer. He presumably will be governed by the President's position.

That was emphatically against removing ceilings two weeks ago. But a question mark appeared today when the President at his news conference declined to comment when asked whether he still holds that view.

No Decision Reached

The session at the White House reached no decision, Press Secretary Charles G. Ross reported, and the full Cabinet will review the meat shortage tomorrow, Ross said tonight's meeting "was simply a session in which the President listened to these men." They included both Attorney General Clark and Clark Clifford, presidential legal counsel, as well as officials directly concerned with meat.

Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan was one of the conferees. The others were Undersecretary of the Treasury O. Max Gardner, Undersecretary of State Will Clayton, Reconversion Directer John R. Steelman, Price Administrator Paul Porter, Richard H. Field of the OPA and Robert H. Shields of the Agriculture Department. Anderson himself was out of town.

The session lasted an hour and 45 minutes. It was the fourth such conference within a week, but the first attended personally by Mr. Truman.

No Action "Imminent"

Questioning turned to other matters and then returned to the meat question when a reporter asked whether the President "refused to affirm" his position for retention of

Heirens Still Seeks Suicide Opportunity

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 10 (AP)—William Heirens, 17-year-old slayer of three persons, told interviewers today he is still seeking an opportunity for suicide.

Facing reporters in the warden's office of the prison diagnostic depot, the former university student who dismembered 6-year-old Suzanne Degnan and killed two women during a career of burglaries in Chicago, said he was "sorry" a guard didn't shoot him Tuesday when he threw rocks at the man.

"I'll try again," he added.

President Tosses Job Of Settling Taft-Dewey Dispute To Republicans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP) — President Truman, who has been having his own party troubles over foreign policy, gleefully tossed to the Republicans today the job of settling their dispute over the Nuernberg trials.

The clash between Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, both 1948 GOP presidential prospects, over the justice of the war guilt trials was put up to the President for comment at his news conference.

Apparently anticipating the question, Mr. Truman smilingly replied: He believes that is a matter which Taft and Dewey can settle, don't you? It was his only extended reply to several political queries and it brought much laughter.

Taft declared in Gambier, O., last Saturday that the Nuernberg trials were a miscarriage of justice which the American people would regret.

Dewey said the trials were justified. In a statement last Monday, in which he was joined by Irving M. Ives, GOP nominee for United States senator in New York, the republican gubernatorial candidate said:

"The defendants at Nuernberg had a fair and extensive trial. No one can have any sympathy for these Nazi leaders who brought such agony upon the world. While the just penalties imposed can neither expiate their sins nor bring back the life of millions for whose deaths they are responsible, their sentences will serve as a warning against future acts of aggression and oppression by totalitarian rulers."

President Truman told other questioners today he had no campaign plans as yet. He said he does not contemplate at this time a political speech in New York before the elections, but has under consideration whether to make a speech opening the General Assembly of the United Nations at Lake Success October 23.

President Says:

British Have No Atomic Bombs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The British have no atom bombs, President Truman declared flatly today—and diplomats expressed belief his statement might help relieve tension abroad.

Answering two direct questions inspired by published reports that a supply of the devastating missiles had been turned over to Britiain, Mr. Truman told his news conference without qualification:

1. The British have none of the bombs.

2. There are no atomic bombs stockpiled in Britain.

He did not elaborate on his terse responses but apparently they meant that the United States continues to exercise, so far as responsible government officials know, a complete monopoly on possession of the bombs. The weapon was developed jointly by the United States, Britain and Canada during the war and subsequently they have shared in policy-making proposals for its international control.

The common interest in the bomb's development and use had given rise to reports, in connection with the prolonged British-American diplomatic conflict with Russia, that a supply of the missiles had been turned over for stockpiling in the British isles. Insofar as these reports may have contributed to uncertainities in international affairs, diplomats said that Mr. Truman's assurances should put down any concern abroad over atomic bomb maneuvers.

The President also said there had been no decision yet on the Army Air Forces' proposal for a round-the-world flight of B-29 bombers. These are the planes capable of carrying atomic bombs and their mass flight would dramatize the striking power of the American air arm.

AFL President Green Turns Down British Bid To Work With WFTU

CHICAGO, Oct. 10. (AP) — AFL President William Green today flatly turned down a British bid to cooperate with the World Federation of Trade Unions, a group including the CIO in its membership but tagged by Green as Communist-dominated.

Green told the American Federation of Labor convention he thought the British labor movement's position was "contradictory" because it co-operated with Soviet Russia in the WFTU yet refused to accept the Communist Party in the British Labor Party.

The AFL leader spoke in reply to a speech delivered to the convention by Thomas O'Brien, a fraternal delegate representing the British Trade Union Congress and a member of Parliament. O'Brien had asked the AFL, regardless of whether it agreed with all WFTU policies, to co-operate in the interest of a unified worldwide trade unionism.

"We know that you can't make a decision in the WFTU without first ascertaining what the dictator in Moscow shall say about it," Green shouted to convention applause. O'Brien listened smilingly from the convention platform.

Secretary of War Patterson, in an address prepared for the afternoon session, disclosed that a guided missile, with a range "far greater than the German long-range rockets," is a "probability in a matter of months."

Patterson made the disclosure in speaking of the terrible swiftness and effectiveness of weapons to be used in any future war.

The War Secretary said he was convinced that eventually the spread of the doctrine of free speech will greatly minimize the chances for war but that meanwhile "it is our ability to protect ourselves that counts in a world that still talks in terms of planes, tanks and guns."

The message was addressed to Capt. Harry Martin, president of the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots of America, and E. P. Trainer, chairman, of the negotiating committee for the National Marine Engineers Beneficial Association.

The announcement of the committee's withdrawal apparently took both the government and the unions by surprise and there was no immediate comment forthcoming from them on the new development in the situation.

Assurance Refused

Taylor said the both unions had been asked on Tuesday for an assurance that Atlantic and Gulf coast ships would sail in event the current negotiations were successfully completed.

The Masters, Mates and Pilots replied that they would give such an assurance if the other union would do likewise, Taylor added.

Taylor declared that the Marine Engineers Beneficial Union "flatly refused to give such an assurance unless and until the United States Maritime Commission would issue an order requiring its agents on the West coast to apply on government-owned ships the terms and conditions as finally negotiated for the East coast and the Gulf."

600 Ships Tied Up

The Atlantic and Gulf coast owners and agents, Taylor said, are willing to continue to negotiate but that the discussions "must be based on the understanding that, if successful, the men will return to work without awaiting action or approval by any party not connected with the negotiations."

"The position taken by both unions make such a result impossible to attain," Taylor's message commented.

The refusal of the unions to give an assurance that Atlantic and Gulf coast vessels would sail without regard to other occurrences or other contingencies has been communicated to the principals of our committee. In the absence of such an assurance the committee has been instructed to withdraw from the current negotiations. All tentative suggestions, tentative offers and understandings made during the course of these negotiations must now be regarded as withdrawn."

The 10-day strike has tied up 600 ships on all coasts of the United States.

Surrender Ends "March To Glory" Of Portuguese

Young Army Officer Leads Small Group Of Soldiers In Revolt

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 10 (AP) — A young Portuguese army officer led a small group of cavalrymen and armoured cars on a "march to glory to conquer freedom" in Northern Portugal in a short-lived revolt today, it was reported here.

The incident caused the government of Premier Dr. Antonio De Oliveira Salazar to take extraordinary military precautions in the capital and cut the city off from communications with most of Portugal and the world.

The precautions were ordered at 3 a. m. The situation appeared under control at 3 p. m.

Communique Expected

An official communique was expected later, to be followed by the restoration of Lisbon's telephone communications with Northern and Southern Portugal.

Reports reaching the capital said the young officer broke into a cavalry barracks at Monte Predralva near Oporto, harrangued the soldiers to begin "a march to glory to conquer freedom," and persuaded four or five score to join him.

Near Coimbra, a third of the way to Lisbon, however, they were met by a detachment of Republican guardsmen (militarized police) and persuaded to surrender. Coimbra is 100 miles north of the capital.

(London reported its telephone service with Lisbon was cut off after receipt of this incomplete dispatch, the British Post Office saying it could not put through calls until tomorrow.

Opposition To Premier Reported

(Authoritative diplomatic sources in London said reports had been reaching the British government of opposition to the "benevolent dictatorship" of Premier Dr. Antonio De Oliveira Salazar and that "deep rumblings of discontentment, if not exactly a civil war" could be expected.

(The Portuguese Embassy in London did not receive its usual telephone call from Lisbon.)

All troops, police and the anti-Communist volunteer legion, "Legiao Portuguesa," were called to their barracks at 3 a. m. as a preventive measure.

Future Of Government Pay Control Up In Air

Truman Delays Accepting Resignations Of Two Industry Members Of Wage Board

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The future of the government's pay controls was up in the air tonight as President Truman delayed accepting the resignations of the two industry members of the Wage Stabilization Board.

A. Colman Barrett and Earl N. Cannon, reported to be dissatisfied because the board was by-passed in order to give maritime strikers more money than it was willing to sanction, asked that their resignations be made effective today. But Mr. Truman said at a news conference that he had made no decision on whether to accept them.

Barrett told reporters after the White House statement that he would attend a meeting of the board scheduled for tomorrow. But in a formal statement he added that "Mr. Cannon and I are of the opinion that all wage controls should be ended. We hope that the President will not deliberate too long in accepting our resignation and ending all wage controls."

Leans Toward Public Board

"If we are to have wage controls," Barrett added to reporters, "I would rather see a public board rather than a tri-partite board which was very good during the war but has outlived its usefulness." The present board has been composed of public, industry and labor members.

Chairman W. Willard Wirtz, of the board, told a news conference that he had taken a poll of industry representatives on the 11 regional boards, serving under the national board, and had found a division of opinion about resigning.

He said resignations had been received from the industry members of the Seattle and San Francisco boards, but that the others had not resigned "and most of them have indicated that they have no present intention to do so."

Barett said he had polled the regional board members yesterday and "was surprised at what I learned indirectly today." He expressed the opinion that the majority of the industry members in the field would choose to resign.

Armed Forces Send German V-2 Rocket 102 Miles Into Air

WHITE SANDS, N. M., Oct. 10. (AP)—The armed forces sent a German V-2 rocket 102 miles high today at the rate of 3,600 miles per hour and kept it aloft for 11 minutes with special devices which slowed its descent.

The warhead carried cameras and various instruments, including improved Geiger counters for obtaining cosmic ray data. These instruments were installed under the direction of the Naval Research Laboratory, Washington, D. C.

Initial tests were made with new devices which were ejected at selected points in the missile's downward projectory. These were designed to slow down its velocity and protect the instruments.

AFL And CIO Vie For Power Union

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 10 (AP) — Three other labor unions sought today to become bargaining agent for 1,700 members of the striking independent power union, as the city's costly power strike dragged through its 17th day.

A National Labor Relations Board hearing was held on a petition of the AFL-United Mine Workers District 50 for a bargaining election of production and maintenance workers of the struck Duquesne Light Company. Two other labor organizations, the CIO Utility Workers and International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL), intervened and asked to be included in any election.

Negotiations still appeared tightly deadlocked, but federal conciliators plugged away and were scheduled to meet tonight with company representatives.

In Washington, Ernie Adamson, counsel for the House Committee on Unamerican Activites, said the committee was investigating what he termed "subversive influences at work in Pittsburgh."

Adamson said the activities had been noted by the committee "in connection with the numerous strikes and particularly the electrical tieup" and that Committee Chairman Wood (D-Ga) intended to examine several witnesses in Pittsburgh and other cities.

The statement said Adamson had "Personally observed conditions in Pittsburgh and that the community is approaching a state of anarchy."

Hull Is Improving

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP) — Cordell Hull showed considerable improvement today, the Naval Hospital reported. This was noted in a 4 p. m. bulletin issued by the hospital, where the 75-year old former Secretary of State is being treated for a stroke which he suffered September 30.

Beef Packers File Petition For Decontrol

President Declines To Say If He Still Favors Price Ceilings

Full Cabinet To Review Shortage Today; No Action "Imminent"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—With the question of easing meat controls to the fore, President Truman went into a huddle tonight with key advisors, including the two who would draft any executive order.

The decontrol issue was placed squarely up to the administration in a formal petition of the beef packers, backed by sworn statements that livestock on the hoof is plentiful.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, to whom the petition was made, promised a speedy answer. He presumably will be governed by the President's position.

That was emphatically against removing ceilings two weeks ago. But a question mark appeared today when the President at his news conference declined to comment when asked whether he still holds that view.

No Decision Reached

The session at the White House reached no decision, Press Secretary Charles G. Ross reported, and the full Cabinet will review the meat shortage tomorrow. Ross said tonight's meeting "was simply a session in which the President listened to these men." They included both Attorney General Clark and Clark Clifford, presidential legal counsel, as well as officials directly concerned with meat.

Democratic Chairman Robert E. Hannegan was one of the conferees. The others were Undersecretary of the Treasury O. Max Gardner, Undersecretary of State Will Clayton, Reconversion Directer John R. Steelman, Price Administrator Paul Porter, Richard H. Field of the OPA and Robert H. Shields of the Agriculture Department. Anderson himself was out of town.

The session lasted an hour and 45 minutes. It was the fourth such conference within a week, but the first attended personally by Mr. Truman.

No Action "Imminent"

Questioning turned to other matters and then returned to the meat question when a reporter asked whether the President "refused to affirm" his position for retention of

Heirens Still Seeks Suicide Opportunity

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 10 (AP)—William Heirens, 17-year-old slayer of three persons, told interviewers today he is still seeking an opportunity for suicide.

Facing reporters in the warden's office of the prison diagnostic depot, the former university student who dismembered 6-year-old Suzanne Degnan and killed two women during a career of burglaries in Chicago, said he was "sorry" a guard didn't shoot him Tuesday when he threw rocks at the man.

"I'll try again," he added.

President Tosses Job Of Settling Taft-Dewey Dispute To Republicans

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP) — President Truman, who has been having his own party troubles over foreign policy, gleefully tossed to the Republicans today the job of settling their dispute over the Nuernberg trials.

The clash between Sen. Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, both 1948 GOP presidential prospects, over the justice of the war guilt trials was put up to the President for comment at his news conference.

Apparently anticipating the question, Mr. Truman smilingly replied: He believes that is a matter which Taft and Dewey can settle, don't you? It was his only extended reply to several political queries and it brought much laughter.

Taft declared in Gambier, O., last Saturday that the Nuernberg trials were a miscarriage of justice which the American people would regret.

Dewey said the trials were justified. In a statement last Monday, in which he was joined by Irving M. Ives, GOP nominee for United States senator in New York, the republican gubernatorial candidate said:

"The defendants at Nuernberg had a fair and extensive trial. No one can have any sympathy for these Nazi leaders who brought such agony upon the world. While the just penalties imposed can neither expiate their sins nor bring back the life of millions for whose deaths they are responsible, their sentences will serve as a warning against future acts of aggression and oppression by totalitarian rulers."

President Truman told other questioners today he had no campaign plans as yet. He said he does not contemplate at this time a political speech in New York before the elections, but has under consideration whether to make a speech opening the General Assembly of the United Nations at Lake Success October 23.

Army Cuts November Draft Call To 15,000

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Army has cut its November draft call to 15,000 men, the smallest since Selective Service started before Pearl Harbor.

The October quota was 35,000 and September's 25,000.

Maj. Gen. Willard S. Paul, War Department personnel director, said the record-breaking enlistment of nearly one million volunteers in the last year was the primary reason for the reduction.

President Says:

British Have No Atomic Bombs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The British have no atom bombs, President Truman declared flatly today—and diplomats expressed belief his statement might help relieve tension abroad.

Answering two direct questions inspired by published reports that a supply of the devastating missiles had been turned over to Britiain, Mr. Truman told his news conference without qualification:

1. The British have none of the bombs.

2. There are no atomic bombs stockpiled in Britain.

He did not elaborate on his terse responses but apparently they meant that the United States continues to exercise so far as responsible government officials know, a complete monopoly on possession of the bombs. The weapon was developed jointly by the United States, Britain and Canada during the war and subsequently they have shared in policy-making proposals for its international control.

The common interest in the bomb's development and use had given rise to reports, in connection with the prolonged British-American diplomatic conflict with Russia, that a supply of the missiles had been turned over for stockpiling in the British isles. Insofar as these reports may have contributed to uncertainities in international affairs, diplomats said that Mr. Truman's assurances should put down any concern abroad over atomic bomb maneuvers.

The President also said there had been no decision yet on the Army Air Forces' proposal for a round-the-world flight of B-29 bombers. These are the planes capable of carrying atomic bombs and their mass flight would dramatize the striking power of the American air arm.

AFL President Green Turns Down British Bid To Work With WFTU

CHICAGO, Oct. 10. (AP) — AFL President William Green today flatly turned down a British bid to cooperate with the World Federation of Trade Unions, a group including the CIO in its membership but tagged by Green as Communist-dominated.

Green told the American Federation of Labor convention he thought the British labor movement's position was "contradictory" because it co-operated with Soviet Russia in the WFTU yet refused to accept the Communist Party in the British Labor Party.

The AFL leader spoke in reply to a speech delivered to the convention by Thomas O'Brien, a fraternal delegate representing the British Trade Union Congress and a member of Parliament. O'Brien had asked the AFL, regardless of whether it agreed with all WFTU policies, to co-operate in the interest of a unified worldwide trade unionism.

"We know that you can't make a decision in the WFTU without first ascertaining what the dictator in Moscow shall say about it," Green shouted to convention applause. O'Brien listened smilingly from the convention platform.

Secretary of War Patterson, in an address prepared for the afternoon session, disclosed that a guided missile, with a range "far greater than the German long-range rockets," is a "probability in a matter of months."

Patterson made the disclosure in speaking of the terrible swiftness and effectiveness of weapons to be used in any future war.

The War Secretary said he was convinced that eventually the spread of the doctrine of free speech will greatly minimize the chances for war but that meanwhile "it is our ability to protect ourselves that counts in a world that still talks in terms of planes, tanks and guns."

Markey In Favor Of Tossing OPA "Out Window"

GOP Candidate For Senate Criticizes "Alien Leadership" Of CIO

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10. (AP) — D. John Markey, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, said today he was in favor of throwing "the OPA out the window, lock, stock and barrel, as soon as possible."

In a speech before the Kiwanis Club, he declared that "end price control and you'll end confusion, you'll end corruption and you'll end Communism in this country."

Criticizing what he termed the "alien leadership" of the CIO Markey said many CIO leaders could not speak "plain English" and had changed their names.

He declared the presidents or other officers of about 40 CIO unions had been cited by congressional committees for alleged Red or leftists activities.

He quoted Attorney General Tom C. Clark to the effect that about 2,000 aliens were entering the United States illegally each day and only about half were being apprehended.

"And that's the group that has come into control of the CIO," he asserted.

Markey said the current commodity shortages were attributable directly to the national administration and that Gov. O'Conor, his Democratic opponent for the senatorship, had "always been a member of the inner circle" of the administration.

The Republican senatorial nominee was the second of the major party standardbearers in Maryland to address the Kiwanis Club. William Preston Lane, Jr., the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, spoke at its meeting last week and Theodore R. McKeldin, the GOP candidate for governor and Gov. O'Conor will speak later this month.

WATERMAN WOUNDED IN COURSE OF ARREST

PIKESVILLE, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)—A state police report said today that Charles Webster, 24-year-old Chance, Md., waterman, was shot by a conservation enforcement officer in the course of an arrest on the lower Potomac river.

The police report, dated today, said state police were told by state conservation officers that Webster was alleged to have been dredging for oysters in Smith's creek when he was approached by the conservation boat Friday.

"He attempted to flee in his boat," the report stated, "and he was pursued by Capt. Nace Burch in the conservation boat and when he failed to stop, he was fired on by Mr. Burch.

"A deflected bullet struck Mr. Webster in the back. The boat then stopped, and Webster and two other occupants of the boat were taken into custody."

Webster was charged with illegal dredging of oysters in the Potomac and he was released Sunday under $200 bail for a magistrate's hearing in Leonardtown on Monday, October 14.

At Salisbury, Gov. O'Conor called for a full report on the incident after former State Sen. Harry T. Phoebus brought the case to his attention.

Associated Press Conference Ends

NATURAL BRIDGE, Va., Oct. 10. (AP)—Members of the Associated Press from four states and the District of Columbia visited today Washington and Lee University, site of the first collegiate institute of journalism in the world, and concluded a two-day program with a banquet tonight after voting to make the regional meetings an annual event.

White Sulphur Spring, W. Va., was chosen as the place of the next meeting, in August, 1947.

The newspapermen and women from Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland and Washington visited Lee Chapel at the Lexington University this afternoon, when Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines, president of Washington and Lee, described the history of the chapel and its association with Gen. Romania Peace

In respect to equal trade privileges Bevin asserted that it "will be very difficult for us to accept the final treaty unless Great Britain is given precisely the same treatment as others are given."

Soviet Minister V. M. Molotov responded with the statement that if equal trade privileges were permitted in the Balkans the "power of the American dollar" would overwhelm weak, local industries and "take everything."

He added that "we must take care that no postwar difficulties be exploited by 'dollar democracies.'"

Three Treaty Problems Remain

Molotov declared that the principle of internationalization could be applied as well to the Panama and Suez Canals, taking a stand similar to that of Edvard Kardelj, of Yugoslavia, who told the conference earlier that "power politics" and a fight for "spheres of influence" were evident in the stand of the western powers.

Final approval of the Romanian treaty leaves only three of the 10 most disputed treaty problems still before the delegates. All are involved in the Bulgarian, Hungarian and Finnish treaties.

These are the Greek-Bulgarian frontier, which the Bulgarian Political Commission left as it was before the war, an American demanded defeated in commission for a reduction of $100,000,000 in the $300,000,000 in reparations which the Slav states want from Hungary; a Czechoslovak demand for trans-Czech territory to Hungary which the Hungarian Commission answered by instructing the two countries to find a solution through direct negotiations.

O'Conor Projects Tax Reform Plan

SALISBURY, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)—A four-ply tax reform program for the federal government was projected in an address tonight by Gov. O'Conor, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate.

The retiring Governor, impressed by the achievement of the commission headed by Judge Joseph Sherbow on the distribution of tax revenues in Maryland, said that if he is elected he will move for appointment of a similar committee to deal with federal taxation.

The Sherbow Commission, in its report issued last week, recommended major revisions in fiscal methods, taxation and division of revenues from state taxes.

O'Conor said that under his plan a federal commission would be instructed to draft recommendations for:

1. Simplifying taxation.
2. Eliminating double taxation of the same sources of public revenue, and ending existing multiplication of taxing operations.
3. Devising a new allocation of tax sources among federal, state and municipal governments.
4. Halting what he called "the inquisitorial features" of tax collecting with the aim of freeing business from cumbersome tax accounting.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10 (AP)—Formation of a Canadian Lutheran Council was approved today by delegates to the 15th biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America, and Philadelphia was selected as the site of the church's 1948 convention.

Delegates completed action on the proposed formation by approving the constitution of the Canadian council. The new federation previously was approved by the American Lutheran Church, the Norwegian Lutheran Church of Canada, the Augustana Synod, Lutheran Free Church, United Evangelical Lutheran Church and other branches of the council.

West Va. Slayer To Hang Tonight

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 10 (AP) — Richard Lee Collins, 22-year-old condemned slayer, lost his plea for clemency today and will go to the gallows at Moundsville State Penitentiary tomorrow night for the fatal shooting of a young Charleston salesman.

Gov. Meadows announced in Charleston that after reviewing evidence and facts placed before him, "it appears to be impossible to reach any other conclusion but that the murder committed by this young man was premeditated, cold-blooded and without semblance of justification."

"The course of the law as it is written must be followed," the Governor said in a statement.

Collins was convicted in Kanawha county last May of first degree murder without recommendation for mercy in the fatal shooting of Denver D. (Red) Hill, prominent salesman and one-time high school athletic figure.

Beef Packers

meat ceilings, which he enunciated emphatically at another session with reporters just two weeks ago.

The answer to the question was a negative and Mr. Truman added that he had no comment to make at this time.

To another question as to whether there is any action "imminent," Mr. Truman replied there is not.

Beef packers formally petitioned for decontrol with sworn statements that there are 34 per cent more cattle on the hoof now than before the war and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson promised a quick answer.

The packers' chairman, R. G. Haynie, Chicago, offered plenty of meat "very soon"—perhaps before the November elections—if the price controls are removed.

Unconfirmed Report

One unconfirmed report gaining some circulation was that a plan is under consideration by which the government might guarantee to livestock owners who market their animals now any higher prices which might result later from removal of ceilings or other factors.

Officials commented, however, that the government has no funds at present by which it could operate such a program.

Another possible source of more meat, but a minor one, was an offer by the Argentine ambassador, Oscar Ivanissevich, of immediate shipment of 4,000,000 pounds of his country's canned meat. He made his offer to Anderson, with whom he had a conference. This would make only a small dent in the shortage, however, and Argentina already is shipping canned meat here—August shipments were 1,920,772 pounds.

The OPA made some adjustments in retail meat ceilings during the day to iron out various inequities but said the action had no connection with the shortage. The changes, effective Monday, increase prices of the two top grades of veal an average of seven and eight cents a pound and revise many beef and pork prices one or two cents, some higher and some lower than present ceilings. Ceilings also were raised on wholesale veal carcasses, but no changes were made in livestock ceilings.

Future Of Government

Wirtz, who described himself as a "strong believer in the tri-partite board," said the resignation of Barrett and Cannon were received with regret.

"The resignations do not in any way suspend, modify or affect the provisions of the Stabilization Act, the executive orders, or the regulations relating to wage stabilization and the jurisdiction and functions of the board," Wirtz said.

"The board is continuing to receive applications for approval of wage adjustments as heretofore.

"All staff operations of the board are continuing without change. Regional board meetings scheduled for today and tomorow have been postponed, however, until next week."

Romania Peace

In respect to equal trade privileges Bevin asserted that it 'will be very difficult for us to accept the final treaty unless Great Britain is given precisely the same treatment as others are given."

Soviet Minister V. M. Molotov responded with the statement that if equal trade privileges were permitted in the Balkans the "power of the American dollar" would overwhelm weak, local industries and "take everything."

He added that "we must take care that no postwar difficulties be exploited by 'dollar democracies.'"

Three Treaty Problems Remain

Molotov declared that the principle of internationalization could be applied as well to the Panama and Suez Canals, taking a stand similar to that of Edvard Kardelj, of Yugoslavia, who told the conference earlier that "power politics" and a fight for "spheres of influence" were evident in the stand of the western powers.

Final approval of the Romanian treaty leaves only three of the 10 most disputed treaty problems still before the delegates. All are involved in the Bulgarian, Hungarian and Finnish treaties.

These are the Greek-Bulgarian frontier, which the Bulgarian Political Commission left as it was before the war, an American demanded defeated in commission for a reduction of $100,000,000 in the $300,000,000 in reparations which the Slav states want from Hungary; a Czechoslovak demand for trans-Czech territory to Hungary which the Hungarian Commission answered by instructing the two countries to find a solution through direct negotiations.

Approximately 90 per cent of China's 450,000,000 people are classed as poor.'

O'Conor Projects Tax Reform Plan

SALISBURY, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)—A four-ply tax reform program for the federal government was projected in an address tonight by Gov. O'Conor, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate.

The retiring Governor, impressed by the achievement of the commission headed by Judge Joseph Sherbow on the distribution of tax revenues in Maryland, said that if he is elected he will move for appointment of a similar committee to deal with federal taxation.

The Sherbow Commission, in its report issued last week, recommended major revisions in fiscal methods, taxation and division of revenues from state taxes.

O'Conor said that under his plan a federal commission would be instructed to draft recommendations for:

1. Simplifying taxation.
2. Eliminating double taxation of the same sources of public revenue, and ending existing multiplication of taxing operations.
3 Devising a new allocation of tax sources among federal, state and municipal governments.
4. Halting what he called "the inquisitorial features" of tax collecting with the aim of freeing business from cumbersome tax accounting.

Dancer Donna Drake Receives Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10 (AP) — Dancer Donna Drake won a divorce today from Jesse Lasky, Jr., testifying he was jealous of their baby and "being called Daddy made him feel aged and uncolorful."

Miss Drake, 30, tearfully said her 35-year-old husband returned from service with the Army's Signal Corps and told her he didn't love me because his career was more important than his marriage."

Under a property settlement, Miss Drake receives custody of the baby, Jennifer, 11 months, and a minimum of $5,000 annually.

Canadian Lutheran Council Is Approved

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10 (AP)—Formation of a Canadian Lutheran Council was approved today by delegates to the 15th biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America, and Philadelphia was selected as the site of the church's 1948 convention.

Delegates completed action on the proposed formation by approving the constitution of the Canadian council. The new federation previously was approved by the American Lutheran Church, the Norwegian Lutheran Church of Canada, the Augustana Synod, Lutheran Free Church, United Evangelical Lutheran Church and other branches of the council.

West Va. Slayer To Hang Tonight

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 10 (AP) — Richard Lee Collins, 22-year-old condemned slayer, lost his plea for clemency today and will go to the gallows at Moundsville State Penitentiary tomorrow night for the fatal shooting of a young Charleston salesman.

Gov. Meadows announced in Charleston that after reviewing evidence and facts placed before him, "it appears to be impossible to reach any other conclusion but that the murder committed by this young man was premeditated, cold-blooded and without semblance of justification."

"The course of the law as it is written must be followed," the Governor said in a statement.

Collins was convicted in Kanawha county last May of first degree murder without recommendation for mercy in the fatal shooting of Denver D. (Red) Hill, prominent salesman and one-time high school athletic figure.

Beef Packers

meat ceilings, which he enunciated emphatically at another session with reporters just two weeks ago.

The answer to the question was a negative and Mr. Truman added that he had no comment to make at this time.

To another question as to whether there is any action "imminent," Mr. Truman replied there is not.

Beef packers formally petitioned for decontrol with sworn statements that there are 34 per cent more cattle on the hoof now than before the war and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson promised a quick answer.

The packers' chairman, R. G. Haynie, Chicago, offered plenty of meat "very soon"—perhaps before the November elections—if the price controls are removed.

Unconfirmed Report

One unconfirmed report gaining some circulation was that a plan is under consideration by which the government might guarantee to livestock owners who market their animals now any higher prices which might result later from removal of ceilings or other factors.

Officials commented, however, that the government has no funds at present by which it could operate such a program.

Another possible source of more meat, but a minor one, was an offer by the Argentine ambassador, Oscar Ivanissevich, of immediate shipment of 4,000,000 pounds of his country's canned meat. He made his offer to Anderson, with whom he had a conference. This would make only a small dent in the shortage, however, and Argentina already is shipping canned meat here—August shipments were 1,920,772 pounds.

The OPA made some adjustments in retail meat ceilings during the day to iron out various inequities but said the action had no connection with the shortage. The changes, effective Monday, increase prices of the two top grades of veal an average of seven and eight cents a pound and revise many beef and pork prices one or two cents, some higher and some lower than present ceilings. Ceilings also were raised on wholesale veal carcasses, but no changes were made in livestock ceilings.

Future Of Government

Wirtz, who described himself as a "strong believer in the tri-partite board," said the resignation of Barrett and Cannon were received with regret.

"The resignations do not in any way suspend, modify or affect the provisions of the Stabilization Act, the executive orders, or the regulations relating to wage stabilization and the jurisdiction and functions of the board," Wirtz said.

"The board is continuing to receive applications for approval of wage adjustments as heretofore.

"All staff operations of the board are continuing without change. Regional board meetings scheduled for today and tomorow have been postponed, however, until next week."

Surrender Ends

Private telephone communications between Lisbon and the northern and southern parts of the country were banned by order of the government. Efforts to reach Madrid by telephone also were impossible.

I CAN'T BE INSULTED

I get a lot of mad letters.

Somebody is always getting his or her feelings hurt.

I bet I know enough domestic dirt to retire and live off blackmail the rest of my life, if that should be my idea of fun, which it isn't.

Of course some of the mad letters are directed at me, first person singular. And frequently they are dillies.

They bothered me quite a lot when I first began writing this column, way back when. I have one of those Irish tempers that ignites very easily. And, I might as well admit, there's nothing I love much better than a good row.

So I certainly had my hands full when I started being a columnist. I was anybody's target and they soon got hep to the fact. They liked a good fight too and they were always willing to provide me with the makings. So life was just one merry brawl after another.

But I've changed. I still like to fight and I still have a temper. But I have a new hunch on life. Nobody can insult me now. And the reason for it is very simple. Either the other fellow is in the right — in which case I am grateful for his criticism. Or he's in the wrong, in which case I don't give a darn. But right or wrong, my blood pressure stays about the same.

No, it isn't because I'm getting old. I can mix into a nice juicy brawl with as much gusto as I had at 16—and a lot more technique. Nor is it because I'm reforming. Why reform? What's wrong about a good inspiring scrap now and then? The simple fact is that I have come to see that most of our battling is a great waste of time and emotion. It isn't worth the sweat we put into it.

There are so many delightful things you can do with your life. Swell ways of having fun, like swimming, or gardening, or putting up preserves or just sitting chatting with a well loved friend. They are all charming ways to use up time and energy. They all leave happy memories. Then why waste our all too few years in looking for trouble instead?

This applies particularly to families. More veterans of both sexes have fought and bled around the dining room table than on all the battlefields in the world. There's just something about family life that seems to get the human goat. Maybe it's because there is more rudeness in one hour of family life than in a year of social intercourse. We do things to each other in the domestic circle that would bring us a term in the pen if committed publicly.

We constantly meddle and interfere, interrupt, heckle and criticize. We violate each other's confidences without a twinge of remorse. And forthwith everyone is taking sides and banging the door or not speaking to each other.

Well, I'm neither a saint nor a philosopher. But it all seems pretty silly to me. Why get your feelings hurt when there are at least 8756 other things you can do with your emotions?

After all, before you stomp off in a huff, do you ever stop to think that the other fellow might possibly be right? Maybe you're a stinker after all. Might be!

Appears We Might Be Investing In Chaos

Just what do we expect to buy by the deal of lending Russian-dominated Poland $40,000,000 through the Export-Import Bank? All but $5,000,000 of the total will be spent in this country for coal cars and locomotives to move coal from Poland's Silesian mines for the fuel-starved countries of Europe, it is explained. That would make sense if this high priority equipment actually is so used.

But will coal be distributed according to need, or will the allocations be made on a political, ideological basis, which we understand has been the case with such coal as Poland has marketed abroad? Previous understandings with the provisional government at Warsaw haven't been worth the paper they were written on. The promised free elections—the principal condition upon which we predicted our recognition of the Polish government—have not been held. Non-Communist elements in Poland continue to be pushed around ruthlessly, notwithstanding guarantees of democratic policies and processes.

Poland has received $50,000,000 from the United States for acquiring war surpluses abroad, and that credit has brought neither co-operation nor good will. In addition to the new $40,000,000 loan from the Export-Import Bank for "urgent necessities," the Warsaw government is preparing an application for a $600,000,000 reconstruction loan from the International Bank. This adds up to a tidy sum, and for what?

The fact that the American people have every sympathy for the unfortunate people of war-ravaged Poland, who have suffered from invasion and from the twin hells of Nazism and Communism. But we are not lending money to the Polish people. We are lending it to a made-in-Moscow totalitarian government, imposed on unhappy Poland by Russian arms. The business looks like the UNRRA deal by which we got the horse in front of the cart and paid for a lot of things we didn't want, such as Marshal Tito's army. What we are buying now could fly back in our faces like the scrap iron we shipped to Japan before Pearl Harbor.

What war-sick Europe needs today is freedom from fear, a cessation of ideological and nationalistic conflicts, and a mutual-aid program of one for all and all for one. Money contributed to that kind of program would be well spent, for a stabilized Europe is essential to world peace.

But as preliminary steps to the development of a live-and-let-live economy, the iron curtain must be lifted, occupation zones released from their rigid controls, and barriers removed from the avenues of water, rail, highway and air traffic.

Loans to European countries should be conditioned on the removal of these obstacles to the resumption of a normal commercial life. Until they are removed, at best we will be pouring money into a bottomless hole. And at worst we may be sending it where it will be used to build up a totalitarian power bloc that will live to haunt us.

Harnessing the sun for power and heat would be a good idea if it could be turned off in the summertime.

Advice To Workers On Our Economic Problems

The bureau of labor statistics, an adjunct of Schwellenbach's department, reports that average hourly earnings of industrial workers have reached their highest point in the country's history and show no signs of leveling off. Since the first of the year there has been a steady rise averaging two cents a month. Bureau functionaries expect this trend to continue.

The bureau's statement and prediction do not go into the reasons for the upward march of labor costs, nor are any conclusions drawn. But the reasons are obvious. The rise must be attributed to the partial breaking through to an inflation cycle which has been permitted by the government responding to bloc pressure from the labor unions.

Recent statements by farm economics experts have been accompanied by warnings that farmers may be overreaching themselves by holding out for still higher prices than the record figures they now are receiving. The cost of the things they buy would catch up with them cutting drastically into their net profit.

The same warning might also apply to industrial workers and their union leaders. If they persist in their demands for higher and higher pay, the inflation spiral will catch up with them, also. Higher labor costs mean higher costs for manufactured goods, for everything the worker has to buy. The farmer must buy the manufactured goods and he must charge more for his produce to pay for them. Higher food costs then are saddled back on the worker.

Reason dictates an end to this see-saw. Its end, and the leveling-off of the national economy on a plane fair to all classes, lies in production. Preservation of buying power depends on cooperation in production, not only by the farmer and manufacturer, but also by the industrial worker. A nation of plenty that finds itself face to face with artificial shortages will turn eagerly to this solution.

A white collar worker may be unable to make a living in boom times, but his relatives certainly remember to look him up in hard times.

The Monev's Here

Thomas J. O'Donoghue of Dublin, Eire has heard that money in coarse bundles is available in the United States in response to the proper approach. He intends to get all he can of it.

O'Donoghue, employe of a Dublin law firm, figures he has the proper approach. He says he is a descendant of Capt. Thomas Dowling, who once owned Goat Island in San Francisco Bay. He says that in the middle of the nineteenth century the United States government took the island away from the Dowling family without compensation. During the war Goat Island was used as an American naval training base. O'Donoghue says he plans to seek payment of $4,000,000 to $8,000,000 from the United States for taking and using his family's erstwhile property.

Come on over, Thomas. If you make out a case and get the money, at least you will have earned it and not received it as an unappreciated gift, as some other people have done with Uncle Sam's bounty.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

FOLIC ACID IN SPRUE

SPRUE is a disease with a long historical background. In spite of its antiquity, only during the last decade has the true nature of the disorder been revealed. The name is derived from the Dutch word "sprouw," which was coined by Ketelaer in 1669.

Hillary tells of its occurrence in the Barbadoes island. He had heard of the condition but had never seen it. "After I came and in 1747, I did but see but one person who had it, in the first four years of my residing there; and three more in the next three years; but within the four last years past, it is become so frequent that I have seen some scores of patients labouring under it, yet it seems not to be in the least infectious or contagious."

This early observation is interesting for, until recently, many organisms had been implicated as causative factors. We know different now and, as Hillary said, it is neither infectious nor contagious.

Sprue is classified as a deficiency disease. The impairment lies in the gastro-intestinal tract which is unable to absorb certain vital substances. The lack of these elements leads to symptoms. The sprue syndrome can also appear in those who consume inadequate diets, which may explain many of the cases in the tropical areas.

Early in the course of the illness, the mouth becomes sore. The tongue burns, is beefy red in color, and is some times covered with tiny blisters which add to its sensitivity. Concurrently, appetite fails and gas and indigestion become troublesome. Finally the main manifestation—diarrhea—begins. The stools are typically foamy, and of a high fatty consistency.

As the malady progresses there is marked loss in weight, most evident in the arms and legs. The abdomen is frequently distended with gas and looks round an full. Changes are noted in the blood, consisting mainly of anemia which is indistinguishable from that found in pernicious anemia. In fact these two ailments have so many factors in common that they are thought to be related. X-rays of the intestinal tract may also reveal characteristic abnormalities.

A milestone was passed in treatment when it was found that many patients responded to a diet high in proteins and vitamins but low in carbohydrates and fats, plus the injection of liver extract. But during the last year a new drug has appeared on the scene which is so encouraging that it may supplant all other methods. Folic acid (lactobacillus casei factor) was discovered while doing experiments on monkeys in whom a condition somewhat analogous to sprue had been produced artifically. The preparation restored these animals to normal. It was then tried on humans. Relief was noted in the tongue within a few days ;and diarrhea began to subside at the end of a week. Marked improvement in the blood count likewise ensued. When the same compound was used in pernicious anemia the results were equally satisfactory.

It is quite possible that the missing link has been discovered and that another ailment has been tamed.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

A. A. R. writes: Are filarisis and elephantiasis the same disease?

REPLY

Filariasis is a tropical disease, caused by the presence of one of the filaria organisms. In severe cases, the lymph channels become blocked and swelling occurs. If the vessels in the lower extremities are obstructed, for example, the legs assume huge proportions, almost like an elephant's. This phase of the disorder is known as "elephantiasis." Long exposure is required before this stage is reached and this phenomenon is rarely observed among our soldiers, who were exposed for comparatively short periods.

RHEUMATIC CHAP

L. S. writes: Will a fellow who has rheumatic pains in different parts of the body every day eventually become a chronic invalid?

REPLY

The chances are that he will not because sooner or later the source of infection will become evident. With its removal, discomfort should disappear. Sometimes no cause can be found, but so long as arthritis does not develop, there is a possibility that the trouble will ultimately burn itself out.

BLOOD VESSEL CHANGES

L. A. writes: What is a vascular headache?

REPLY

One which appears when the vessels in the brain are dilated or overstretched. The histamine and migraine types serve as good examples.

Truman Beat Dewey On Jewish Migration Statement; Nimitz Tells Kangaroo Story; Rhode Island Gets Airport Back From The Navy

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—Here is the inside story on how President Truman happened to issue his recent statement on Jewish immigration into Palestine.

About a week before the statement, Dave Niles, one of Truman's White House secretaries, tipped him to the fact that Governor Dewey was speaking before the United Jewish Appeal on the week-end of the Jewish holiday and would make a strong statement for Jewish migration. Niles suggested that Truman beat Dewey to the punch and re-emphasize his own previous position for Jewish migration.

Accordingly, the White House asked Acting Secretary of State Will Clayton to draft a statement for the President to be issued on Oct. 4, the eve of Yom Kippur. Clayton turned the matter over to Loy Henderson, head of the State Department's Near East Division, who has been accused of being pro-Arab, and who came up with a milk-and-water statement calculated not to offend the British and Arabs.

When this went over to the White House, it got the immediate thumbs-down sign. By this time Under-Secretary Dean Acheson had returned and taken over the helm in the State Department. He sat up most of one night redrafting and toughening up the statement on Palestine, which Truman finally issued just two days before Dewey's speech.

Note—Having been beaten to the punch, Dewey came out not for the migration of 100,000 Jews but for "hundreds of thousands."

Kangaroo Shuns White House

When the crew of the Navy's Truculent Turtle visited the White House the other day, President Truman inquired at some length about "Joey," the nine-month-old kangaroo the fliers brought back for the Washington zoo.

"We thought about bringing Joey over to see you," Flight Commander Thomas D. Davies explained. "But she's hard to handle. You have to hold her by the tail and she claws like the devil. It's a full-time job for one man to carry her around.

"However, that isn't the main reason we didn't bring her with us," continued Davies. "You see, Joey isn't housebroken yet, and we figured that the White House wasn't a good place to bring her under those conditions."

Truman said he quite understood.

Admiral Nimitz, who accompanied the navy fliers, then told about a baby kangaroo who kept jumping out of his mother's pouch. Tiring of putting him back in, the papa kangaroo cuffed his ears and told him to stay put.

"Don't blame me, papa," moaned the little kangaroo. "Mama's got the hiccups."

Truman Likes To Be Friendly

One reason the President so often finds himself in hot water is that he isn't quite tough enough with his own friends. In the end he can say "no" and say it with vigor, but when a friend like Henry Wallace tackles him on foreign policy, or when Congressman John McCormack of Massachusetts tackles him on meat, his first inclination is to go along.

For instance, when House Majority Leader McCormack publicly urged the President to remove ceilings on meat prices he thought he was doing so with the President's okay. But after the McCormack statement, OPA chief Paul Porter called and told the President he had heard that the McCormack statement was encouraged by the White House.

"I can't have any hope of winning the fight to keep prices down when we get statements like that from supposed responsible leaders of the administration—and especially when you advise such statements," Porter said.

The President replied that he had been in contact with McCormack, but that McCormack must have misunderstood him. He had sympathized with McCormack but had never meant for McCormack to issue such a statement. Later in the day he made it very plain in tough language to the nation that he stood four-square behind Porter and the OPA.

Panic-Stricken Navy

Funny how little rumors grow into big things. The War Assets Administration recently handed a large naval airport at Westerly back to the state of Rhode Island, and it all came about from a chance remark made to a policeman.

For more than a year Rhode Island had negotiated with the Navy for the return of the Westerly airport. But red tape was too hard to unravel. A couple of weeks ago, however, Governor John Pastore was driving by the airfield and stopped at the main entrance to chat with a state trooper whom he had known for a long time.

During their conversation the trooper asked the Governor how negotiations for return of the field were going.

"It's still tied up in red tape," the Governor replied; then jokingly added: "I guess the only thing to do is to send some of you boys down to seize the field and take it over for the state."

Pastore drove off and forgot about the incident. But two days later, he got a telephone call from Assistant Secretary of the Navy John Sullivan in Washington.

"John," said Sullivan, "we've got to talk this thing over! What an ungodly mess it would be if you sent your troopers out to seize that field from the Navy."

Completely stumped for a moment, Gov. Pastore finally remembered his conversation with the state trooper. He decided to bluff his way through.

"We simply can't wait any longer, John," he told Sullivan. "The state needs that field for overflow air traffic. We've been waiting long enough. In one week, if I don't have action down there, I'm going to send a company of state police to take over—and I don't think the United States Navy wants to go to war with the State of Rhode Island."

Sullivan urged Pastore to "hold everything." Before the week was more than half up, representatives of the Navy, the WAA and the Civil Aeronautics Association were in Pastore's office and the State of Rhode Island had its airfield once again.

Note—What the Governor didn't know was that a Naval night-watchman overheard the remark to the state trooper and excitedly phoned the Navy. Actually the Navy was not responsible for the delay since the law requires that transfer be arranged through the War Assets Administration.

War Crimes Trial Seen As An Act Of Primitive Justice

By SAMUEL R. PETTENGILL

The Nuernberg trial was both an act of primitive justice and a piece of international humbug. That the defendants deserved what they got is admitted. Their crimes the "multitudinous seas incarnadine." They are written on millions of graves.

But any trial which amounts to one law for the conqueror and another for the conquered, will not long satisfy the conscience of mankind, or serve the cause of peace.

That it was the Russian judge on the high court who cried the loudest for "justice" is irony supreme. Did not Russia invade Poland at the same time Hitler's hordes poured in from the West? Was that an act of aggression or not? Was that a breach of the Kellogg-Briand treaty which outlawed war as an instrument of national policy, a treaty which was the chief legal basis of the Nuernberg trial? Who will sit in judgment on that crime? Did the Red Army carve up, without warning, a little country which had given her no offense, and whose boundaries Russia had covenanted to respect? Were Poles shipped to Siberia in freight cars in the dead of winter? Did tens of thousands die on the way?

Who was it said, "One swift blow to Poland, first, by the German Army and then by the Red Army, and nothing was left of this ugly offspring of the Versailles treaty"? It was Molotov, not Goering.

Makes Other Criminals Respectable

It would have been far better if the Nuernberg court had been composed of judges from Switzerland, Sweden, Portugal and Ireland which were neutral in the war. Then blame might have been assessed without hypocrisy.

The court complains that the Nazis planned for conquest—as they did. But did they do it without aid from countries which have now rendered judgment against them? What about the British agreements that allowed Hitler to build a navy and air force in violation of the Versailles treaty and over the objection of France?

Is actual bloodshed the only aggression that is a crime? Is military intimidation to go scot free? Is it all right for a robber to stick up his victim so long as he doesn't pull the trigger?

Crimes Committed By Judges

Who is aggressing against Turkey with respect to the Dardanelles? Who aggressed against Iran's oil fields? Under whose orders were American flyers so recently shot down? Is anyone going to be tried for that?

Russia had a non-aggression treaty with Japan! Who broke that? And who urged Russia to do so?

The document setting up the Nuernberg court includes as crimes not only "murder, extermination and enslavement" but "other inhumane acts committed against any civilian population before or during the war." How do we classify the bomb on Hiroshima?

Slave labor? What about the hundreds of thousands of captured German soldiers still held in France and England, a year and a half after the war ended?

Who is the aggressor in the civil war in China?

Unless the conscience of all mankind can again be pricked with "Mea Culpa"—"I too have sinned"—it will be said again, as it was 2000 years ago, "The strong do what they are able, and the weak suffer for what they must."

Do the Atlantic Charter and the United Nations Charter embody principles we are determined to apply equally to all men, in all circumstances? That is the question.

Army Air Forces Should Make Up Own Mind Where Planes Will Fly

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. — The War Department folks may have miscued somewhat when they let it be known they had asked the Department of State if a group of B-29's could fly around the world.

There's no more reason why the Army Air Forces or any other part of our armed services should ask the Department of State for permission to practice or to engage in maneuvers to improve their own efficiency than there is for the diplomatic branch of the government to ask the armed services whether they would object to a strong or weak foreign policy.

If the Department of State should now say it doesn't object, it raises questions abroad, because then the mission of the B-29's becomes directly tied up with the foreign policy of the United States and gives an inference of potential threat or maneuvering to achieve a certain position in diplomacy.

It would have been much better if the Army Air Forces had made up its own mind to fly the B-29's anywhere in the world. For just as the Navy can go anywhere it pleases today, so can the Army Air Forces.

Since this is one world and since distance has been reduced to a matter of hours in flying around the world, it is evident that any air force which is to be used by the United Nations in the future must be conversant with flying conditions around the globe.

Practical Operations Necessary

The American weapons of war cannot be kept up to date if they are not used for maneuvers or practice operations. So long as the United Nations is charged with the duty of preserving the peace of the world—and air force operations are certain to be an integral part of any mission which seeks to fulfill that duty—the need for flights around the world by heavy bombers or any other kind of plane is apparent.

The recent flight of the Army Air Force plane from Honolulu to Cairo was not just a stunt to determine an endurance record. It was a natural and logical operation designed to ascertain what are the flying conditions in the Arctic areas. This will be taken by some observers to be associated somehow with the possibility of future operations against Russia but such an inference can only be the conclusion of those who prefer "war mongering" to the real explanation.

Long before the Second World War broke out, aviation experts in America were pointing out that the shortest distance around the world was over the Polar regions and were predicting that commercial routes would go across the top of the world because these would be shorter and perhaps even safer.

The airplane as a weapon of war or as a vehicle of commerce is still new to many people but not to the men who make planes or those who flew them in the war. The airplane presupposed "one world" long before the phrase was applied to international politics or the United Nations.

Must Practice Constantly

It is, on the other hand, the task of military men to perfect their weapons. This means constant practice flights under all sorts of conditions. To operate a mass flight of B-29's over long distances requires techniques that are constantly changing. If, therefore, the Army Air Forces, one month, want to fly over the North Pole and then on a subsequent occasion want to fly around the South Pole in order to map out new routes of travel, this is not to be associated in any way with diplomacy or foreign policy.

To be influenced by the hush-hush policies of the diplomats is to incur unnecessary risks. Fear of offending Japan caused the Department of State or the Navy Department or the administration as a whole to hesitate to press congress for money to fortify Guam. The whole course of the war in the Pacific might have been changed and many lives saved if the Navy Department had followed military logic and insisted on protecting its own in the Pacific.

The danger is that the armed services will again become victims of inhibitions placed on them by diplomats. In a realistic world the military men should be given every encouragement to engage in maneuvers or practice, especially in the stratosphere, which certainly ought to be as free to our planes as the oceans are to our ships.

Today's Talk

UNBROKEN ROADS

Roads have been wonderful civilizers. First they were mere paths, then widened and later, many of them, paved for highways, leading to cities and to nations. But they have always led to places.

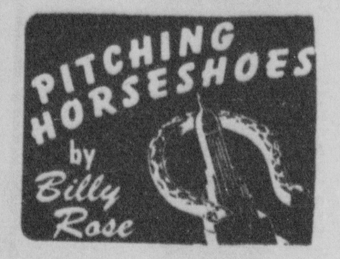

I have in mind, however, the intriguing, unbeaten roads that you come upon in a day's journey, wondering where they go to, and what they mean to human beings. Often I have branched off from main roads to explore these—many of them possible only by foot. On my first visit to Nova Scotia, and Cape Breton Island, I did this. For miles I would drive over rough and rocky roads that would finally bring me to a quaint fishing hut, or group of huts, or just to a boat landing. But always there was interest and discoveries.

Thoreau liked wandering over unbroken roads, and he undoubtedly was the creator of many that now exist. Such roads have a lingering spirit to them. They almost talk to you. Hemmed by great trees, with the pungent smell of the forest about them, and with the wild, though strange sounds that accompany, they recall memories, and challenge the imagination. These winding roads have a story to tell, though it is a silent one.

It is said that many of the streets of Boston were once only cow paths. You think as much as you walk over many of them, losing your way, and returning, again and again, to where you started! But it is the unfamiliar that attract and intrigue. Paths, now roads, that pioneers once broke, clearing the way for human activity. Roads have personality, too. Especially these unbroken ones that once had a purpose, but later only a way to a former somewhere.

This mind of ours is forever sending thoughts through unbeaten, unbroken roads, seeking out truths and solutions to life's problems, forever pioneering to know and to learn. And every once in a while there are cross-roads met, and we have to make a decision as to which road to take. The least travelled, however, has the most romance and poetic possibilities to it. For pure joy and intellectual excitement, this is the one to take. Both for the mind and the legs!

A fellow walked into my office the other day and said, "Can you use a good knife-thrower?"

In the average office such a question might send the boss diving under the desk. But in my kind of show business a knife-thrower is no more unusual than a fire-eater or Bobo, the Skating Bear.

Billy Rose

"I think I once caught your act," I said. "You throw knives at a girl strapped to a big revolving disk. What have you been doing lately?"

"I just got back from Greenland," he said. "I went up there a couple of years ago with a USO troupe. I got to know some Eskimos when we played one of the posts up north. You know, they're wonderful people. When the war ended I decided to hang around for a while."

"How'd you get along with your fur-trimmed friends?" I asked the new Nanook.

"I wowed 'em!" he exclaimed. "I went hunting with them one day. When it comes to throwing knives they're amateurs. I bagged four polar bears and had two knives left. For an encore, I killed a seal at thirty paces—blindfolded! From then on, they called me Ooka-laka-looka, which means Mighty Hunter. I moved in the best Arctic circles, and was really sitting on top of the world."

"That's the first time I heard of a booking at Loew's Greenland," I said. "They tell me that up there you have to undress with an icepick."

"I admit the place is one big Frigidaire," he said, "but it has its good points. For a change, it's nice to live where they're after the hide of a caribou instead of yours. There's no pressure. You wake up without Mickey Rooney jumping around in your stomach. You build a snowman when you're a kid, and it's still there for your kids to play with. There's no such thing as a meat shortage. If times get tough you eat the wolf at the door."

"What did you do for excitement?" I asked.

"You make faces at the explorers," he smiled. "Once in a while you get loaded on fermented walrus milk. But you've got six months to sleep it off. Nobody ever bothers you, except an occasional electric-fan salesman trying to show off. Instead of traffic lights you've got Northern Lights, and to hail a taxi you yell 'Fido!'"

"If it was so wonderful," I asked him, "why did you come back?"

"That's a very interesting question," he said. "I got to be such a favorite with the tribe they built me a big igloo. When I moved in I was surprised to see an Eskimo woman sitting inside. There were fish hooks in her hair and she was gnawing on a bar of soap. In New York you could make a fortune renting her out to frighten people with hiccups.

"At first I thought she was the cook, but when dinnertime came she just sat there. Then I thought they had put her there to clean up. But she didn't do that either. This went on for days. Finally I got on my sled and mushed over to the trading post. I asked the old trader what the Eskimo woman was doing in my igloo. He smiled and said, 'One of these days you're going to look at her and say to yourself, "She's not so bad"—and then you'll know it's time to go back to the States.'

"And that's why, as I was saying, can you use a good knife-thrower?"

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I'm working on the speech that I'm going to give later this month before the "Book and Authors League" in New York. I can't decide at this moment whether to talk on "Rise and Fall of Little Black Sambo" or "After Tom Swift, What?" I know I'll have to apologize for the title of my new book, "So This Is Peace," but at the time I wrote it it looked as though we were going to have a little peace.

I'll be right at home addressing the group, as the authors and I have so much in common — although there are those who say that I am too common.

Already there is a vile rumor that my book was written by ghosts, and the publisher isn't helping any by bringing out the book on Hallowe'en. But I want this cleared up: My book was written by real-life people and, aside from a page about Sinatra, is all flesh and blood.

I'm also collaborating on Henry Wallace's new book, "Forty Million Jobs and One for Me."

Appears We Might Be Investing In Chaos

Just what do we expect to buy by the deal of lending Russian-dominated Poland $40,000,000 through the Export-Import Bank? All but $5,000,000 of the total will be spent in this country for coal cars and locomotives to move coal from Poland's Silesian mines for the fuel-starved countries of Europe, it is explained. That would make sense if this high priority equipment actually is so used.

But will coal be distributed according to need, or will the allocations be made on a political, ideological basis, which we understand has been the case with such coal as Poland has marketed abroad? Previous understandings with the provisional government at Warsaw haven't been worth the paper they were written on. The promised free elections—the principal condition upon which we predicted our recognition of the Polish government—have not been held. Non-Communist elements in Poland continue to be pushed around ruthlessly, notwithstanding guarantees of democratic policies and processes.

Poland has received $50,000,000 from the United States for acquiring war surpluses abroad, and that credit has brought neither co-operation nor good will. In addition to the new $40,000,000 loan from the Export-Import Bank for "urgent necessities," the Warsaw government is preparing an application for a $600,000,000 reconstruction loan from the International Bank. This adds up to a tidy sum, and for what?

The fact that the American people have every sympathy for the unfortunate people of war-ravaged Poland, who have suffered from invasion and from the twin hells of Nazism and Communism. But we are not lending money to the Polish people. We are lending it to a made-in-Moscow totalitarian government, imposed on unhappy Poland by Russian arms. The business looks like the UNRRA deal by which we got the horse in front of the cart and paid for a lot of things we didn't want, such as Marshal Tito's army. What we are buying now could fly back in our faces like the scrap iron we shipped to Japan before Pearl Harbor.

What war-sick Europe needs today is freedom from fear, a cessation of ideological and nationalistic conflicts, and a mutual-aid program of one for all and all for one. Money contributed to that kind of program would be well spent, for a stabilized Europe is essential to world peace.

But as preliminary steps to the development of a live-and-let-live economy, the iron curtain must be lifted, occupation zones released from their rigid controls, and barriers removed from the avenues of water, rail, highway and air traffic.

Loans to European countries should be conditioned on the removal of these obstacles to the resumption of a normal commercial life. Until they are removed, at best we will be pouring money into a bottomless hole. And at worst we may be sending it where it will be used to build up a totalitarian power bloc that will live to haunt us.

Harnessing the sun for power and heat would be a good idea if it could be turned off in the summertime.

Advice To Workers On Our Economic Problems

The bureau of labor statistics, an adjunct of Schwellenbach's department, reports that average hourly earnings of industrial workers have reached their highest point in the country's history and show no signs of leveling off. Since the first of the year there has been a steady rise averaging two cents a month. Bureau functionaries expect this trend to continue.

The bureau's statement and prediction do not go into the reasons for the upward march of labor costs, nor are any conclusions drawn. But the reasons are obvious. The rise must be attributed to the partial breaking through to an inflation cycle which has been permitted by the government responding to bloc pressure from the labor unions.

Recent statements by farm economics experts have been accompanied by warnings that farmers may be overreaching themselves by holding out for still higher prices than the record figures they now are receiving. The cost of the things they buy would catch up with them, cutting drastically into their net profit.

The same warning might also apply to industrial workers and their union leaders. If they persist in their demands for higher and higher pay, the inflation spiral will catch up with them, also. Higher labor costs mean higher costs for manufactured goods, for everything the worker has to buy. The farmer must buy the manufactured goods and he must charge more for his produce to pay for them. Higher food costs then are saddled back on the worker.

Reason dictates an end to this see-saw. Its end, and the leveling-off of the national economy on a plane fair to all classes, lies in production. Preservation of buying power depends on cooperation in production, not only by the farmer and manufacturer, but also by the industrial worker. A nation of plenty that finds itself face to face with artificial shortages will turn eagerly to this solution.

A white collar worker may be unable to make a living in boom times, but his relatives certainly remember to look him up in hard times.

Thomas J. O'Donoghue of Dublin, Eire, has heard that money in coarse bundles is available in the United States in response to the proper approach. He intends to get all he can of it.

O'Donoghue, employe of a Dublin law firm, figures he has the proper approach. He says he is a descendant of Capt. Thomas Dowling, who once owned Goat Island in San Francisco Bay. He says that in the middle of the nineteenth century the United States government took the island away from the Dowling family without compensation. During the war Goat Island was used as an American naval training base. O'Donoghue says he plans to seek payment of $4,000,000 to $8,000,000 from the United States for taking and using his family's erstwhile property.

Come on over, Thomas. If you make out a case and get the money, at least you will have earned it and not received it as an unappreciated gift, as some other people have done with Uncle Sam's bounty.

FOLIC ACID IN SPRUE

SPRUE is a disease with a long historical background. In spite of its antiquity, only during the last decade has the true nature of the disorder been revealed. The name is derived from the Dutch word "sprouw," which was coined by Ketelaer in 1669.

Hillary tells of its occurrence in the Barbadoes island. He had heard of the condition but had never seen it. "After I came and in 1747, I did but see but one person who had it, in the first four years of my residing there; and three more in the next three years; but within the four last years past, it is become so frequent that I have seen some scores of patients labouring under it, yet it seems not to be in the least infectious or contagious."

This early observation is interesting for, until recently, many organisms had been implicated as causative factors. We know different now and, as Hillary said, it is neither infectious nor contagious.

Sprue is classified as a deficiency disease. The impairment lies in the gastro-intestinal tract which is unable to absorb certain vital substances. The lack of these elements leads to symptoms. The sprue syndrome can also appear in those who consume inadequate diets, which may explain many of the cases in the tropical areas.

Early in the course of the illness, the mouth becomes sore. The tongue burns, is beefy red in color, and is some times covered with tiny blisters which add to its sensitivity. Concurrently, appetite fails and gas and indigestion become troublesome. Finally the main manifestation—diarrhea—begins. The stools are typically foamy, and of a high fatty consistency.

As the malady progresses there is marked loss in weight, most evident in the arms and legs. The abdomen is frequently distended with gas and looks round an full. Changes are noted in the blood, consisting mainly of anemia which is indistinguishable from that found in pernicious anemia. In fact these two ailments have so many factors in common that they are thought to be related. X-rays of the intestinal tract may also reveal characteristic abnormalities.

A milestone was passed in treatment when it was found that many patients responded to a diet high in proteins and vitamins but low in carbohydrates and fats, plus the injection of liver extract. But during the last year a new drug has appeared on the scene which is so encouraging that it may supplant all other methods. Folic acid (lactobacillus casei factor) was discovered while doing experiments on monkeys in whom a condition somewhat analogous to sprue had been produced artificially. The preparation restored these animals to normal. It was then tried on humans. Relief was noted in the tongue within a few days ;and diarrhea began to subside at the end of a week. Marked improvement in the blood count likewise ensued. When the same compound was used in pernicious anemia the results were equally satisfactory.

It is quite possible that the missing link has been discovered and that another ailment has been tamed.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

A. A. R. writes: Are filariais and elephantiasis the same disease?

REPLY

Filariasis is a tropical disease, caused by the presence of one of the filaria organisms. In severe cases, the lymph channels become blocked and swelling occurs. If the vessels in the lower extremities are obstructed, for example, the legs assume huge proportions, almost like an elephant's. This phase of the disorder is known as "elephantiasis." Long exposure is required before this stage is reached and the phenomenon is rarely observed among our soldiers, who were exposed for comparatively short periods.

RHEUMATIC CHAP

L. S. writes: Will a fellow who has rheumatic pains in different parts of the body every day eventually become a chronic invalid?

REPLY

The chances are that he will not because sooner or later the source of infection will become evident. With its removal, discomfort should disappear. Sometimes no cause can be found, but so long as arthritis does not develop, there is a possibility that the trouble will ultimately burn itself out.

BLOOD VESSEL CHANGES

L. A. writes: What is a vascular headache?

REPLY

One which appears when the vessels in the brain are dilated or overstretched. The histamine and migraine types serve as good examples.

Truman Beat Dewey On Jewish Migration Statement; Nimitz Tells Kangaroo Story; Rhode Island Gets Airport Back From The Navy

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON.—Here is the inside story on how President Truman happened to issue his recent statement on Jewish immigration into Palestine.

About a week before the statement, Dave Niles, one of Truman's White House Secretaries, tipped him to the fact that Governor Dewey was speaking before the United Jewish Appeal on the week-end of the Jewish holiday and would make a strong statement for Jewish migration. Niles suggested that Truman beat Dewey to the punch and re-emphasize his own previous position for Jewish migration.

Accordingly, the White House asked Acting Secretary of State Will Clayton to draft a statement for the President to be issued on Oct. 4, the eve of Yom Kippur. Clayton turned the matter over to Loy Henderson, head of the State Department's Near East Division, who has been accused of being pro-Arab, and who came up with a milk-and-water statement calculated not to offend the British and Arabs.

When this went over to the White House, it got the immediate thumbs-down sign. By this time Under-Secretary Dean Acheson had returned and taken over the helm in the State Department. He sat up most of one night redrafting and toughening up the statement on Palestine, which Truman finally issued just two days before Dewey's speech.

Note—Having been beaten to the punch, Dewey came out not for the migration of 100,000 Jews but for "hundreds of thousands."

Kangaroo Shuns White House

When the crew of the Navy's Truculent Turtle visited the White House the other day, President Truman inquired at some length about "Joey," the nine-month-old kangaroo the fliers brought back for the Washington zoo.

"We thought about bringing Joey over to see you," Flight Commander Thomas D. Davies explained. "But she's hard to handle. You have to hold her by the tail and she claws like the devil. It's a full-time job for one man to carry her around.

"However, that isn't the main reason we didn't bring her with us," continued Davies. "You see, Joey isn't housebroken yet, and we figured that the White House wasn't a good place to bring her under those conditions."

Truman said he quite understood. Admiral Nimitz, who accompanied the navy fliers, then told about a baby kangaroo who kept jumping out of his mother's pouch. Tiring of putting him back in, the papa kangaroo cuffed his ears and told him to stay put.

Truman Likes To Be Friendly

One reason the President so often finds himself in hot water is that he isn't quite tough enough with his own friends. In the end he can say "no" and say it with vigor, but when a friend like Henry Wallace tackles him on foreign policy, or when Congressman John McCormack of Massachusetts tackles him on meat, his first inclination is to go along.

For instance, when House Majority Leader McCormack publicly urged the President to remove ceilings on meat prices he thought he was doing so with the President's okay. But after the McCormack statement, OPA chief Paul Porter called and told the President he had heard that the McCormack statement was encouraged by the White House.

"I can't have any hope of winning the fight to keep prices down when we get statements like that from supposed responsible leaders of the administration—and especially when you advise such statements," Porter said.

The President replied that he had been in contact with McCormack, but that McCormack must have misunderstood him. He had sympathized with McCormack but had never meant for McCormack to issue such a statement. Later in the day he made it very plain in tough language to the nation that he stood four-square behind Porter and the OPA.

Panic-Stricken Navy

Funny how little rumors grow into big things. The War Assets Administration recently handed a large naval airport at Westerly back to the state of Rhode Island, and it all came about from a chance remark made to a policeman.

For more than a year Rhode Island had negotiated with the Navy for the return of the Westerly airport. But red tape was too hard to unravel. A couple of weeks ago, however, Governor John Pastore was driving by the airfield and stopped at the main entrance to chat with a state trooper whom he had known for a long time.

During their conversation the trooper asked the Governor how negotiations for return of the field were going.

"It's still tied up in red tape," the Governor replied; then jokingly added: "I guess the only thing to do is to send some of you boys down to seize the field and take it over for the state."

Pastore drove off and forgot about the incident. But two days later, he got a telephone call from Assistant Secretary of the Navy John Sullivan in Washington.

"John," said Sullivan, "we've got to talk this thing over! What an ungodly mess it would be if you sent your troopers out to seize that field from the Navy."

Completely stumped for a moment, Gov. Pastore finally remembered his conversation with the state trooper. He decided to bluff his way through.

"We simply can't wait any longer, John," he told Sullivan. "The state needs that field for overflow air traffic. We've been waiting long enough. In one week, if I don't have action down there, I'm going to send a company of state police to take over—and I don't think the United States Navy wants to go to war with the State of Rhode Island."

Sullivan urged Pastore to "hold everything." Before the week was more than half up, representatives of the Navy, the WAA and the Civil Aeronautics Association were in Pastore's office and the State of Rhode Island had its airfield once again.

Note—What the Governor didn't know was that a Naval night-watchman overheard the remark to the state trooper and excitedly phoned the Navy. Actually the Navy was not responsible for the delay since the law requires that transfer be arranged through the War Assets Administration.

War Crimes Trial Seen As An Act Of Primitive Justice

By SAMUEL R. PETTENGILL

The Nuernberg trial was both an act of primitive justice and a piece of international humbug. That the defendants deserved what they got is admitted. Their crimes the "multitudinous seas incarnadine." They are written on millions of graves.

But any trial which amounts to one law for the conqueror and another for the conquered, will not long satisfy the conscience of mankind, or serve the cause of peace.

That it was the Russian judge on the high court who cried the loudest for "justice" is irony supreme. Did not Russia invade Poland at the same time Hitler's hordes poured in from the West? Was that an act of aggression or not? Was that a breach of the Kellogg-Briand treaty which outlawed war as an instrument of national policy, a treaty which was the chief legal basis of the Nuernberg trial? Who will sit in judgment on that crime? Did the Red Army carve up, without warning, a little country which had given her no offense, and whose boundaries Russia had covenanted to respect? Were Poles shipped to Siberia in freight cars in the dead of winter? Did tens of thousands die on the way?

Who was it said, "One swift blow to Poland, first, by the German Army and then by the Red Army, and nothing was left of this ugly offspring of the Versailles treaty"? It was Molotov, not Goering.

Makes Other Criminals Respectable

It would have been far better if the Nuernberg court had been composed of judges from Switzerland, Sweden, Portugal and Ireland which were neutral in the war. Then blame might have been assessed without hypocrisy.

The court complains that the Nazis planned for conquest—as they did. But did they do it without aid from countries which have now rendered judgment against them? What about the British agreements that allowed Hitler to build a navy and air force in violation of the Versailles treaty and over the objection of France?

Is actual bloodshed the only aggression that is a crime? Is military intimidation to go scot free? Is it all right for a robber to stick up his victim so long as he doesn't pull the trigger?

Crimes Committed By Judges

Who is aggressing against Turkey with respect to the Dardanelles? Who aggressed against Iran's oil fields? Under whose orders were American flyers so recently shot down? Is anyone going to be tried for that?

Russia had a non-aggression treaty with Japan! Who broke that? And who urged Russia to do so?

The document setting up the Nuernberg court includes as crimes not only "murder, extermination and enslavement" but "other inhumane acts committed against any civilian population before or during the war." How do we classify the bomb on Hiroshima?

Slave labor? What about the hundreds of thousands of captured German soldiers still held in France and England, a year and a half after the war ended?

Who is the aggressor in the civil war in China?

Unless the conscience of all mankind can again be pricked with "Mea Culpa"—"I too have sinned"—it will be said again, as it was 2000 years ago, "The strong do what they are able, and the weak suffer for what they must."

Do the Atlantic Charter and the United Nations Charter embody principles we are determined to apply equally to all men, in all circumstances? That is the question.

Army Air Forces Should Make Up Own Mind Where Planes Will Fly

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10. — The War Department folks may have miscued somewhat when they let it be known they had asked the Department of State if a group of B-29's could fly around the world.

There's no more reason why the Army Air Forces or any other part of our armed services should ask the Department of State for permission to practice or to engage in maneuvers to improve their own efficiency than there is for the diplomatic branch of the government to ask the armed services whether they would object to a strong or weak foreign policy.

If the Department of State should now say it doesn't object, it raises questions abroad, because then the mission of the B-29's becomes directly tied up with the foreign policy of the United States and gives an inference of potential threat or maneuvering to achieve a certain position in diplomacy.

It would have been much better if the Army Air Forces had made up its own mind to fly the B-29's anywhere in the world. For just as the Navy can go anywhere it pleases today, so can the Army Air Forces.

Since this is one world and since distance has been reduced to a matter of hours in flying around the world, it is evident that any air force which is to be used by the United Nations in the future must be conversant with flying conditions around the globe.

Practical Operations Necessary

The American weapons of war cannot be kept up to date if they are not used for maneuvers or practice operations. So long as the United Nations is charged with the duty of preserving the peace of the world—and air force operations are certain to be an integral part of any mission which seeks to fulfill that duty—the need for flights around the world by heavy bombers or any other kind of plane is apparent.

The recent flight of the Army Air Force plane from Honolulu to Cairo was not just a stunt to determine an endurance record. It was a natural and logical operation designed to ascertain what are the flying conditions in the Arctic areas. This will be taken by some observers to be associated somehow with the possibility of future operations against Russia but such an inference can only be the conclusion of those who prefer "war mongering" to the real explanation.

Long before the Second World War broke out, aviation experts in America were pointing out that the shortest distance around the world was over the Polar regions and were predicting that commercial routes would go across the top of the world because these would be shorter and perhaps even safer.

The airplane as a weapon of war or as a vehicle of commerce is still new to many people but not to the men who make planes or those who flew them in the war. The airplane presupposed "one world" long before the phrase was applied to international politics or the United Nations.

Must Practice Constantly

It is, on the other hand, the task of military men to perfect their weapons. This means constant practice flights under all sorts of conditions. To operate a mass flight of B-29's over long distances requires techniques that are constantly changing. If, therefore, the Army Air Forces, one month, want to fly over the North Pole and then on a subsequent occasion want to fly around the South Pole in order to map out new routes of travel, this is not to be associated in any way with diplomacy or foreign policy.

To be influenced by the hush-hush policies of the diplomats is to incur unnecessary risks. Fear of offending Japan caused the Department of State or the Navy Department or the administration as a whole to hesitate to press congress for money to fortify Guam. The whole course of the war in the Pacific might have been changed and many lives saved if the Navy Department had followed military logic and insisted on protecting its own in the Pacific.

The danger is that the armed services will again become victims of inhibitions placed on them by diplomats. In a realistic world the military men should be given every encouragement to engage in maneuvers or practice, especially in the stratosphere, which certainly ought to be as free to our planes as the oceans are to our ships.

Today's Talk

UNBROKEN ROADS

Roads have been wonderful civilizers. First they were mere paths, then widened and later, many of them, paved for highways, leading to cities and to nations. But they have always led to places.

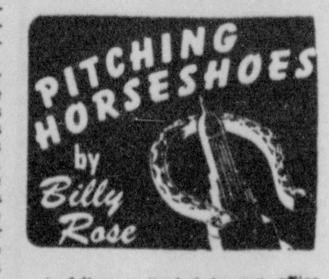

I have in mind, however, the intriguing, unbeaten roads that you come upon in a day's journey, wondering where they go to, and what they mean to human beings. Often I have branched off from main roads to explore these—many of them possible only by foot. On my first visit to Nova Scotia, and Cape Breton Island, I did this. For miles I would drive over rough and rocky roads that would finally bring me to a quaint fishing hut, or group of huts, or just to a boat landing. But always there was interest and discoveries.

Thoreau liked wandering over unbroken roads, and he undoubtedly was the creator of many that now exist. Such roads have a lingering spirit to them. They almost talk to you. Hemmed by great trees, with the pungent smell of the forest about them, and with the wild, though strange sounds that accompany, they recall memories, and challenge the imagination. These winding roads have a story to tell, though it is a silent one.

It is said that many of the streets of Boston were once only cow paths. You think as much as you walk over many of them, losing your way, and returning, again and again, to where you started! But it is the unfamiliar that attract and intrigue. Paths, now roads, that pioneers once broke, clearing the way for human activity. Roads have personality, too. Especially these unbroken ones that once had a purpose, but later only a way to a former somewhere.

This mind of ours is forever sending thoughts through unbeaten, unbroken roads, seeking out truths and solutions to life's problems, forever pioneering to know and to learn. And every once in a while there are cross-roads met, and we have to make a decision as to which road to take. The least travelled, however, has the most romance and poetic possibilities to it. For pure joy and intellectual excitement, this is the one to take. Both for the mind and the legs!

A fellow walked into my office the other day and said, "Can you use a good knife-thrower?"

In the average office such a question might send the boss diving under the desk. But in my kind of show business a knife-thrower is no more unusual than a fire-eater or Bobo, the Skating Bear.

Billy Rose

"I think I once caught your act," I said. "You throw knives at a girl strapped to a big revolving disk. What have you been doing lately?"

"I just got back from Greenland," he said. "I went up there a couple of years ago with a USO troupe. I got to know some Eskimos when we played one of the posts up north. You know, they're wonderful people. When the war ended I decided to hang around for a while."

"How'd you get along with your fur-trimmed friends?" I asked the new Nanook.

"I wowed 'em!" he exclaimed. "I went hunting with them one day. When it comes to throwing knives they're amateurs. I bagged four polar bears and had two knives left. For an encore, I killed a seal at thirty paces—blindfolded! From then on, they called me Ooka-laka-looka, which means Mighty Hunter. I moved in the best Arctic circles, and was really sitting on top of the world."

"That's the first time I heard of a booking at Loew's Greenland," I said. "They tell me that up there you have to undress with an ice-pick."

"I admit the place is one big Frigidaire," he said, "but it has its good points. For a change, it's nice to live where they're after the hide of a caribou instead of yours. There's no pressure. You wake up without Mickey Rooney jumping around in your stomach. You build a snowman when you're a kid, and it's still there for your kids to play with. There's no such thing as a meat shortage. If times get tough you eat the wolf at the door."

"What did you do for excitement?" I asked.

"You make faces at the explorers," he smiled. "Once in a while you get loaded on fermented walrus milk. But you've got six months to sleep it off. Nobody ever bothers you, except an occasional electric-fan salesman trying to show off. Instead of traffic lights you've got Northern Lights, and to hail a taxi you yell 'Fido!'"

"If it was so wonderful," I asked him, "why did you come back?"

"That's a very interesting question," he said. "I got to be such a favorite with the tribe they built me a big igloo. When I moved in I was surprised to see an Eskimo woman sitting inside. There were fish hooks in her hair and she was gnawing on a bar of soap. In New York you could make a fortune renting her out to frighten people with hiccups.

"At first I thought she was the cook, but when dinnertime came she just sat there. Then I thought they had put her there to clean up. But she didn't do that either. This went on for days. Finally I got on my sled and mushed over to the trading post. I asked the old trader what the Eskimo woman was doing in my igloo. He smiled and said, 'One of these days you're going to look at her and say to yourself, "She's not so bad"—and then you'll know it's time to go back to the States.'

"And that's why, as I was saying, can you use a good knife-thrower?"

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I'm working on the speech that I'm going to give later this month before the "Book and Authors League" in New York. I can't decide at this moment whether to talk on "Rise and Fall of Little Black Sambo" or "After Tom Swift, What?" I know I'll have to apologize for the title of my new book, "So This Is Peace," but at the time I wrote it it looked as though we were going to have a little peace.

I'll be right at home addressing the group, as the authors and I have so much in common — although there are those who say that I am too common.

Already there is a vile rumor that my book was written by ghosts, and the publisher isn't helping any by bringing out the book on Hallowe'en. But I want this cleared up: My book was written by real-life people and, aside from a page about Sinatra, is all flesh and blood.

I'm also collaborating on Henry Wallace's new book, "Forty Million Jobs and One for Me."

Voters Expect Republicans To Take Over Control Of House In November

Replies Add Up To Same Thinking Of Expert Political Writers

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., October 10—If the American voters' guesses are right, the Republicans are going to take over control of the House in the elections now only a little more than three weeks away.

A poll just completed across the nation finds a majority with opinions placing their money on the Republicans when they are asked:

"Regardless of how you yourself plan to vote, which party do you think will win control of the House in the Congressional elections this fall—the Democratic or the Republican?"

The replies:

Republican	63%
Democratic	37

The above figures refer only to the people who made a guess when field reporters for the Institute questioned them. About one in six gave no opinion.

The Experts

This guess of the man-on-the-street coincides with the guess of a group of Washington political experts.

Newsweek Magazine recently polled 50 top political reporters in the nation's capital; these are the men who write on politics for newspapers all over the country.

The question: how will the House be divided politically after November?

The composite opinion from the poll of the political writers was that the Republicans would win the majority of seats. The political writers gave the GOP 221 seats to 213 for the Democrats and 1 to other parties.

This would mean a gain of 29 seats for the Republicans. They need to gain 26 to take over control of the House of Representatives.

When Institute statisticians separate replies of those who think of themselves as Democrats and those who consider themselves Republicans, two facts of interest emerge.

One, the Republicans are more confident of victory than the Democrats. Two, a lot of wishful thinking has gone into the replies.

G.O.P. Voters

Think Republicans Will Win Control	84%
Think Democrats Will Win Control	16

Democratic Voters

Think Republicans Will Win Control	36%
Think Democrats Will Win Control	64

GOP Has 192 Seats

In order to take control of the House of Representatives, Republicans will have to win 218 seats in the elections this November. That would mean picking up 26 more seats than they now have.

Republicans	192
Democrats	237
Other parties	2
Vacancies (All Democratic)	4
Total	435

New Crop Record Is Being Realized

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The greatest crop production in the nation's history is being realized as the growing season nears an end, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The department said aggregate production of all crops will be 2.5 per cent more than the previous record of 1942 and 26.4 per cent above the 1923-32 average.

Topping this year's production will be record crops of corn and wheat.

Weather conditions in September, while not favorable in all localities, maintained or improved previous prospects for most crops. The estimated production of nearly all crops is slightly higher than a month ago, with the principal exception of cotton, which showed a sharp decline.

Potatoes moved into the record group this month, joining corn, wheat, tobacco, peaches, pears, plums and truck crops. Oats, rice and peanuts moved a step nearer to production records. Also in the near record class are grapes, cherries and sugar cane.

Lane Says Democrats United On Bay Bridge

SALISBURY, Md., Oct. 10 (AP) — William Preston Lane, Jr., Democratic candidate for governor, said at a party rally tonight that he is convinced that building a bridge across Chesapeake Bay is "the most important piece of construction the next administration can sponsor."

"The Democratic candidates and the members of the Democratic Party are united on this great project," he added.

He said that, by contrast, the Republicans claim the problems incident to building the bridge cannot be solved in the immediate future. He quoted the Republican state platform to the effect that the GOP favors increasing the Chesapeake Bay ferry service.

Eight of a mob that started a riot in Ikot Ekpene, Nigeria, which resulted in the death of a police constable, have been sentenced to death by the Supreme Court in that city.

Revoke Bachelor Tax

ROME — (AP) — Bachelorhood in Italy will soon be considerably cheaper than it was in the days of fascism. Decrees taxing unmarried men, which were adopted under Mussolini in 1926 as a means of increasing the birthrate, have been abolished by the Republic, effective Jan. 1, 1947.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., October 10—If the American voters' guesses are right, the Republicans are going to take over control of the House in the elections now only a little more than three weeks away.

A poll just completed across the nation finds a majority with opinions placing their money on the Republicans when they are asked:

"Regardless of how you yourself plan to vote, which party do you think will win control of the House in the Congressional elections this fall—the Democratic or the Republican?"

The replies:

Republican	63%
Democratic	37

The above figures refer only to the people who made a guess when field reporters for the Institute questioned them. About one in six gave no opinion.

The Experts

This guess of the man-on-the-street coincides with the guess of a group of Washington political experts.

Newsweek Magazine recently polled 50 top political reporters in the nation's capital; these are the men who write on politics for newspapers all over the country.

The question: how will the House be divided politically after November?

The composite opinion from the poll of the political writers was that the Republicans would win the majority of seats. The political writers gave the GOP 221 seats to 213 for the Democrats and 1 to other parties.

This would mean a gain of 29 seats for the Republicans. They need to gain 26 to take over control of the House of Representatives.

When Institute statisticians separate replies of those who think of themselves as Democrats and those who consider themselves Republicans, two facts of interest emerge.

One, the Republicans are more confident of victory than the Democrats. Two, a lot of wishful thinking has gone into the replies:

G.O.P. Voters

Think Republicans Will Win Control	84%
Think Democrats Will Win Control	16

Democratic Voters

Think Republicans Will Win Control	36%
Think Democrats Will Win Control	64

GOP Has 192 Seats

In order to take control of the House of Representatives, Republicans will have to win 218 seats in the elections this November. That would mean picking up 26 more seats than they now have.

Republicans	192
Democrats	237
Other parties	2
Vacancies (All Democratic)	4
Total	435

New Crop Record Is Being Realized

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—The greatest crop production in the nation's history is being realized as the growing season nears an end, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The department said aggregate production of all crops will be 2.5 per cent more than the previous record of 1942 and 26.4 per cent above the 1923-32 average.

Topping this year's production will be record crops of corn and wheat.

Weather conditions in September, while not favorable in all localities, maintained or improved previous prospects for most crops. The estimated production of nearly all crops is slightly higher than a month ago, with the principal exception of cotton, which showed a sharp decline.

Potatoes moved into the record group this month, joining corn, wheat, tobacco, peaches, pears, plums and truck crops. Oats, rice and peanuts moved a step nearer to production records. Also in the near record class are grapes, cherries and sugar cane.

Lane Says Democrats United On Bay Bridge

SALISBURY, Md., Oct. 10 (AP) — William Preston Lane, Jr., Democratic candidate for governor, said at a party rally tonight that he is convinced that building a bridge across Chesapeake Bay is "the most important piece of construction the next administration can sponsor."

"The Democratic candidates and the members of the Democratic Party are united on this great project," he added.

He said that, by contrast, the Republicans claim the problems incident to building the bridge cannot be solved in the immediate future.

He quoted the Republican state platform to the effect that the GOP favors increasing the Chesapeake Bay ferry service.

Eight of a mob that started a riot in Ikot Ekpense, Nigeria, which resulted in the death of a police constable, have been sentenced to death by the Supreme Court in that city.

Revoke Bachelor Tax

ROME — (AP) — Bachelorhood in Italy will soon be considerably cheaper than it was in the days of fascism. Decrees taxing unmarried men, which were adopted under Mussolini in 1926 as a means of increasing the birthrate, have been abolished by the Republic, effective Jan. 1, 1947.

Leaders Outline Girl Scout Week Activities

Varied Program Including Mother-Daughter Banquet Is Planned

Observance of Girl Scout week, October 27-November 2, was the topic of the discussion at the monthly meeting of the Leaders Association, Wednesday night at the little house, with Mrs. A. M. Spioch, presiding.

Mrs. Gordon Mitchell, chairman of the Program committee for the Council, was a special guest and announced that the annual Mother-Daughter banquet will be held October 28 at the LaVale firemen's hall.

The week will open October 27, with the scouts, in uniform, attending either their own church, as individuals, or special churches by troops.

The association is planning to conclude the observance, November 3, with a "Scout's Own," having a typical scout program with the girls in charge of it.

Rounding out the week the girls are urged to plan to do an extra bit at home that gives their mothers some free time; doing good turns for the community as part of the "Citizenship Day," with the suggestion of keeping the neighborhood clean; as a safety program to watch the street crossings and look for ways to make the home safer, and observe world friendship at home by looking in school for a boy or girl from another country to whom friendship can be shown.

Miss Mary Shriver announced that special notices will be sent to each Girl Scout notifying her of the activities of the week, in order that she may participate in them. She explained that it was decided to send the notices since some troops do not have leaders, and the organization does not want any of the girls to miss the activities.

Leaders Outline Girl Scout Week Activities

Varied Program Including Mother-Daughter Banquet Is Planned

Observance of Girl Scout week, October 27-November 2, was the topic of the discussion at the monthly meeting of the Leaders Association, Wednesday night at the little house, with Mrs. A. M. Spioch, presiding.

Mrs. Gordon Mitchell, chairman of the Program committee for the Council, was a special guest and announced that the annual Mother-Daughter banquet will be held October 28 at the LaVale firemen's hall.

Other activities for Girl Scout week will include two radio programs, one on October 29 and the other on October 31, both will be given at 5:15 and will definately be programs with appeal for children. There will be an "all scout skating party," November 2, at Crystal Park, from 1:30 until 4:30.

The week will open October 27, with the scouts, in uniform, attending either their own church, as individuals, or special churches by troops.

The association is planning to conclude the observance, November 3, with a "Scout's Own," having a typical scout program with the girls in charge of it.

Rounding out the week the girls are urged to plan to do an extra bit at home that gives their mothers some free time; doing good turns for the community as part of the "Citizenship Day," with the suggestion of keeping the neighborhood clean; as a safety program to watch the street crossings and look for ways to make the home safer, and observe world friendship at home by looking in school for a boy or girl from another country to whom friendship can be shown.

Miss Mary Shriver announced that special notices will be sent to each Girl Scout notifying her of the activities of the week, in order that she may participate in them. She explained that it was decided to send the notices since some troops do not have leaders, and the organization does not want any of the girls to miss the activities.

A national picture magazine publisher has ordered a top-to-bottom housecleaning in all departments to root out the pink-tinted clique that has been slanting news stories leftwards. . . . In Washington, where nobody can vote, the G. O. P. is circulating a sticker reading "Vote Republican—Clean Up the Mess." . . . A nationally known mail order house has ordered buyers to make no commitments beyond January, on the theory that there'll be a severe downward slant in both buying and selling prices. . . . New York department store floors filled with articles marked "sold" which can't be delivered because of the continued trucking strike.

Bernard Baruch now does his park bench sitting nearly a mile below his former haunt because of the construction going on next door to his apartment at Fifth Avenue and 85th St., which he has temporarily abandoned to his servants. . . . The Wall Street slump cancelled out a $500,000,000 (five hundred million) deal for a chain of new hotels from coast-to-coast in which a half dozen big concerns, including movie companies, were interested.

Manila papers for Oct. 1 reported the death on stage of Coburn Goodwin, nephew of Nat Goodwin and a well-known New York actor, who was appearing in a USO production of "The Man Who Came to Dinner." By an odd series of coincidences, Coburn, who died of a heart attack, was playing the role of Sheridan Whiteside, inspired by the late Alexander Woollcott, who also died of a heart attack while appearing on a radio show. Like Woollcott, he was an alumnus of Hamilton College, and it was through knowing Woollcott that he got his first break in the Broadway theatre. The USO here is still unaware of Goodwin's death, since all such information must be disseminated by the Army . . . . Patsy Kelly, recently at the Roxy with Hildegarde's show, is in Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, for a major operation. . . . An ex-opera star may soon be making news along the Barney Ross line. . . . The Joy Page who is seeking a job on Broadway is the daughter of movie mogul Jack Warner. . . . It being the 13th anniversary of Sime (Variety) Silverman's death, Benny (Margie) Davis has penned a song titled "Sime Marches On," which he'll introduce at the Miami Copacabana this Winter. . . . In case Ann Bertoldo is interested, her secret flame, Rex Harrison, is star of the Theatre Guild radio show, Sunday, Oct. 13, playing the Leslie Howard role in "Berkeley Square." . . . Clark Gable tells pals his next flicker won't be "The Hucksters" but "The Return of Ulysses." . . . Even before its scheduled premiere with the Ballet Theatre, the new Jerome Robbins-Leonard Bernstein-Oliver Smith opus, "Facsimile," is being talked of as the nucleus for a Broadway musical. It was from "Fancy Free," their minor masterpiece, that "On the Town" evloved.

Earl Carroll's $3,000,000 deal to take over the old Hippodrome site for a nite club to rival Nicky Blair's huge Carnival has fallen through. . . . One major East Side spot will cease operations as a nite spot if further labor troubles are encountered; the owners figure they can make more money renting the space . . . The Bill Schiller who is running for office in the so-called silk stocking district of Manhattan is the same party who got himself nationally known as the Polka Dot King, with the former Candy Jones doing his modeling. . . . In Hollywood, Bette Davis has issued an ultimatum; no more movies until six months after her expected baby arrives in the Spring. Then she'll do "Ethan Frome," with Agnes Moorehead in the role of the other woman. . . . His former New York friends are appraised that Thornton Delehanty has been quietly sealed to a Pasadena socialite, Alvah Kaime.

Manila papers for Oct. 1 reported the death on stage of Coburn Goodwin, nephew of Nat Goodwin and a well-known New York actor, who was appearing in a USO production of "The Man Who Came to Dinner." By an odd series of coincidences, Coburn, who died of a heart attack, was playing the role of Sheridan Whiteside, inspired by the late Alexander Woollcott, who also died of a heart attack while appearing on a radio show. Like Woollcott, he was an alumnus of Hamilton College, and it was through knowing Woollcott that he got his first break in the Broadway theatre. Advice To The Lovelorn

Girl, 22, Married Five Years, Offers Some Advice For The Teen-Agers

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

If I had a nickel for every letter that comes in from a teenager who thinks she's hopelessly in love, I'd be a very wealthy woman! There are so many who write almost the same identical message that it sometimes sounds as though it were one great chain letter stretching from teenager to teenager. It goes something like this:

"I am 16 years old (or 13, 14, 15 or 17, as the case may be) and am in love with this fellow, 17 (18, 19, etc.). My parents think we are too young to marry and want me to go out with other fellows, but I can't forget him and I know I will never love anyone else as much as this one. Please tell me what to do."

So then I try to explain that parents are quite right in refusing to allow their teenagers to marry; that they have very real and sound reasons for doing so; and that teenagers usually believe themselves deeply and permanently in love several different times before they grow up enough to be able to make a wise choice of husbands.

I tell them that it's easier to "forget" than they think, and that if they will just be content to have lots of friends and go out with many different boys for a while, they'll find that, surprisingly soon, they've lost interest in the boy they were certain they'd love forever, and discovered a brand-new interest in some other boy.

And then, after I've told them all this, I tell myself something. I remind myself that of course these teenagers aren't likely to believe a thing I say; that they'll never be willing to believe they're going to fall in and out of love a dozen times before they settle on the one they'll marry; that they'll just think sadly that adults "don't understand" and can't realize what it is to be so much in love!

I wonder if they would have any more confidence in what a person nearer their own age told them? For I have a letter from a girl of 22 who married at 17, and now has some things she would like to say to those teenagers who are convinced that their current heart interest is the one and only love of their lives.

Here she is, telling her own story:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I read so terribly many letters of teenagers falling in love and having broken hearts. Honestly, I think they should wait until they grow up before they make themselves sick with worry. Sure, there are love crushes, and all that, but you outgrow them just the same as you are going to outgrow clothes at that age of 16. I know. Here's my story.

"I'm 22, and married for five years, which makes it 17 when I married. I thought I was big and smart, but, oh, what I learned! In those five years I've gone through enough to make me feel about 50 which I do. There've bills, babies, sickness, operations and death. We've got one child now, and lost one two years ago. We've had everything, and to top it off, all we ever do is quarrel.

"I've had a better life than when I was single, as far as money, clothes and necessities go. But my husband and I can't agree. I wasn't ready to cope with all these problems, and neither was he. But we were in love. I wish I was back to "Sweet 16," and I know my husband does, too.

"So, teen-agers, go easy. There are only seven years of teen age, and about 50 of life age. Maybe if I'd waited, I would understand things more, or I would have met a man I could get along with. This goes for my husband, too. We were both too young; too eager for life.

"So don't get mad at your parents when they tell you things, or discipline you. They know what's best, and I know now. Twenty or 21 is plenty of time to get married. Don't rush things or you'll be sorry.

"OLD 22"

I hope the youngsters listen to you, "Old 22," but I wonder. My guess is that most of them will think: "Oh, that could never happen to my boy friend and me! We're different. We're too much in love."

Cumberlander Aids Siamese Build Airline

Two American airmen, one a Cumberlander, are assisting in the establishment of a new Siamese air line. Both are former members of the Army Air Transport Command.

Flight Officer Sanford T. Jenkins, Mexico Farms, and Staff Sgt. Lloyd S. Gray, of Lindenwood, Ill., both of the ATC's Pacific Division, are leaving the service to lend their knowledge to the Douglas C-47 service planned by the Siamese to link Southeast Asia, the South China coast and the Malay peninsula.

Jenkins will be chief pilot and check pilot for the Siamese fliers who will make up the flight crews. Gray will be chief of maintenance and chief of engineering instruction.

To Check Pilots

Fifty of the Royal Siamese Air Force's top pilots will be checked out by Jenkins, who has been operations officer for the 1537-2Y Operating location at Bangkok, end of the line for Pacific division operations in the Far East.

Gray, now maintenance chief for the ATC in Bangkok, will direct inspections and overhauls, and, at the same time, instruct Siamese mechanics.

Negotiations have been completed through which the United States Foreign Liquidation Commission is selling 10 Douglas C-47 Skytrains to the Siamese government. Three of the aircraft were delivered in July.

"The big job will be in familiarizing the Siamese personnel with the C-47," said Flight Officer Jenkins. "They haven't had anything that large before."

Confident of Success

Jenkins ferried P63s to Alaska during the war until ordered to the India-China division of the ATC last year. His service includes assignment in Calcutta and six months in Singapore before coming to Bangkok in the spring of 1946. Before entering the service Jenkins flew commercially in the Southeastern United States.

Both Jenkins and Gray are confident of success in their new venture.

"We can't miss," said Jenkins. "These people like us and we like them. What more could you ask?"

Don Maung airport at Bangkok will be headquarters for the Siamese line. One of the most modern in Southeast Asia, Don Maung is the object of an ambitious five-year plan by the Siamese Air Force to lengthen the present 6000-foot strip to 7000 feet, and another of equal length paralleling it on the opposite side of the field and to build a Northeast, Southwest strip 5000 feet long. All runways would be 300 feet wide.

Sgt. Lynford Conner Discharged At Ft. Meade

Technical Sgt. Lynford Conner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Conner, of Everett, Pa., was separated from the Army at Fort George G. Meade this month after serving in the Medical Corps overseas.

Sgt. Conner, who was graduated from Fort Hill High School in 1944, served in the Philippines and was among the first troops to enter Japan following V-J Day. He was inducted into the Army in the summer of 1944.

Martin Will Open Hagerstown Store

The State Tax Commission has issued a certificate of incorporation to Martin's of Hagerstown, Inc., to operate a department store in that city. Capital stock consists of 1,000 shares, with a par value of $100 each. The incorporators are Frank A. Martin, of Cumberland; Mrs. B. Virginia Johnston, of Flintstone, and Louis P. Welles, of New York City.

Martin now operates a women's wear store at 47 Baltimore street, this city, and the business here will be continued.

The commission also granted a charter to the Macaneck Coal Company, of Eckhart, to deal in coal. Capital stock consists of 500 shares, with par value of $50 each. The incorporators include William E. Eckhart and Charles F. Eckhart, of Eckhart; and Christopher R. McMannis, of Frostburg.

Local Officers Attend National Guard Meeting

Lieut. Colonels Randolph Millholland and Oliver H. Bruce III Wednesday attended the National Guard Day program of the Advertising Club of Baltimore at the Emerson Hotel where the principal speaker was Maj. Gen. Butler B. Miltenberger, chief of the National Guard Bureau.

General Miltenberger stressed the total unpreparedness of the United States at the present time due to the failure of Congress to take steps to insure a nuceleus of well-trained men.

The failure of officials to take action has resulted in an additional burden being placed on the National Guard, the speaker said.

Local Marine Corps Recruiter Reenlists

Staff Sgt. Murrell W. Brainerd, local Marine Corps recruiter, has left here for Amarillo, Texas, where he will spend 60 days re-enlistment furlough. During his absence the local office will be in charge of Platoon Sgt. William B. Sewell of the Baltimore office.

Sgt. Brainered will re-enlist for four years service. He has eight years prior duty and served in the South Pacific during the war. Upon leaving Brainerd announced that it is possible for men who have had previous service in the Army, Navy or Coast Guard and who have received basic training can enlist in the Marines without taking "boot" training.

Washington Beer Workers Strike

Washington, Oct. 10 (AP)—Brewery workers and beer truck drivers went on strike today, seeking a wage increase from seven breweries and distributors.

A union official said approximately 310 men are involved.

The drivers and brewery workers, members of the AFL Beer and Soda Water Drivers and Helpers Union, are asking an increase in their wage scale of $25 weekly plus seven cents a case commission.

Business Agent Thomas A. Caton said the drivers average about $100 a week, out of which they pay their helpers about $35.

W. Cameron Burton, counsel for the breweries, said the union has rejected a proffered increase which would raise the scale 40 percent above 1941 figures, and has made no counter proposal.

Firms involved in the strike are the Christian Heurich Brewing Company, Gunthers Beer Distributing Agency, Anheuser-Busch, Inc., National Brewing Company, American Brewing Company, Valley Forge Distributing Company, and David Tavan, Inc.

Sammy Baugh has gained two and one-tenth miles of ground for the Washington Redskins on 905 forward pass completions in nine seasons.

Cumberlander Aids Siamese Build Airline

Two American airmen, one a Cumberlander, are assisting in the establishment of a new Siamese air line. Both are former members of the Army Air Transport Command.

Flight Officer Sanford T. Jenkins, Mexico Farms, and Staff Sgt. Lloyd S. Gray, of Lindenwood, Ill., both of the ATC's Pacific Division, are leaving the service to lend their knowledge to the Douglas C-47 service planned by the Siamese to link Southeast Asia, the South China coast and the Malay peninsula.

Jenkins will be chief pilot and check pilot for the Siamese fliers who will make up the flight crews. Gray will be chief of maintenance and chief of engineering instruction.

To Check Pilots

Fifty of the Royal Siamese Air Force's top pilots will be checked out by Jenkins, who has been operations officer for the 1537-2Y Operating location at Bangkok, end of the line for Pacific division operations in the Far East.

Gray, now maintenance chief for the ATC in Bangkok, will direct inspections and overhauls, and, at the same time, instruct Siamese mechanics.

Negotiations have been completed through which the United States Foreign Liquidation Commission is selling 10 Douglas C-47 Skytrains to the Siamese government. Three of the aircraft were delivered in July.

"The big job will be in familiarizing the Siamese personnel with the C-47," said Flight Officer Jenkins. "They haven't had anything that large before."

Confident of Success

Jenkins ferried P63s to Alaska during the war until ordered to the India-China division of the ATC last year. His service includes assignment in Calcutta and six months in Singapore before coming to Bangkok in the spring of 1946. Before entering the service Jenkins flew commercially in the Southeastern United States.

Both Jenkins and Gray are confident of success in their new venture.

"We can't miss," said Jenkins. "These people like us and we like them. What more could you ask?"

Don Maung airport at Bangkok will be headquarters for the Siamese line. One of the most modern in Southeast Asia, Don Maung is the object of an ambitious five-year plan by the Siamese Air Force to lengthen the present 6000-foot strip to 7000 feet, and another of equal length paralleling it on the opposite side of the field and to build a Northeast, Southwest strip 5000 feet long. All runways would be 300 feet wide.

His stepmother, Mrs. Lydia Basye, 25, has been arraigned on six counts for the beatings and the boy's father has been arrested.

Martin Will Open Hagerstown Store

The State Tax Commission has issued a certificate of incorporation to Martin's of Hagerstown, Inc., to operate a department store in that city. Capital stock consists of 1,000 shares, with a par value of $100 each. The incorporators are Frank A. Martin, of Cumberland; Mrs. B. Virginia Johnston, of Flintstone, and Louis P. Welles, of New York City.

Martin now operates a women's wear store at 47 Baltimore street, this city, and the business here will be continued.

The commission also granted a charter to the Macaneck Coal Company, of Eckhart, to deal in coal. Capital stock consists of 500 shares, with par value of $50 each. The incorporators include William E. Eckhart and Charles F. Eckhart, of Eckhart; and Christopher R. McMannis, of Frostburg.

Local Officers Attend National Guard Meeting

Lieut. Colonels Randolph Millholland and Oliver H. Bruce III Wednesday attended the National Guard Day program of the Advertising Club of Baltimore at the Emerson Hotel where the principal speaker was Maj. Gen. Butler B. Miltenberger, chief of the National Guard Bureau.

General Miltenberger stressed the total unpreparedness of the United States at the present time due to the failure of Congress to take steps to insure a nucleus of well-trained men.

The failure of officials to take action has resulted in an additional burden being placed on the National Guard, the speaker said.

Local Marine Corps Recruiter Reenlists

Staff Sgt. Murrell W. Brainerd, local Marine Corps recruiter, has left here for Amarillo, Texas, where he will spend 60 days re-enlistment furlough. During his absence the local office will be in charge of Platoon Sgt. William B. Sewell of the Baltimore office.

Sgt. Brainered will re-enlist for four years service. He has eight years prior duty and served in the South Pacific during the war. Upon leaving Brainerd announced that it is possible for men who have had previous service in the Army, Navy or Coast Guard and who have received basic training can enlist in the Marines without taking "boot" training.

Washington Beer Workers Strike

Washington, Oct. 10 (AP)—Brewery workers and beer truck drivers went on strike today, seeking a wage increase from seven breweries and distributors.

A union official said approximately 310 men are involved.

The drivers and brewery workers, members of the AFL Beer and Soda Water Drivers and Helpers Union, are asking an increase in their wage scale of $25 weekly plus seven cents a case commission.

Business Agent Thomas A. Caton said the drivers average about $100 a week, out of which they pay their helpers about $35.

W. Cameron Burton, counsel for the breweries, said the union has rejected a proffered increase which would raise the scale 40 percent above 1941 figures, and has made no counter proposal.

Firms involved in the strike are the Christian Heurich Brewing Company, Gunthers Beer Distributing Agency, Anheuser-Busch, Inc., National Brewing Company, American Brewing Company, Valley Forge Distributing Company, and David Tavan, Inc.

Sammy Baugh has gained two and one-tenth miles of ground for the Washington Redskins on 905 forward pass completions in nine seasons.

Mrs. Marie C. Carter, 35, 734 Gephart Drive, was given an absolute divorce from Herschell V. Carter, said to be a non-resident of the state of Maryland. She was also awarded the custody of their two minor children.

Her attorney, Clarence Shutter, said they were married March 2, 1931, and that "the husband left their home" February 15, 1944.

In 1771, British Courts ruled that as soon as a slave set foot on the British Isles, he became free.

Sues For Divorce

Charging that her husband deserted her April 1, 1945, Mrs. Dorothy M. Zollner filed suit in Circuit Court Wednesday for an absolute divorce from Arthur W. Zollner. She also asked the custody of their minor child.

Mrs. Zollner, represented by Earl E. Manges, said they were married November 7, 1932.

In 1845, Litchfield Co., Conn., produced 2,750,000 pounds of cheese.

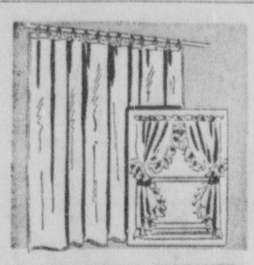

Woman Is Missing

Police were asked yesterday to search for Mrs. Pauline Elizabeth DeVore, 27, who her husband, Harvey DeVore, said has been missing from her home in Ellerslie since September 26. Mrs. DeVore was described as five feet, two inches tall, weighs 165 pounds and has dark brown hair. She was wearing a white blouse and light blue jacket when last seen, police were told.

The Union of South Africa was established in 1910.

Feared For Life, Woman Declares; Granted Divorce

Mrs. Emma Crowe Says She Took "Terrible Beating" From Mate

Declaring she had to leave her husband "for fear of her life," Mrs. Emma P. Crowe, 36, Frostburg, was granted an absolute divorce from Herman Jacob Crowe in a decree signed in Circuit Court yesterday by Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

Mrs. Crowe said that when her husband would "come home drunk, I would take a terrible beating from him, one mighty blow after another." She said they separated January 7, 1946 and that he "is now living with another woman." Estel C. Kelley was her attorney.

Mrs. Zella Wilson, 42, Little Orleans, was granted an absolute divorce from Roy Wilson, said to reside in Washington, D .C., in a decree signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster. She said her husband "ran around" with other women while they lived in Washington and finally deserted her last January. William L. Wilson, Jr., was her attorney.

Mrs. Betty J. Behanna, 19, Frostburg, was granted an absolute divorce from Eugene H. Behanna in a decree signed by Judge Huster. She also testified her husband associated with other women and they finally separated. Edward J. Ryan was her attorney.

An absolute divorce has been granted to Mrs. Anna Stott, National, from Albert T. Stott, on her cross-bill of complaint. The husband's bill of complaint was dismissed by Judge Huster in granting the decree. Mrs. Stott said her husband associated with other women and left her. She had obtained a partial divorce in 1944.

Mrs. Stott, represented by Morgan C. Harris, was given the custody of two minor children and Stott was ordered to pay $12.50 weekly for their support. Morgan C. Harris represented Mrs. Stott while Ryan was attorney for the husband.

Mrs. Leah Dawson Hook, 25, 912 Maryland avenue, was granted an absolute divorce from Wayne Hook by Judge Huster on grounds of desertion. Ryan was her attorney.

Judge Huster also granted an absolute divorce to Mrs. Rodessa E. Rolfe, 22, 302 Columbia street, from Cloyd M. Rolfe, said to reside in Washington. She said he drank to excess and associated with other women. Mrs. Rolfe was granted permission to resume use of her maiden name, Rodessa Crews. Ryan was her attorney.

Judge Huster granted the petition of Joseph W. Burke for an annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Myrtle W. Burke. Grounds were not disclosed by his attorney, Ryan.

Store Is Robbed

Joseph W. Lewis reported to police Wednesday that his grocery store at 1100 Ella avenue was broken into Tuesday night and that $15 in pennies was taken from the establishment. Police reported the intruder entered the place by removing a pane of glass from the front door and added the glass was also missing.

Dairy Dispute Will Go To Hagerstown

Judges of the Circuit Court have approved a motion to have a number of damage suits resulting from a dispute over the sale of stock in the Queen City Dairy, Inc., moved to Washington County Circuit Court, Hagerstown, for trial.

Litigation has been pending in the local court for several months, following alleged efforts of one group to obtain a majority of the shares in the company. It was charged that one director and a former director had offered to buy shares or obtain options from a number of stockholders, "by misrepresentation," in order to gain control.

In recent weeks, several suits were filed aganist stockholders who were accused of agreeing to sell their stock, and then failing to do so. Clarence U. Llewellyn, a director, and Harvey E. England, a former director, filed suits against the following stockholders: Mabel A. White, J. William Loar, Harman R. Simons, George W. Stafford, Helen M. Stegmaier, Mary E. Helmick, H. S. Grabenstein, C. R. Armstrong and S. A. Knippenberg.

Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., and Thomas Lohr Richards are attorneys for Llewellyn and England, while the defendants are represented by D. Lindley Sloan, George Henderson and F. Brooke Whiting.

OPA Check Indicates Local Compliance

A report on surveys being conducted at apparel and furniture stores in Allegany county has been released by local price control officials.

Of the 78 apparel stores in the county, 23 have been inspected. Five were found to be violating record keeping regulations; four violating price ceilings, and one violating the regulation of tagging merchandise with price ceilings, it was stated. Violators will be called before the price control panel for hearings in the near future.

Fifteen furniture stores of the 26 in the county have been checked, and the majority were found to be complying with OPA regulations. A few, however, were reported to be violating regulations concerning record keeping. The proprietors of the latter will be given hearings.

In reporting the contribution of $10 Wednesday from the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, Local Division No. 1110, it was listed as Potomac Edison drivers but it should have also included Emory Coach drivers, as they are members of the local.

Contributions are still needed for the fund as indications are that Mr. and Mrs. Jones will be patients in the sanitarium for quite a long time. The NEWS will welcome donations from individuals, organizations, employes in various plants, offices, stores, etc.

Send your contributions to "Jones Family Fund" care of Harry H. Robinson, managing editor, The Cumberland News, Box 567, Cumberland, Md., or leave them at Times-News office, 7 South Mechanic street.

Let's keep the fund growing.

With over 300 former GI students attending Potomac State College at Keyser, W. Va., and most of them members of the Freshman class, the upper classmen are facing a problem "unheard of on any college campus." That is, it was unheard of before the war.

This week, freshmen at the school received individual copies of certain rules over the name of The Student Council, Edward Devine, president, outlining conduct of Freshmen at the school.

The veterans, many of whom are residents of this city, have rebeled and say they will not conform with the rules. That is they will not be bothered about 13 of them at least. One of them No. 10, which in short requires Freshmen to be courteous is "okay", so say the GIs. They claim it is a habit with them anyway after being in the armed forces.

The other rules and regulations, so far as the veterans are concerned are "just a bunch of kid stuff." Several of them explained to Chatter yesterday, "We are going to school to study, and most of us have lost several years as it is. If these people think we are going to waste time on this kind of thing they're crazy."

The 14 Freshmen rules follow:

1. Freshmen shall wear official badges at all times and caps at all times except in buildings.
2. Freshmen shall stay off the grass, and shall use the front door of the Administration Building at all times.
3. Freshmen shall answer the telephone and shall find the party asked for, if possible; otherwise he shall deliver the message.
4. Freshmen shall "date" only on Saturday and Sunday nights.
5. Freshmen shall learn all school yells and songs.
6. Freshmen shall attend assemblies.
7. Freshmen shall not take after-dinner walks with any girl.
8. Freshmen shall carry matches at all times and light a cigarette for a sophomore on request.
9. Freshmen are subject to orders within reason.
10. Freshmen shall use respectful language and exhibit proper attitude toward the school, activities, and all members of the student body.
11. Freshmen shall tarry a shoe shine cloth at all times to be used on demand.
12. Freshmen shall learn names of all sophomores.
13. Freshmen must attend Kangaroo Court.
14. Freshmen shall hold doors open for sophomores.

Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, believes that the extended school lunch program made possible by a recent Congressional appropriation can improve the health of many school children by assuring them a nutritionally adequate lunch. Dr. Riley stressed the importance of a well-balanced meal in the middle of the day, whether received at school or carried from home.

He quoted the nutritionist of the State Department of Health as saying that the program now carried on with federal aid should greatly benefit the health of school children by providing a suitable mid-day meal designed to meet their nutritional needs.

"Three different types of lunch may be served, depending upon local conditions and the facilities available at the school", the nutritionist said. The Type A lunch is a complete meal supplying between one-third and one-half of the daily requirements of calories, protein, minerals and vitamins. Type B is a partial lunch, consisting of half a pint of milk and usually one other dish, such as soup or a salad. It meets part of the child's nutritional requirement but should be supplemented by sandwiches and other foods brought from home. The Type C lunch is merely a half pint of milk to be drunk with a lunch carried from home. These lunches are all served at low cost on a non-profit basis. Children who cannot pay receive the same lunch without cost and without discrimination or segregation.

Parents are advised to find out exactly what type of lunch their children get at school. If the B or C type of lunch is provided they should plan box lunches that will round out a well-balanced meal. The noon meal should supply at least one-third of the day's food requirement. It should include milk, fruit, vegetables, whole wheat or enriched bread and some form of protein, such as meat, poultry, fish or an egg.

"Although a well-balanced lunch can improve an otherwise poor diet, breakfast and dinner should not be forgotten. Three good meals are needed to meet the day's nutritional requirements and maintain the best possible state of health", the nutritionist concluded.

Ridgeley Man Fined

Kenneth Raymond Null, Ridgeley, W. Va., was fined $29.60 on a charge of reckless driving at a hearing before Magistrate C. A. Jewell in Ridgeley yesterday morning.

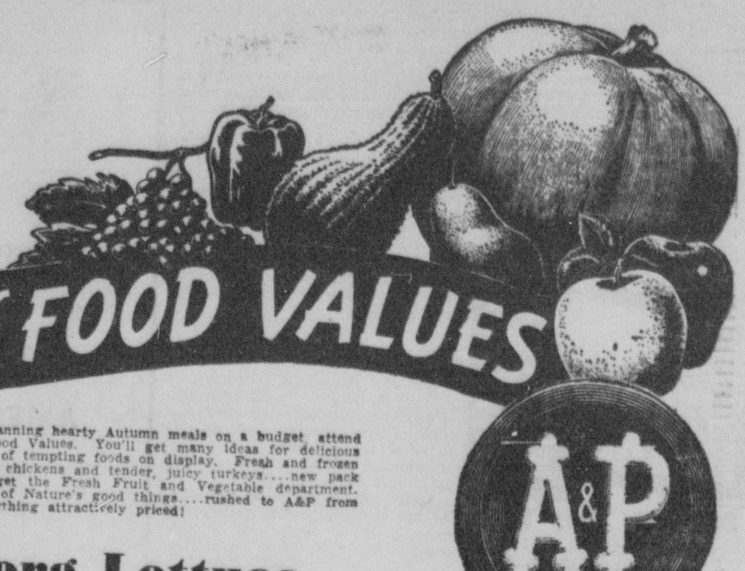

Magistrate Jewell said Null was arrested yesterday morning about 6:20 o'clock after the car he was driving crashed against a truck driven by W. A. Pyle, also of Ridgeley, on the Miltenberger-Seymour road. He added that both vehicles were damaged considerably.

James Morton Nominated

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 10 (AP) — Attorney James C. Morton, Davidsonville, today was chosen by the Anne Arundel County Democratic State Central Committee as the party nominee for the House of Delegates seat left vacant by the death of Albert W. Woodfield.

Morton, a veteran of World War II, was elected unanimously by the committee, and his name submitted to the Board of Election Supervisors for placing on the ballot.

Feared For Life, Woman Declares; Granted Divorce

Mrs. Emma Crowe Says She Took "Terrible Beating" From Mate

Declaring she had to leave her husband "for fear of her life," Mrs. Emma P. Crowe, 36, Frostburg, was granted an absolute divorce from Herman Jacob Crowe in a decree signed in Circuit Court yesterday by Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

Mrs. Crowe said that when her husband would "come home drunk, I would take a terrible beating from him, one mighty blow after another." She said they separated January 7, 1946 and that he "is now living with another woman." Estel C. Kelley was her attorney.

Mrs. Zella Wilson, 42, Little Orleans, was granted an absolute divorce from Roy Wilson, said to reside in Washington, D .C., in a decree signed by Chief Judge William A. Huster. She said her husband "ran around" with other women while they lived in Washington and finally deserted her last January. William L. Wilson, Jr., was her attorney.

Mrs. Betty J. Behanna, 19, Frostburg, was granted an absolute divorce from Eugene H. Behanna in a decree signed by Judge Huster. She also testified her husband associated with other women and they finally separated. Edward J. Ryan was her attorney.

An absolute divorce has been granted to Mrs. Anna Stott, National, from Albert T. Stott, on her cross-bill of complaint. The husband's bill of complaint was dismissed by Judge Huster in granting the decree. Mrs. Stott said her husband associated with other women and left her. She had obtained a partial divorce in 1944.

Mrs. Stott, represented by Morgan C. Harris, was given the custody of two minor children and Stott was ordered to pay $12.50 weekly for their support. Morgan C. Harris represented Mrs. Stott while Ryan was attorney for the husband.

Mrs. Leah Dawson Hook, 25, 912 Maryland avenue, was granted an absolute divorce from Wayne Hook by Judge Huster on grounds of desertion. Ryan was her attorney.

Judge Huster also granted an absolute divorce to Mrs. Rodessa E. Rolfe, 22, 302 Columbia street, from Cloyd M. Rolfe, said to reside in Washington. She said he drank to excess and associated with other women. Mrs. Rolfe was granted permission to resume use of her maiden name, Rodessa Crews. Ryan was her attorney.

Judge Huster granted the petition of Joseph W. Burke for an annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Myrtle W. Burke. Grounds were not disclosed by his attorney, Ryan.

Store Is Robbed

Joseph W. Lewis reported to police Wednesday that his grocery store at 1100 Ella avenue was broken into Tuesday night and that $15 in pennies was taken from the establishment. Police reported the intruder entered the place by removing a pane of glass from the front door and added the glass was also missing.

Dairy Dispute Will Go To Hagerstown

Judges of the Circuit Court have approved a motion to have a number of damage suits resulting from a dispute over the sale of stock in the Queen City Dairy, Inc., moved to Washington County Circuit Court, Hagerstown, for trial.

Litigation has been pending in the local court for several months, following alleged efforts of one group to obtain a majority of the shares in the company. It was charged that one director and a former director had offered to buy shares or obtain options from a number of stockholders, "by misrepresentation," in order to gain control.

In recent weeks, several suits were filed aganist stockholders who were accused of agreeing to sell their stock, and then failing to do so. Clarence U. Llewellyn, a director, and Harvey E. England, a former director, filed suits against the following stockholders: Mabel A. White, J. William Loar, Harman R. Simons, George W. Stafford, Helen M. Stegmaier, Mary E. Helmick, H. S. Grabenstein, C. R. Armstrong and S. A. Knippenberg.

Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., and Thomas Lohr Richards are attorneys for Llewellyn and England, while the defendants are represented by D. Lindley Sloan, George Henderson and F. Brooke Whiting.

OPA Check Indicates Local Compliance

A report on surveys being conducted at apparel and furniture stores in Allegany county has been released by local price control officials.

Of the 78 apparel stores in the county, 23 have been inspected. Five were found to be violating record keeping regulations; four violating price ceilings, and one violating the regulation of tagging merchandise with price ceilings, it was stated. Violators will be called before the price control panel for hearings in the near future.

Fifteen furniture stores of the 26 in the county have been checked, and the majority were found to be complying with OPA regulations. A few, however, were reported to be violating regulations concerning record keeping. The proprietors of the latter will be given hearings.

In reporting the contribution of $10 Wednesday from the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America, Local Division No. 1110, it was listed as Potomac Edison drivers but it should have also included Emory Coach drivers, as they are members of the local.

Contributions are still needed for the fund as indications are that Mr. and Mrs. Jones will be patients in the sanitarium for quite a long time. The NEWS will welcome donations from individuals, organizations, employes in various plants, offices, stores, etc.

With over 300 former GI students attending Potomac State College at Keyser, W. Va., and most of them members of the Freshman class, the upper classmen are facing a problem "unheard of on any college campus." That is, it was unheard of before the war.

This week, freshmen at the school received individual copies of certain rules over the name of The Student Council, Edward Devine, president, outlining conduct of Freshmen at the school.

The veterans, many of whom are residents of this city, have rebeled and say they will not conform with the rules. That is they will not be bothered about 13 of them at least. One of them No. 10, which in short requires Freshmen to be courteous is "okay", so say the GIs. They claim it is a habit with them anyway after being in the armed forces.

The other rules and regulations, so far as the veterans are concerned are "just a bunch of kid stuff." Several of them explained to Chatter yesterday, "We are going to school to study, and most of us have lost several years as it is. If these people think we are going to waste time on this kind of thing they're crazy."

The 14 Freshmen rules follow:

1. Freshmen shall wear official badges at all times and caps at all times except in buildings.
2. Freshmen shall stay off the grass, and shall use the front door of the Administration Building at all times.
3. Freshmen shall answer the telephone and shall find the party asked for, if possible; otherwise he shall deliver the message.
4. Freshmen shall "date" only on Saturday and Sunday nights.
5. Freshmen shall learn all school yells and songs.
6. Freshmen shall attend assemblies.
7. Freshmen shall not take after-dinner walks with any girl.
8. Freshmen shall carry matches at all times and light a cigarette for a sophomore on request.
9. Freshmen are subject to orders within reason.
10. Freshmen shall use respectful language and exhibit proper attitude toward the school, activities, and all members of the student body.
11. Freshmen shall carry a shoe shine cloth at all times to be used on demand.
12. Freshmen shall learn names of all sophomores.
13. Freshmen must attend Kangaroo Court.
14. Freshmen shall hold doors open for sophomores.

Dr. R. H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, believes that the extended school lunch program made possible by a recent Congressional appropriation can improve the health of many school children by assuring them a nutritionally adequate lunch. Dr. Riley stressed the importance of a well-balanced meal in the middle of the day, whether received at school or carried from home.

He quoted the nutritionist of the State Department of Health as saying that the program now carried on with federal aid should greatly benefit the health of school children by providing a suitable mid-day meal designed to meet their nutritional needs.

"Three different types of lunch may be served, depending upon local conditions and the facilities available at the school", the nutritionist said. The Type A lunch is a complete meal supplying between one-third and one-half of the daily requirements of calories, protein, minerals and vitamins. Type B is a partial lunch, consisting of half a pint of milk and usually one other dish, such as soup or a salad. It meets part of the child's nutritional requirement but should be supplemented by sandwiches and other foods brought from home. The Type C lunch is merely a half pint of milk to be drunk with a lunch carried from home. These lunches are all served at low cost on a non-profit basis. Children who cannot pay receive the same lunch without cost and without discrimination or segregation.

Parents are advised to find out exactly what type of lunch their children get at school. If the B or C type of lunch is provided they should plan box lunches that will round out a well-balanced meal. The noon meal should supply at least one-third of the day's food requirement. It should include milk, fruit, vegetables, whole wheat or enriched bread and some form of protein, such as meat, poultry, fish or an egg.

"Although a well-balanced lunch can improve an otherwise poor diet, breakfast and dinner should not be forgotten. Three good meals are needed to meet the day's nutritional requirements and maintain the best possible state of health", the nutritionist concluded.

Ridgeley Man Fined

Kenneth Raymond Null, Ridgeley, W. Va., was fined $29.60 on a charge of reckless driving at a hearing before Magistrate C. A. Jewell in Ridgeley yesterday morning.

Magistrate Jewell said Null was arrested yesterday morning about 6:20 o'clock after the car he was driving crashed against a truck driven by W. A. Pyle, also of Ridgeley, on the Miltenberger-Seymour road. He added that both vehicles were damaged considerably.

James Morton Nominated

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 10 (AP) — Attorney James C. Morton, Davidsonville, today was chosen by the Anne Arundel County Democratic State Central Committee as the party nominee for the House of Delegates seat left vacant by the death of Albert W. Woodfield.

Morton, a veteran of World War II, was elected unanimously by the committee, and his name submitted to the Board of Election Supervisors for placing on the ballot.

Murray Invites Trainmen To Join Forces With CIO

William Green Is Expected To Counter At Later Date For AFL

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Oct. 10 (AP)—One thousand and forty-six delegates of the independent Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen gave thunderous applause today to an invitation by Philip Murray to "join forces with the Congress of Industrial Organization to carry the labor movement forward."

The CIO president's invitation to the brotherhood to bring its 218,000 members into the CIO was accompanied by a deriding of the American Federation of Labor whose president, William Green, has accepted an invitation to make a similar offer later on behalf of the AFL.

AFL-CIO Wooing Contest

The date for Green's speech has not been set, nor has the subject been announced, as an AFL-CIO wooing contest to add the big independent to their membership.

Murray, supporting his offer to associate "with your leadership and your membership in the great work that lies ahead," spoke of the AFL's "fuddy-duddy leadership" which he said "slowly creeps along in the path of the CIO and shouts 'me too—wait for baby.'"

The CIO chieftain spoke in friendly terms about President Truman before the brotherhood, whose own leader, A. F. Whitney, is an avowed enemy of the nation's Chief Executive.

"The record of the 79th Congress is a record of reaction," said the CIO chieftain, adding that the Congress "reached a new low" in its labor policies and "made a mockery of President Truman's 21 points for reconversion."

Cites "Runaway" Prices

Murray said he felt sure that President Truman regrets the "hollow melodrama and old-fashioned hysterics" that accompanied presidential action to break the railroad trainmen's strike last May.

He declared that joint political action by the BRT and CIO would influence the fight for price control and legislation "to head off a new depression." A current dangerous factor is "the tragic fact of runaway prices" which has reduced the workers' take-home pay 22.2 per cent under its dollar value since V-J Day, said Murray.

Whitney, after the applause died down, assured Murray that his message "will be weighed by this convention."

Local Teachers Plan To Attend Convention

One of the largest attendances of Allegany County teachers in recent years is expected to be at the annual meeting of Maryland State Teachers Association next Friday in Baltimore, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, adding that county schools wil lbe closed Friday.

Kopp said he did not know exactly how many teachers plan to attend the meeting, but state officials expect the convention to draw about 5,000 persons.

Some of the meetings will be held in Baltimore schools, officials said. The Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers wil lbe hosts to the delegates at a dinner in the Calvert Ballroom, Lord Baltimore Hotel on Friday, October 18, at 6:30 p. m. The dinner will replace the sectional parent-teacher meeting formerly held in connection with the State Teachers annual convention.

Speakers at the banquet will be Charles W. Phillips, second vice president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Phillips is director of public relations of the Women's College, University of North Carolina, and is currently president of the North Carolina Education Association.

mound. Doerr backed up on the grass to field Slaughter's hopping grounder and threw him out, Musial going to third. Kurowski fouled to York near the Red Sox dugout. Garagiola singled to center scoring Musial with the third run of the inning and St. Louis' sixth run of the game. Walker struck out. Three runs, three hits, no errors, one left.

Red Sox: H. Wagner grounded to Schoendienst and was an easy out. Moore stood in his tracks to gather in Bagby's hoist.

Moses singled between first and second into right field for his first hit of the series. Pesky went down, swinging. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

FOURTH INNING

Red Sox: Schoendienst grabbed DiMaggio's grounder and threw him out. Williams lined a single over the heads of Marion and Schoendienst into right field. York walloped the first pinch into deep right-center field for a double scoring Williams with the first Red Sox run, making the score 6 to 1. It was York's fifth RBI of the series. Doerr walked on a three and two pitch. Brazle again began warming up in the Cardinal bullpen. Bill Zuber started to warm up in the Boston bullpen. Higgins flied to Walker in short left field. The runners held their bases. Munger caught York asleep off second base but threw wide to Marion and York scrambled back to safety. Slaughter came in fast to gobble up H. Wagner's short fly to right. One run, two hits, no errors, two left.

FIFTH INNING

Red Sox: Metkovich, a lefthanded hitter, batted for Bagby. He flied to Walker. Moses singled sharply into center. Musial made a leaping gloved-hand catch of Pesky's wicked liner and narrowly missed doubling up Moses who slid back to first under the tag. DiMaggio popped to Marion. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SIXTH INNING

Cardinals: Zuber went into pitch for Red Sox. Munger watched a third strike breeze by. Higgins made a nice catch of Schoendienst's foul close to the Cardinal dugout. Moore flied to Moses in short right. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Red Sox: Williams rolled out to Schoendienst. York walked on five pitches. Doerr grounded a single into left field, sending York to second. Once again Brazle began warming up in the Cards' bullpen. Higgins shot a hard single past Kurowski into left field but Walker's fast return forced York to stop at third and the bases were filled. H. Wagner flied to Slaughter in deep right. York tried to score from third after the catch but was out at the plate when Slaughter uncorked a tremendous heave to Garagiola. No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

SEVENTH INNING

Cardinals: Musial grounded out to Doerr. Slaughter rapped a single through the middle of the diamond for his third hit of the game. Kurowski lined a single into left field past the outstretched glove of Pesky, Slaughter stopping at second. Garagiola dumped a looper over Higgins' head into left field for a double, scoring Slaughter and sending Kurowski to third. Walker was again purposely walked. Marion rapped into a double play, Doerr to Pesky to York. One run, three hits, no errors, two left.

Red Sox: Tom McBride batted for Zuber. McBride bounced out to Marion. Moses singled sharply to right for his third straight hit. Schoendienst pulled down Pesky's liner and threw to first easily doubling Moses. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING

Cardinals: Mace Brown, a righthander, became the fourth Boston hurler. Munger bounced a single past Doerr. Schoendienst attempted to sacrifice but forced Munger at second, when H. Wagner picked up his bunt and threw to Pesky at second for the putout. Moore walked on four pitches. Musial lined to Pesky whose throw to Doerr doubled up Schoendienst. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Red Sox: DiMaggio was safe on first when Marion fumbled his grounder for an error. Kurowski camped under Williams' high pop. Rudy York went down swinging. Doerr slammed a home run high over the left field screen, DiMaggio scoring ahead of him to make the score 8 to 3. Higgins fouled out to Garagiola. Two runs, one hit, one error, none left.

NINTH INNING

Cardinals: Slaughter singled to center for his fourth hit. Kurowski bunted to third and when Higgins threw wild to first for an error Slaughter raced to third beating Doerr's throw to H. Wagner. Garagiola singled to right scoring Slaughter and sending Kurowski to second. Mike Ryba, a righthander replaced Brown on the mound for Boston. Walker sacrificed the runners along, Higgins to Doerr who covered first. Marion doubled to left field corner scoring Kurowski and Garagiola. Doerr went behind second to scoop up Munger's grounder and threw to York for the out, Marion going to third. Schoendienst was safe at first when Ryba failed to touch first after taking York's underhand toss. York was credited with an assist and Ryba charged with an error as Marion came in with the fourth run of the inning. Don Gutteridge replaced Doerr at second base for the Red Sox. Musial walked to fill the bases. Clem Dreisenwerd, a lefthander, became the sixth pitcher for the Red Sox when he replaced Ryba. Slaughter up for the second time, popped to York. Four runs, five hits, two errors, three left.

Red Sox: By using six pitchers, the Red Sox tied a record held by three other clubs. Marion caught H. Wagner's pop fly. Culberson batted for Dreisenwerd and lined to Kurowski. Moses beat out an infield single, beating Musial's toss to Munger who covered first.

Murray Invites Trainmen To Join Forces With CIO

William Green Is Expected To Counter At Later Date For AFL

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Oct. 10 (AP)—One thousand and forty-six delegates of the independent Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen gave thunderous applause today to an invitation by Philip Murray to "join forces with the Congress of Industrial Organization to carry the labor movement forward."

The CIO president's invitation to the brotherhood to bring its 218,000 members into the CIO was accompanied by a deriding of the American Federation of Labor whose president, William Green, has accepted an invitation to make a similar offer later on behalf of the AFL.

AFL-CIO Wooing Contest

The date for Green's speech has not been set, nor has the subject been announced, as an AFL-CIO wooing contest to add the big independent to their membership.

Murray, supporting his offer to associate "with your leadership and your membership in the great work that lies ahead," spoke of the AFL's "fuddy-duddy leadership" which he said "slowly creeps along in the path of the CIO and shouts 'me too—wait for baby.'"

The CIO chieftain spoke in friendly terms about President Truman before the brotherhood, whose own leader, A. F. Whitney, is an avowed enemy of the nation's Chief Executive.

"The record of the 79th Congress is a record of reaction," said the CIO chieftain, adding that the Congress "reached a new low" in its labor policies and "made a mockery of President Truman's 21 points for reconversion."

Cites "Runaway" Prices

Murray said he felt sure that President Truman regrets the "hollow melodrama and old-fashioned hysterics" that accompanied presidential action to break the railroad trainmen's strike last May.

He declared that joint political action by the BRT and CIO would influence the fight for price control and legislation "to head off a new depression." A current dangerous factor is "the tragic fact of runaway prices" which has reduced the workers' take-home pay 22.2 per cent under its dollar value since V-J Day, said Murray.

Whitney, after the applause died down, assured Murray that his message "will be weighed by this convention."

Local Teachers Plan To Attend Convention

One of the largest attendances of Allegany County teachers in recent years is expected to be at the annual meeting of Maryland State Teachers Association next Friday in Baltimore, Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, adding that county schools wil lbe closed Friday.

Kopp said he did not know exactly how many teachers plan to attend the meeting, but state officials expect the convention to draw about 8,000 persons.

Some of the meetings will be held in Baltimore schools, officials said. The Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers wil lbe hosts to the delegates at a dinner in the Calvert Ballroom, Lord Baltimore Hotel on Friday, October 18, at 6:30 p. m. The dinner will replace the sectional parent-teacher meeting formerly held in connection with the State Teachers annual convention.

Speakers at the banquet will be Charles W. Phillips, second vice president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Phillips is director of public relations of the Women's College, University of North Carolina, and is currently president of the North Carolina Education Association.

mound. Doerr backed up on the grass to field Slaughter's hopping grounder and threw him out, Musial going to third. Kurowski fouled to York near the Red Sox dugout. Garagiola singled to center scoring Musial with the third run of the inning and St. Louis' sixth run of the game. Walker struck out. Three runs, three hits, no errors, one left.

Red Sox: H. Wagner grounded to Schoendienst and was an easy out. Moore stood in his tracks to gather in Bagby's hoist.

Moses singled between first and second into right field for his first hit of the series. Pesky went down, swinging. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

FOURTH INNING

Red Sox: Schoendienst grabbed DiMaggio's grounder and threw him out. Williams lined a single over the heads of Marion and Schoendienst into right field. York walloped the first pinch into deep right-center field for a double scoring Williams with the first Red Sox run, making the score 6 to 1. It was York's fifth RBI of the series. Doerr walked on a three and two pitch. Brazle again began warming up in the Cardinal bullpen. Bill Zuber started to warm up in the Boston bullpen. Higgins flied to Walker in short left field. The runners held their bases. Munger caught York asleep off second base but threw wide to Marion and York scrambled back to safety. Slaughter came in fast to gobble up H. Wagner's short fly to right. One run, two hits, no errors, two left.

FIFTH INNING

Red Sox: Metkovich, a lefthanded hitter, batted for Bagby. He flied to Walker. Moses singled sharply into center. Musial made a leaping gloved-hand catch of Pesky's wicked liner and narrowly missed doubling up Moses who slid back to first under the tag. DiMaggio popped to Marion. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SIXTH INNING

Cardinals: Zuber went into pitch for Red Sox. Munger watched a third strike breeze by, Higgins made a nice catch of Schoendienst's foul close to the Cardinal dugout. Moore flied to Moses in short right. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Red Sox: Williams rolled out to Schoendienst. York walked on five pitches. Doerr grounded a single into left field, sending York to second. Once again Brazle began warming up in the Cards' bullpen. Higgins shot a hard single past Kurowski into left field but Walker's fast return forced York to stop at third and the bases were filled. H. Wagner flied to Slaughter in deep right. York tried to score from third after the catch but was out at the plate when Slaughter uncorked a tremendous heave to Garagiola. No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

SEVENTH INNING

Cardinals: Musial grounded out to Doerr. Slaughter rapped a single through the middle of the diamond for his third hit of the game. Kurowski lined a single into left field past the outstretched glove of Pesky, Slaughter stopping at second. Garagiola dumped a looper over Higgins' head into left field for a double, scoring Slaughter and sending Kurowski to third. Walker was again purposely walked. Marion rapped into a double play, Doerr to Pesky to York. One run, three hits, no errors, two left.

Red Sox: Tom McBride batted for Zuber. McBride bounced out to Marion. Moses singled sharply to right for his third straight hit. Schoendienst pulled down Pesky's liner and threw to first easily doubling Moses. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

EIGHTH INNING

Cardinals: Mace Brown, a righthander, became the fourth Boston hurler. Munger bounced a single past Doerr. Schoendienst attempted to sacrifice but forced Munger at second, when H. Wagner picked up his bunt and threw to Pesky at second for the putout. Moore walked on four pitches. Musial lined to Pesky whose throw to Doerr doubled up Schoendienst. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Red Sox: DiMaggio was safe on first when Marion fumbled his grounder for an error. Kurowski camped under Williams' high pop. Rudy York went down swinging. Doerr slammed a home run high over the left field screen, DiMaggio scoring ahead of him to make the score 8 to 3. Higgins fouled out to Garagiola. Two runs, one hit, one error, none left.

NINTH INNING

Cardinals: Slaughter singled to center for his fourth hit. Kurowski bunted to third and when Higgins threw wild to first for an error Slaughter raced to third beating Doerr's throw to H. Wagner. Garagiola singled to right scoring Slaughter and sending Kurowski to second. Mike Ryba, a righthander replaced Brown on the mound for Boston. Walker sacrificed the runners along, Higgins to Doerr who covered first. Marion doubled to left field corner scoring Kurowski and Garagiola. Doerr went behind second to scoop up Munger's grounder and threw to York for the out, Marion going to third. Schoendienst was safe at first when Ryba failed to touch first after taking York's underhand toss. York was credited with an assist and Ryba charged with an error as Marion came in with the fourth run of the inning. Don Gutteridge replaced Doerr at second base for the Red Sox. Musial walked to fill the bases. Clem Dreisenwerd, a lefthander, became the sixth pitcher for the Red Sox when he replaced Ryba. Slaughter up for the second time, popped to York. Four runs, five hits, two errors, three left.

Red Sox: By using six pitchers, the Red Sox tied a record held by three other clubs. Marion caught H. Wagner's pop fly. Culberson batted for Dreisenwerd and lined to Kurowski. Moses beat out an infield single, beating Musial's toss to Munger who covered first.

Junior Mechanics Plan Halloween Skating Party

Boys' Event Will Be Held Friday, Oct. 25, At Junior Order Park

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Oct. 10—Plans for a costume Halloween skating party were made tonight at the second meeting of the Frostburg Juvenile Council of the Junior Order United American Mechanics, held in Junior Order Hall, Broadway.

The party will be held Friday, October 25, at 6:30 p. m. at Junior Order Park, according to James Bone, one of the three advisers of the newly organized council. The group is sponsored by Mt. City Council No. 11, Jr. O.U.A.M.

Discussions of the council's purpose in forming a recreational organization for boys up to 15 years of age were given by A. Charles Stewart, a member of the senior council, and C. P. Saylor, Hollidaysburg, Pa., regional manager of the beneficiary degree of Jr. O.U.A.M., who organized the group.

Of the 68 boys present, 37 took the obligation to become new members. The club's membership is estimated at approximately 65 at the present time. As soon as 100 boys are enrolled as charter members, the council will be officially instituted at a charter night meeting to be held at Junior Order Park pavilion.

A donation of $5.57 was made by senior council members and the three advisers toward securing athletic equipment for the boys. Besides Bone, other advisers are John W. Timmons and Aaron Bean. Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Meetings are held each Thursday at 6:30 p. m. at Junior Order Hall.

Other indoor activities for the fall and winter season will be discussed at next week's meeting.

D. Cal Crim Sends $3,000 Donation For New Library

Commissioners Approve Purchase Of Oakland Site For Building

By GEORGE H. HAUST

OAKLAND, Oct. 10—A donation of $3,000 by D. Cal Crim, Cincinnati, O., a former resident, to purchase the lot on Second street where the memorial library will be constructed, was announced by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, at the weekly meeting of the Oakland Rotary Club.

The check for that amount has been received by Rathbun and deposited to the account of the library board. Approval for the purchase of the lot was given yesterday by the County Commissioners, at their regular meeting.

At the time Rathbun announced the donation of $10,000 by E. E. Enlow, Sabastopol, Calif., for a memorial library, he stated he had obtained an option on the Warnick property between Center and Pennington streets, 82 by 120 feet, as a proposed site for the library. The price set was $3,000 and the owners stated in the option that the property would be sold at that price only if used as a library site.

Crim read the news of the donation in Oakland newspapers and decided he would like to make another worthwhile donation to Oakland, and wrote to Rathbun about it. Subsequently the check for $3,000 was received.

This is only one of several liberal donations Crim has made to Oakland. This past summer he contributed $500 toward the purchase of uniforms for the Oakland Band, and he also contributed like sums following the tornado, and the fire last November which destroyed the Nally Building.

His parents, Joseph M. and Mary J. Crim, resided in Oakland. Cal ran away from home and went to Cincinnati as a boy "riding the bumpers" to see his sister. He secured a job as a bellhop, sold newspapers, shined shoes, clerked in a hotel and started in the police business in 1886. He then became a police detective, and was promoted to chief. In 1914 he opened the Cal Crim Detective Agency in Cincinnati, in which he became successful, now having over 100 persons working for him. He is now 82 years old. His last visit to Oakland was on July 4.

The check for $3,000 for the library site is in memory of his parents. Rathbun said the library board would proceed to obtain an architect to draw plans for the library which would be known as the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County, in memory of E. E. Enlow's daughter.

He predicted that branches of this library would eventually be opened in several other towns of the county

Bank Breaks Record

Statements of the four banks in Garrett County, published in response to a call at the close of business September 30, show total deposits of $8,651,993.78 and for the first time in history the First National Bank's statement tops the four million mark.

The First National Bank of Oakland shows deposits of $3,811,181.82, while others are as follows: Garrett National Bank in Oakland, $2,455,943.23; First State Bank, Grantsville, $1,884,439.12; and First National of Friendsville, $700,429.61.

The First National Bank of Oakland shows assets of $4,007,310.92; Garrett National, $2,653,395.21; First State of Grantsville, $1,815,913.85; and First National of Friendsville, $761,237.43.

Her sister, Mrs. Norma Sharpless, was her attendant.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beeman, Vindex, and is a member of the senior class at Kitzmiller High School. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shears, Elk Garden, W. Driver In Traffic Death Still Sought

State Police continue to make no headway in their search for the hit-run driver responsible for the death of Patrick Grimes, 44, Midland, who was fatally injured when struck on Grant street, Frostburg, a month ago.

Police are on the lookout for a 1938 or 1939 Oldsmobile with a broken headlight. Repeated appeals for information concerning the mishap and car have been made by authorities.

Plaintiff Wins Suit To Collect Money

In an opinion handed down by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper in Garrett County Circuit Court, a verdict in the amount of $582.65 was returned in favor of Nelson S. Wood who filed suit against Mr. and Mrs. C. A. May to collect money allegedly due him for excavation, furnishing materials and labor for the erection of a building for the defendants.

The jurists pointed out that Wood practically completed the excavation and was prepared to go ahead and carry out his contract, having been informed by the defendants previously that they did not need any permit or priority for the construction work.

After May learned it was necessary to get authority from the War Production Board he did everything he could to aid in getting it, according to the opinion, but was notified the application to do the work was denied.

Wood furnished the labor and materials in good faith and on the representation of May that priorities were not necessary, the court said, adding that the plaintiff performed the contracts as far as they could possibly be performed.

Work has begun on repairing and modernizing the elevator in the Public Safety Building, which has been out of use for a number of years, according to Commissioner Myers G. Light.

Electrical appliances are being replaced to convert the elevator from the operated to the automatic type, and six new hoisting cables will be installed.

Commissioner Light said it was previously hoped to have the modernized elevator in operation by the end of September, but that shortages of materials have delayed the work.

D. Cal Crim Sends $3,000 Donation For New Library

By GEORGE H. HAUST

OAKLAND, Oct. 10—A donation of $3,000 by D. Cal Crim, Cincinnati, O., a former resident, to purchase the lot on Second street where the memorial library will be constructed, was announced by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, at the weekly meeting of the Oakland Rotary Club.

The check for that amount has been received by Rathbun and deposited to the account of the library board. Approval for the purchase of the lot was given yesterday by the County Commissioners, at their regular meeting.

At the time Rathbun announced the donation of $10,000 by E. E. Enlow, Sebastopol, Calif., for a memorial library, he stated he had obtained an option on the Warnick property between Center and Pennington streets, 82 by 120 feet, as a proposed site for the library. The price set was $3,000 and the owners stated in the option that the property would be sold at that price only if used as a library site.

Crim read the news of the donation in Oakland newspapers and decided he would like to make another worthwhile donation to Oakland, and wrote to Rathbun about it. Subsequently the check for $3,000 was received.

This is only one of several liberal donations Crim has made to Oakland. This past summer he contributed $500 toward the purchase of uniforms for the Oakland Band, and he also contributed like sums following the tornado, and the fire last November which destroyed the Nally Building.

His parents, Joseph M. and Mary J. Crim, resided in Oakland. Cal ran away from home and went to Cincinnati as a boy "riding the bumpers" to see his sister. He secured a job as a bellhop, sold newspapers, shined shoes, clerked in a hotel and started in the police business in 1886. He then became a police detective, and was promoted to chief. In 1914 he opened the Cal Crim Detective Agency in Cincinnati, in which he became successful, now having over 100 persons working for him. He is now 82 years old. His last visit to Oakland was on July 4.

The check for $3,000 for the library site is in memory of his parents. Rathbun said the library board would proceed to obtain an architect to draw plans for the library which would be known as the Ruth Enlow Library of Garrett County, in memory of E. E. Enlow's daughter.

He predicted that branches of this library would eventually be opened in several other towns of the county

Statements of the four banks in Garrett County, published in response to a call at the close of business September 30, show total deposits of $8,651,993.78 and for the first time in history the First National Bank's statement tops the four million mark.

The First National Bank of Oakland shows deposits of $3,911,181.82, while others are as follows: Garrett National Bank in Oakland, $2,455,943.23; First State Bank, Grantsville, $1,684,439.12; and First National of Friendsville, $700,429.61.

The First National Bank of Oakland shows assets of $4,007,310.92; Garrett National, $2,653,395.21; First State of Grantsville, $1,815,913.85; and First National of Friendsville, $761,227.43.

Her sister, Mrs. Norma Sharpless, was her attendant.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beeman, Vindex, and is a member of the senior class at Kitzmiller High School. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shears, Elk Garden, W. Driver In Traffic Death Still Sought

State Police continue to make no headway in their search for the hit-run driver responsible for the death of Patrick Grimes, 44, Lidland, who was fatally injured when struck on Grant street, Frostburg, a month ago.

Police are on the lookout for a 1938 or 1939 Oldsmobile with a broken headlight. Repeated appeals for information concerning the mishap and car have been made by authorities.

Plaintiff Wins Suit To Collect Money

In an opinion handed down by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper in Garrett County Circuit Court, a verdict in the amount of $582.65 was returned in favor of Nelson S. Wood who filed suit against Mr. and Mrs. C. A. May to collect money allegedly due him for excavation, furnishing materials and labor for the erection of a building for the defendants.

The jurists pointed out that Wood practically completed the excavation and was prepared to go ahead and carry out his contract, having been informed by the defendants previously that they did not need any permit or priority for the construction work.

After May learned it was necessary to get authority from the War Production Board he did everything he could to aid in getting it, according to the opinion, but was notified the application to do the work was denied.

Wood furnished the labor and materials in good faith and on the representation of May that priorities were not necessary, the court said, adding that the plaintiff performed the contracts as far as they could possibly be performed.

Rep. O'Brien Will Enter Navy Hospital

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10 (AP) — Aides of Rep. George D. O'Brien, Detroit, Mich., Democrat, said today he will be hospitalized about six weeks as a result of an automobile accident.

They said his pelvic bone was fractured when his car turned over last Friday night between Hancock, Md., and Breezewood, Pa. He was on his way to Detroit.

O'Brien now is in the Cumberland (Md.) Memorial Hospital. He will be taken to the Bethesda (Md.) Navy Hospital in a few days.

Elevator Work Starts

Work has begun on repairing and modernizing the elevator in the Public Safety Building, which has been out of use for a number of years, according to Commissioner Myers G. Light.

Electrical appliances are being replaced to convert the elevator from the operated to the automatic type, and six new hoisting cables will be installed.

Commissioner Light said it was previously hoped to have the modernized elevator in operation by the end of September, but that shortages of materials have delayed the work.

A Baltimore company is handling the job under a contract with the city which was approved last July.

About 2,500,000,000 pounds of sausage are consumed in the United States annually.

Russians, Ordered To Register, Will Not Remain In U.S

11 Directed To Return Home Rather Than Comply With Request

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP) — The Soviet consulate said today 11 citizens of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, who came here to attend the American Slav Congress, had been ordered home by their government rather than comply with a Justice Department order for them to register as agents of a foreign power.

Anatol Yakovlev, vice consul of the Soviet Consulate General, said a scheduled appearance for the 11 persons at a Slav mass meeting tonight in Gary, Ind., had been cancelled and that all of them would go home "as soon as arrangements can be made."

Delegates To Slav Congress

They were among 17 European delegates to the third American Slav Congress, held September 22 in New York City. Among the 17 were one Czech, three Bulgarians and two Poles.

All 17 were asked by the Justice Department to register as foreign agents. Yakovlev said he had no information concerning what action might be taken by the six non-citizens of the USSR.

He added that his government had made "representations" to the Justice Department through the State Department.

In Washington both the Justice and State Departments declined comment on the matter today.

Included among the 11 USSR citizens were six Russians and five Ukrainians. The Russians, as identified by Yakovlev, are:

Playwright And General Included

Alexander Korneichuk, a playwright, formerly Ukrainian Foreign Commissar; Gen. Vasily Kozlov, leader of a White Russian partisan detachment during the war; Lt. Gen. Alexander Gundorov, president of the All-Slav Committee; Lydiia Voinova, former secretary of the Anti-Fascist League of Russian Youth; Professor Timofei Gorbuhov, of White Russia, and Alexander Yegurnov, an engineer.

Yakovlev identified the Ukrainians as:

Ivan Patorzhysnky, a prominent singing member of the Kiev Opera in the Ukraine capital; Mrs. Zoya Hiaidai, also of the Kiev Opera; Andrei Malyshko, a young poet of Kiev; Luka Palamarchuk, a journalist and chairman of the Ukrainian delegation; Semen Stefanyk, a professor of the University of Lwov.

Get 96,000 Horses

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration announced that up to Sept. 1, nearly 80,000 horses had been delivered to Poland from the United States, Canada and Ireland. Most if the horses were unloaded at Gdynia.

A total of 16,000 horses have arrived from Denmark out of 30,000 expected from that country.

Altogether, UNRRA plans to deliver approximately 140,000 horses to Poland as partial replacement of those lost during the war.

PROPOSES BY PHONE—Stationed in Yokohama, Pfc. Robert E. Breault, Fall River, Mass., is shown as he made the first trans-Pacific proposal from the Overseas Telephone Exchange in Tokyo. Although his call reached Helen Lowery, Newport, R. I., at 3:50 a. m. (5:30 p. m., Jap time) and routed her out of bed, she happily accepted it.

Legion Horn

local Legion Post advised the Hagerstown police to release the men, but added he didn't know if Cumberland police had made such a request.

He said the case was first reported to police headquarters Saturday morning and Lt. Detective Frank B. Gaffney, Cumberland Police Department, later appeared at the Harrison street home, to investigate the robbery. Fleming said no further word was received by the Legion from the police.

William Clayton, 11, 528 Columbia avenue, was treated Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. for a lacerated forehead after he fell off a stool at Allegany High School.

Roy W. Eves

Reviewing the accomplishments of Cumberland Rotary Club, Eves told the Kiwanians that Rotary assisted in forming the Potomac Boy Scout Council; helping to organize the Community Chest; sent boys to YMCA camp; sponsored a Boy Scout Troop; assisted in the Mississippi Valley disaster and the Japanese disaster; sponsored a Boys Club and built a cabin for them; sent boys to Scout camp; organized and sponsored an Alumni Orchestra, and established a student loan fund, thereby making it possible to help a number of young men through college.

Presents Hagerstown Club $10

Guests at the meeting were Edward R. Allan, past president of the local Rotary Club and J. F. Turner, member of the Kiwanis Club of Hagerstown. The Hagerstown club last summer defeated the Cumberland club in a three months attendance contest and the Cumberland club donated $10 to the underprivileged children's work of the Hagerstown Club as the prize to the winning club. O. J. Hale, president of the local club, presented the check to Mr. Turner for delivery to his club.

Following the club meeting directors of the club met and voted to contribute $10 to the "Jones Family Fund."

Legion Post Asks For Liquor License

An application was filed in Circuit Court yesterday for a Class C club beer, wine and liquor license by Chilcotte-Cresap Post No. 209, American Legion, Cresaptown. The application was presented by Walter E. Smith.

Bernard J. Byrnes applied for a Class B beer and wine license on Porter road, Eckhart.

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

Russians, Ordered To Register, Will Not Remain In U.S

11 Directed To Return Home Rather Than Comply With Request

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP) — The Soviet consulate said today 11 citizens of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, who came here to attend the American Slav Congress, had been ordered home by their government rather than comply with a Justice Department order for them to register as agents of a foreign power.

Anatol Yakovlev, vice consul of the Soviet Consulate General, said a scheduled appearance for the 11 persons at a Slav mass meeting tonight in Gary, Ind., had been cancelled and that all of them would go home "as soon as arrangements can be made."

Delegates To Slav Congress

They were among 17 European delegates to the third American Slav Congress, held September 22 in New York City. Among the 17 were one Czech, three Bulgarians and two Poles.

All 17 were asked by the Justice Department to register as foreign agents. Yakovlev said he had no information concerning what action might be taken by the six non-citizens of the USSR.

He added that his government had made "representations" to the Justice Department through the State Department.

In Washington both the Justice and State Departments declined comment on the matter today.

Included among the 11 USSR citizens were six Russians and five Ukrainians. The Russians, as identified by Yakovlev, are:

Playwright And General Included

Alexander Korneichuk, a playwright, formerly Ukrainian Foreign Commissar; Gen. Vasiliy Kozlov, leader of a White Russian partisan detachment during the war; Lt. Gen. Alexander Gundorov, president of the All-Slav Committee; Lydiia Voinova, former secretary of the Anti-Fascist League of Russian Youth; Professor Timofei Gorbuhov, of White Russia, and Alexander Yegurnov, an engineer.

Yakovlev identified the Ukrainians as:

Ivan Patorzhysnky, a prominent singing member of the Kiev Opera in the Ukraine capital; Mrs. Zoya Hiaidai, also of the Kiev Opera; Andrei Malyshko, a young poet of Kiev; Luka Palamarchuk, a journalist and chairman of the Ukrainian delegation; Semen Stefanyk, a professor of the University of Lwov.

Get 96,000 Horses

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration announced that up to Sept. 1, nearly 80,000 horses had been delivered to Poland from the United States, Canada and Ireland. Most if the horses were unloaded at Gdynia.

A total of 16,000 horses have arrived from Denmark out of 30,000 expected from that country.

Altogether, UNRRA plans to deliver approximately 140,000 horses to Poland as partial replacement of those lost during the war.

PROPOSES BY PHONE—Stationed in Yokohama, Pfc. Robert E. Breault, Fall River, Mass., is shown as he made the first trans-Pacific proposal from the Overseas Telephone Exchange in Tokyo. Although his call reached Helen Lowery, Newport, R. I., at 3:50 a. m. (5:30 p. m., Jap time) and routed her out of bed, she happily accepted it.

local Legion Post advised the Hagerstown police to release the men, but added he didn't know if Cumberland police had made such a request.

He said the case was first reported to police headquarters Saturday morning and Lt. Detective Frank B. Gaffney, Cumberland Police Department, later appeared at the Harrison street home, to investigate the robbery. Fleming said no further word was received by the Legion from the police.

William Clayton, 11, 528 Columbia avenue, was treated Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. for a lacerated forehead after he fell off a stool at Allegany High School.

Reviewing the accomplishments of Cumberland Rotary Club, Eves told the Kiwanians that Rotary assisted in forming the Potomac Boy Scout Council; helping to organize the Community Chest; sent boys to YMCA camp; sponsored a Boy Scout Troop; assisted in the Mississippi Valley disaster and the Japanese disaster; sponsored a Boys Club and built a cabin for them; sent boys to Scout camp; organized and sponsored an Alumni Orchestra, and established a student loan fund, thereby making it possible to help a number of young men through college.

Presents Hagerstown Club $10

Guests at the meeting were Edward R. Allan, past president of the local Rotary Club and J. F. Turner, member of the Kiwanis Club of Hagerstown. The Hagerstown club last summer defeated the Cumberland club in a three months attendance contest and the Cumberland club donated $10 to the underprivileged children's work of the Hagerstown Club as the prize to the winning club. O. J. Hale, president of the local club, presented the check to Mr. Turner for delivery to his club.

Following the club meeting directors of the club met and voted to contribute $10 to the "Jones Family Fund."

Legion Post Asks For Liquor License

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

China, In Darkest Hour Since V-J Day, Celebrates Birth Of Republic

SHANGHAI, Oct. 10 (AP) — Bands played and gay crowds thronged Shanghai and Nanking streets today while Chinese fought Chinese to the death at the battlefronts on this 35th anniversary of the Sun Yat-Sen revolution.

Celebration of the birth of China's republic came on the darkest hour since V-J Day.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, re-elected today by a standing committee of his Government Party (Kuomintant) to a somewhat indefinite term as president, restored military conscription. He was quoted as saying he did so for military reconstruction and national defense.

At Yenan, Chinese Communists charged that he lacked the manpower for the replacements reportedly demanded by his generals on the scattered civil war fronts.

In this connection, as the Communists claimed victories along the Peiping-Hankow railroad south of Peiping, military observers pointed out that the government apparently was sacrificing for the time being a portion of that line in favor of a quick capture of Communist-held Kalgan northwest of Peiping.

The government goal is the winning of Kalgan by October 15. The Communists warned that this would mean a complete split with Chiang's nationalists.

Such a split probably would involve immediate withdrawal of Communist delegations from Nanking, Shanghai and Peiping to Communist areas. Whether the Communists would go so far as to proclaim themselves the government of the republic only events can determine but the possibility cannot be excluded.

No new government successes were claimed today in the siege of Kalgan. Instead the government spoke of weakening a retaliatory Communist siege of government-held Paoting, southwest of Peiping.

Mrs. Ruth Judine Cramblitt sued for divorce from Thomas R. Cramblitt on undisclosed grounds. She is represented by Clarence Shutter while Morris Baron is attorney for the husband.

Mrs. Genevieve Singleton sued for divorce from Calvin Singleton on undisclosed grounds. Ryan is her attorney.

Asking interpretation of a will, a suit was filed by Paul A. Martin and Leona C. Martin, his wife, and 10 other complainants against Mrs. Lillian W. Martin and 12 other defendants. Albert A. Doub, Jr., is attorney for the complainants.

Former Judge Albert A. Doub, Sr., 748 Washington street, was reported "resting fairly confortably" in Memorial Hospital where he was admitted last night at 9 o'clock.

Mrs. Jane Grindel, Mrs. T. Donald Shires and Mrs. Ellen T. McKenzie have been appointed advisers of the seventh, eight and ninth grades, respectively, at Allegany High School, according to Ralph R. Webster, principal.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

OLD JUDGE: "Martha, I'm surprised to hear you make a statement like that, considering your uncle Harry is the biggest cattleman in the county."

MARTHA: "What's that got to do with it, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Simply this: Anyone familiar with the scientific feeding of livestock knows about distillers' grains and why grain is never wasted in making alcohol."

JIM: "That's news to me, too, Judge. Do you mean the grain can be used again?"

OLD JUDGE: "Precisely. All the distiller does is process the grain, using only the starch. Much of which is left is recovered in the form of vitamin and protein-rich concentrates. These are dried and shipped back to farmers in the form of stock and poultry feeds that are far more nutritious than the original grain."

JIM: "Are they being widely used, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "More and more all the time, Jim. And that's easy to understand because these nourishing concentrates fatten stock faster and enable the farmer to cut down his whole grain feeding about 20 per cent."

MARTHA: "I'm glad you told me this, Judge. If Uncle Harry heard what I said, I guess he would laugh his head off at me."

No Increase For Meals Is Seen At Present

A 15 per cent menu increase authorized effective yesterday by OPA for restaurant meat dishes will not result in any immediate price increase in Cumberland, a number of restaurant operators said yesterday, but they added that they do not know how long they will be able to keep from raising prices, because of the rising cost of foods.

Price ceilings today will be lifted on all meals, food items and beverages served on railroad dining cars, cafe cars and club cars.

RIOTERS FLEE—Running wildly, jobless demonstrators flee bullets fired by policemen in Rome during a riot outside Viminale Palace, the seat of the Italian government. More than 20,000 persons stormed the government offices until finally driven out by the police. Several persons were reported killed and more than 100 injured.

China, In Darkest Hour Since V-J Day, Celebrates Birth Of Republic

SHANGHAI, Oct. 10 (AP) — Bands played and gay crowds thronged Shanghai and Nanking streets today while Chinese fought Chinese to the death at the battlefronts on this 35th anniversary of the Sun Yat-Sen revolution.

Celebration of the birth of China's republic came on the darkest hour since V-J Day.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, re-elected today by a standing committee of his Government Party (Kuomintant) to a somewhat indefinite term as president, restored military conscription. He was quoted as saying he did so for military reconstruction and national defense.

At Yenan, Chinese Communists charged that he lacked the manpower for the replacements reportedly demanded by his generals on the scattered civil war fronts.

In this connection, as the Communists claimed victories along the Peiping-Hankow railroad south of Peiping, military observers pointed out that the government apparently was sacrificing for the time being a portion of that line in favor of a quick capture of Communist-held Kalgan northwest of Peiping.

The government goal is the winning of Kalgan by October 15. The Communists warned that this would mean a complete split with Chiang's nationalists.

Such a split probably would involve immediate withdrawal of Communist delegations from Nanking, Shanghai and Peiping to Communist areas. Whether the Communists would go so far as to proclaim themselves the government of the republic only events can determine but the possibility cannot be excluded.

No new government successes were claimed today in the siege of Kalgan. Instead the government spoke of weakening a retaliatory Communist siege of government-held Paoting, southwest of Peiping.

Four Divorce Suits Filed

Mrs. Ruth Judine Cramblitt sued for divorce from Thomas R. Cramblitt on undisclosed grounds. She is represented by Clarence Shutter while Morris Baron is attorney for the husband.

Mrs. Genevieve Singleton sued for divorce from Calvin Singleton on undisclosed grounds. Ryan is her attorney.

Asking interpretation of a will, a suit was filed by Paul A. Martin and Leona C. Martin, his wife, and 10 other complainants against Mrs. Lillian W. Martin and 12 other defendants. Albert A. Doub, Jr., is attorney for the complainants.

Following the meetings of the School Attendance League, Ramey said he plans to spend next Friday and Saturday at the annual State Teachers Association meeting before returning to Cumberland.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9—Pretty Joanne Dru, wife of Dick Haymes, received a hurried call to go to Arizona today to join the Howard Hawks company, which is shooting exteriors there. Joanne was sent for because an act of God may keep Margaret O'Sheridan (Mrs. William Patterson) out of Howard's picture. With the strike threatening to hold up production, Howard dare not wait too long for his leading lady, because he's afraid she will not be able to play the role for which she has been so much publicized.

He didn't know Margaret was going to have a baby, and has had high hopes she would be another Lauren Bacall. He gave her the same training and had been very excited about her acting potentialities. But Margaret is in love with her husband, and much as she wants a career and the chance to play this wonderful role in "Red River" opposite John Wayne, she wants her baby—and more power to her. The only thing is Howard wishes she had told him before he spent so many weeks training her.

Everything good happens to Larry Parks. He was oh, so happy over all his grand notices in "The Jolson Story", but he would have been happier if his wife, Betty Garrett, could have been here with him. Betty is in New York, a sensation in "Call Me Mister". Both were unhappy because they couldn't have their two successes together. But now M-G-M has signed Betty and Jules Mushun to make the picture for them and they'll be here in the spring. Congratulations, Larry — and Betty, too.

"Nightmare Alley" is still on my nightstand, where I put it. That's because I haven't had a minute to read it. But I am told it's highly censorable and that Darryl Zanuck is working very hard to get a script that will pass the august eye of the Johnston office. George Jessel has asked for Victor Mature to play the lead. Vic still lives in his dressing room on the 20th lot, and ever since he explained to the pickets, that he's going home, they let him pass without a word.

Maureen O'Hara had a terrific thrill this week when she spoke to her family via trans-oceanic telephone for the first time in five years. The last time she spoke to them was when she married Will Price. The call, which went through to Ireland at 6:30 in the morning, got her whole family up to hear the good news that she leaves October 23 by plane with her daughter, Bronson, to visit them. The family told her they get 25 gallons of gas a month, and they will now walk everywhere so they'll have gas left when she arrives to meet her and take her around visiting. That reminds me—all those stories that Maureen is expecting the stork again are being denied by her. She says, "I only wish it were true."

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Pretty little Diana Lynn, who broke her engagement to Henry Willson, has a new romance, this time it's on, and Merrill Pye were a two-some at the Seacomber's—so were Ben Bogeaus and his bride, Dolores Moran, who are planning to spend their Honeymoon right in Hollywood; Ella Raines and her fiance, Major Robin Olds, returned to Hallywood in his private plane; Bob Sterling is now living in Gaylord Hauser's old apartment in Beverly Hills. Saw Ann Sothern at Sonja Henie's party having a good time. It was good to see her smiling again; Jim Bannon, top radio announcer and his wife are expecting a baby. Mrs. Bannon plays the school teacher on the "Great Gildersleeve" show; Dorothy Lamour is giving a baby shower for Betty Hutton at the Beverly Tropics today. Betty will have to build an addition to the house for all those presents; Bruce Cabot and Marilyn Phillips romance continues to be hotter than mid-summer. They are together practically every evening; the painting John George Vogel did of Elizabeth Taylor is so beautiful, and is much admired at the Du Vannes gallery. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Tad von Brunt, the young Marine officer recently signed by Paramount. Von Brunt is plainly smitten but badly, with cute little Diana. The boy has a very colorful background. He was named Mayor of Okinawa when the Marines took that island during the war, because he was the only one of them who could speak Japanese. Personally, I promised on the air that Henry and Diana would never marry, so it wasn't much of a surprise to me when they broke their engagement.

Today the good news was given Eleanor and Tom Moore that their 13-year-old son, Tommy, would live. The boy has been hovering between life and death since last Tuesday, when a car made a sharp turn and ran into Timmy, who was riding his skooter in Santa Monica. He suffered a bad concussion and a compound fracture of the leg. Tom and Eleanor haven't left his bedside. A few years ago, Tom was very famous on the screen. He and his brothers, Owen and Matt, were the leading stars of the silent screen. All their friends will rejoice that the child is better.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Linda Darnell leaves for Taos, New Mexico, for a few days before she starts "Forever Amber". Most of her friends believe she and Pev Marley will reconcile. She still sees him more often than anyone else; Larry Cruikshank, son of the late and beloved Herb Cruikshank and Regina Crewe's stepson, is getting married Saturday. His bride-to-be is Kay Vernon of Philadelphia. She has come to Los Angeles for the marriage; Joseph Schenck, who had more parties given for him than any other departing Hollywoodian, dined at Sam Goldwyn's last night, and then departed by plane for Mexico with Merle Oberon and Lucien Ballard. The night before, the Harry Goetzes entertained him, and in honor of Peter Rathvon's birthday. They tell me it was a nice party. I was sorry my best friend and not always favorite critic (Dr. Martin) made me stay home and rest; Ruth Warwick, who is prettier off the screen even than on, and Merrill Pye were a two-

Rising U. S. Prices Hit Bermudans

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—The rising cost of living which has soared to almost 100 percent over the 1939 index figure of the War-Time Supplies Commission, was attributed by that commission directly to the increased prices prevailing in the American and Canadian markets.

Bermuda is almost entirely dependent upon imports for both necessities and luxuries.

Essential commodities have been safeguarded by the commission by forcing the importers to freeze their profits at their July 5 figures. They had been permitted a maximum percentage mark-up profit on essential items previous to this order but their profits have now been changed from a percentage basis to a monetary one. Now, no matter how high prices soar in the United States and Canada, Bermuda merchants will only be able to make the same profit on essential commodities as they made on July 5 of this year. This may result in fewer imports.

Put Out All Lights

WILLOUGHBY, Vt. (AP)—A couple of honeymooners put out the lights—all the lights. Police said that after a bee flew into the car of a just-married Quebec couple the automobile struck a pole, disconnecting the town's power lines.

Roping 'Em In

Destroy War Memorial

TAEGU, Korea—(AP)—A Japanese war memorial, thoroughly hated by Koreans who were forced to pray there for Japanese victory, has been destroyed in elaborate public ceremonies sponsored by the Taegu community council. American soldiers were invited guests but did not participate in the actual destruction.

Maureen O'Hara had a terrific thrill this week when she spoke to her family via trans-oceanic telephone for the first time in five years. The last time she spoke to them was when she married Will Price. The call, which went through to Ireland at 6:30 in the morning, got her whole family up to hear the good news that she leaves October 23 by plane with her daughter, Bronson, to visit them. The family told her they get 25 gallons of gas a month, and they will now walk everywhere so they'll have gas left when she arrives to meet her and take her around visiting. That reminds me—all those stories that Maureen is expecting the stork again are being denied by her. She says, "I only wish it were true."

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Pretty little Diana Lynn, who broke her engagement to Henry Willson, has a new romance, this time it's Tad von Brunt, the young Marine officer recently signed by Paramount. Von Brunt is plainly smitten but badly, with cute little Diana. The boy has a very colorful background. He was named Mayor of Okinawa when the Marines took that island during the war, because he was the only one of them who could speak Japanese. Personally, I promised on the air that Henry and Diana would never marry, so it wasn't much of a surprise to me when they broke their engagement.

Today the good news was given Eleanor and Tom Moore that their 13-year-old son, Tommy, would live. The boy has been hovering between life and death since last Tuesday, when a car made a sharp turn and ran into Timmy, who was riding his skooter in Santa Monica. He suffered a bad concussion and a compound fracture of the leg. Tom and Eleanor haven't left his bedside. A few years ago, Tom was very famous on the screen. He and his brothers, Owen and Matt, were the leading stars of the silent screen. All their friends will rejoice that the child is better.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Linda Darnell leaves for Taos, New Mexico, for a few days before she starts "Forever Amber". Most of her friends believe she and Pev Marley will reconcile. She still sees him more often than anyone else; Larry Cruikshank, son of the late and beloved Herb Cruikshank and Regina Crewe's stepson, is getting married Saturday. His bride-to-be is Kay Vernon of Philadelphia. She has come to Los Angeles for the marriage; Joseph Schenck, who had more parties given for him than any other departing Hollywoodian, dined at Sam Goldwyn's last night, and then departed by plane for Mexico with Merle Oberon and Lucien Ballard. The night before, the Harry Goetzes entertained him, and in honor of Peter Rathvon's birthday. They tell me it was a nice party. I was sorry my best friend and not always favorite critic (Dr. Martin) made me stay home and rest; Ruth Warwick, who is prettier off the screen even than on, and Merrill Pye were a two-some at the Seacomber's—so were Ben Bogeaus and his bride, Dolores Moran, who are planning to spend their Honeymoon right in Hollywood; Ella Raines and her fiance, Major Robin Olds, returned to Hollywood in his private plane; Bob Sterling is now living in Gaylord Hauser's old apartment in Beverly Hills. Saw Ann Sothern at Sonja Henie's party having a good time. It was good to see her smiling again; Jim Bannon, top radio announcer and his wife are expecting a baby. Mrs. Bannon plays the school teacher on the "Great Gildersleeve" show; Dorothy Lamour is giving a baby shower for Betty Hutton at the Beverly Tropics today. Betty will have to build an addition to the house for all those presents; Bruce Cabot and Marilyn Phillips romance continues to be hotter than mid-summer. They are together practically every evening; the painting John George Vogel did of Elizabeth Taylor is so beautiful, and is much admired at the Du Vannes gallery. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Rising U. S. Prices Hit Bermudans

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—The rising cost of living which has soared to almost 100 percent over the 1939 index figure of the War-Time Supplies Commission, was attributed by that commission directly to the increased prices prevailing in the American and Canadian markets.

Bermuda is almost entirely dependent upon imports for both necessities and luxuries.

Essential commodities have been safeguarded by the commission by forcing the importers to freeze their profits at their July 5 figures. They had been permitted a maximum percentage mark-up profit on essential items previous to this order but their profits have now been changed from a percentage basis to a monetary one. Now, no matter how high prices soar in the United States and Canada, Bermuda merchants will only be able to make the same profit on essential commodities as they made on July 5 of this year. This may result in fewer imports.

Put Out All Lights

WILLOUGHBY, Vt. (AP)—A couple of honeymooners put out the lights—all the lights. Police said that after a bee flew into the car of a just-married Quebec couple the automobile struck a pole, disconnecting the town's power lines.

Roping 'Em In

Destroy War Memorial

TAEGU, Korea—(AP)—A Japanese war memorial, thoroughly hated by Koreans who were forced to pray there for Japanese victory, has been destroyed in elaborate public ceremonies sponsored by the Taegu community council. American soldiers were invited guests but did not participate in the actual destruction.

YAM-YAM TIME

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

There'll be lots of yams around this season and they are a fine, hearty vegetable for cold months. Any kind of sweet potato is rich in Vitamin A, so you know they're good for you. The question is, do you know what to do with them?

There's more than one variety of yam. The northern sections of the country produce light fleshed, yellowish types. The Louisiana sweet potatoes have a reddish cast to both the skins and the flesh. These last are perhaps handsomer than their fairer brothers, and for the first time will be distributed all over the country.

Most of us are familiar with baked or candied yams. But there are lots of other ways to cook them. For instance, the following dish is used in the South as a bread, but it's sweet enough to use as dessert, I think.

Golden Yam Pone

4 yams
½ cup sifted flour
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
1¾ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
¾ cup milk
½ cup seedless raisins

Peel raw yams and put through food chopper, using coarse knife. Sift dry ingredients together. Cream shortening. Add sugar gradually and cream until fluffy. Add eggs. Combine yams and milk. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with yam mixture, mixing well. Add raisins. Pour mixture into baking pan (7x10 inches) and bake in 350° oven for 30 minutes. Then raise heat to 400° and bake 15 minutes longer. Serve hot.

Yam Stuffed Oranges

Milk
Butter or margarine
4 oranges
3 tablespoons sherry
Salt and pepper

Boil yams in jackets until done. Peel and mash perfectly smooth. Combine and heat milk and butter or margarine. Beat into mashed yams until light and fluffy. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Add sherry. Cut off tops of oranges. Scoop out pulp (save it for breakfast) and fill orange skins with yam mixture. Bake in 375° oven for a half hour.

Yams Royale

4 medium-sized yams
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons grated orange peel
¼ cup finely chopped pecans
Marshmallows to cover

Boil yams in jackets until done. Peel and mash with butter or margarine, sugar, cinnamon and orange juice. Spread smoothly in a baking dish. Sprinkle orange peel and pecans over top. Cover with marshmallows and bake in 400° oven until marshmallows melt and brown.

Woman Who Chained Son Given Three-Year Term

FREDERICK, Md., Oct. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Nellie Stoneburner, 26, indicted by a grand jury on a charge of assault and battery after her 18-months-old son was found chained in a dark room, today was sentenced in Frederick County Circuit Court to three years in the Maryland Reformatory for Women.

The county probation officer told the court the child, Billy, was found at the Stoneburner home near Burkittsville chained to a couch in such a position that he could sit only on a stone crock. The child has been placed in a foster home by the Children's Aid Society.

Both parents were arrested at the time, but the father, William Stoneburner, was not indicted by the pleaded innocent. She declared the child had been placed in the darkened room to "housebreak' him.

Urges Churches To Take Leadership In Japan

PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—The future of Japan today rests upon Christian leadership, says the Rt. Rev. Charles S. Reifsnider, formerly missionary bishop to Japan for the Protestant Episcopal Church in the U. S. A.

"We have a wonderful opportunity to present Christ to the Japanese," Bishop Reifsnider told delegates to the church's recent 55th triennial convention in Philadelphia.

"A vacuum was created by defeat and the collapse of the nation. If we do not give them aid, they will turn to Communism,' the bishop continued, adding:

"If we fail to take this God-given opportunity, the cause of Christianity in Japan will be set back at least a decade and probably never will return."

Bishop Reifsnider was forced to leave Japan at the start of World War II. Church spokesmen said his successor would not be selected until a later date.

Crops Nose Out Arizona Dogies

Widely regarded as a desert and the domain of cows, dogies and cowboys, the state now raises more than a quarter of the head lettuce produced in the United States, says Dr. George Barr, agricultural economist of the University of Arizona agricultural experiment station.

As producers of revenue, the romantic cattle industry has been shoved back into a poor second place with its total of $29,000,000 in 1945, reports Dr. Barr.

Cotton is generally considered Arizona's biggest agricultural crop but it now lags far behind one vegetable — head lettuce. Cotton lint and cottonseed last year produced $17,000,000; head lettuce more than $20,000,000.

So far this infant truck farming industry is in two comparatively small areas in the Salt River valley near Phoenix and the Yuma valley. Both are well irrigated.

FIRST CHOICE FOR FLAVOR

...Say Millions

And why millions of women ask for Mrs. Filbert's Margarine first—and why it is scarce—goes back almost thirty years. It goes back to a time when Mrs. Filbert created a margarine that was so different—so much sweeter and fresher tasting that one woman told another about it.

Then when table spreads got scarce—millions of other women who had never used margarine before found out about Mrs. Filbert's Margarine. They, too, liked its sweet, fresh taste, with its uniform nutrition of 15,000 Units of Vitamin A to every pound.

So now Mrs. Filbert finds herself in the position of not being able to supply all the Mrs. Filbert's you would like. This hurts her as much as it does you.

But Mrs. Filbert believes there is no substitute for goodness— and she will not cut quality. So if your grocer says: "Sorry, no Mrs. Filbert's," please be patient and ask again.

They coax flavor! Mrs. Filbert's Salad Dressing and Mayonnaise are so delicate — so smooth they actually coax out—never smother . . . even the hidden flavor of fruits and vegetables.

Widely regarded as a desert and the domain of cows, dogies and cowboys, the state now raises more than a quarter of the head lettuce produced in the United States, says Dr. George Barr, agricultural economist of the University of Arizona agricultural experiment station.

Lettuce and other vegetables last year brought the farmers here $38,000,000.

As producers of revenue, the romantic cattle industry has been shoved back into a poor second place with its total of $29,000,000 in 1945, reports Dr. Barr.

Cotton is generally considered Arizona's biggest agricultural crop but it now lags far behind one vegetable — head lettuce. Cotton lint and cottonseed last year produced $17,000,000; head lettuce more than $20,000,000.

So far this infant truck farming industry is in two comparatively small areas in the Salt River valley near Phoenix and the Yuma valley. Both are well irrigated.

..Say Millions

And why millions of women ask for Mrs. Filbert's Margarine first—and why it is scarce—goes back almost thirty years. It goes back to a time when Mrs. Filbert created a margarine that was so different—so much sweeter and fresher tasting that one woman told another about it.

Then when table spreads got scarce—millions of other women who had never used margarine before found out about Mrs. Filbert's Margarine. They, too, liked its sweet, fresh taste, with its uniform nutrition of 15,000 Units of Vitamin A to every pound.

So now Mrs. Filbert finds herself in the position of not being able to supply all the Mrs. Filbert's you would like. This hurts her as much as it does you.

But Mrs. Filbert believes there is no substitute for goodness—and she will not cut quality. So if your grocer says: "Sorry, no Mrs. Filbert's," please be patient and ask again.

They coax flavor! Mrs. Filbert's Salad Dressing and Mayonnaise are so delicate — so smooth they actually coax out—never smother . . . even the hidden flavor of fruits and vegetables.

Forward Curb movers were babcock and Wilcox, Pansteel, Electric Bond and Share, Ragtheon and United Light. Turnover here was 820,000 shares against 580,000 yesterday.

The bond market turned around in mid-session and wiped out or trimmed earlier losses.

United States governments held steady in the over-the-counter market with the Victory Loan December 2 1-2s of '67-72 unchanged at 102 1-32 bid.

Volume perked up to $7,760,000 from $5,660,000 Wednesday.

Damage Where It Hurts

LEADVILLE, Colo., (AP)—A softball batter hit a long fly ball that smashed the windshield of an automobile parked beside the field. Regretting the accident, he asked League Director Mickey Murray if funds were available to repair the damage but Murray replied:

"No. We haven't enough money for that. People park here at their own risk."

St. Louis Wins 12-3, Ties Two Series Records

Cards Gather 20 Bingles Off Six Boston Pitchers

Slaughter, Garagiola, Kurowski Get 4 Hits Each; Munger Yields Single Earned Run

By GALE TALBOT

BOSTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Bashing six Boston pitchers, or reasonable facsimiles thereof, for a record-equalling total of 20 solid hits, the St. Louis Cardinals slugged out a one-sided 12 to 3 victory over the Red Sox today to again deadlock the World Series at two wins apiece.

An amazed crowd of 35,645 Sox rooters, sat for the most part in morose silence as the rampant Red Birds tied the previous record for hits set by the New York Giants in the 1921 series against the Yankees.

Three Get Four Hits

Every man in the Cardinal lineup, including Pitcher George Munger, joined in the thunderous outburst of bingles. Thee of them, Enos Slaughter, Whitey Kurowski and Joe Garagiola, tied another series mark by slashing four safeties apiece.

Calm in the midst of the carnage, Munger, who only two months ago still was sweating it out with the army of occupation in Germany, mowed the Sox hitting array down with nine scattered hits and permitted only one earned run as he made certain the play-off would return to St. Louis.

The lone honest tally made off the big righthander was knocked in by Rudy York who slapped a double into right-center field in the fourth inning after Ted Williams had lined a single.

The other two resulted from Bobby Doerr's home run in the eighth after Dom DiMaggio had reached base on a flagrant error by Shortstop Marty Marion. They never should have scored, and Munger, whose employment by Manager Eddie Dyer had been regarded as a considerable gamble, should have been credited with a one-runner.

Five Pitchers Pounded

By knocking tall Tex Hughson from the mound in the third inning with a concentrated assault and continuing to belabor his five honest but inept successors, the Birds from the banks of the Mississippi made it a brand new world series, and the stunning blow they administered to the American League champions might still be felt in the fifth game here tomorrow.

Munger's unexpectedly brilliant performance "set up" the Cardinal hurling staff and made it certain the Bostons would have to look once again at both Howie Pollet and Harry Brecheen, the two crack lefthanders who gave them so much trouble in the games at St. Louis.

Pollet Will Try Again

Manager Dyer said Pollet, who lost the opener at St. Louis on Rudy York's 10th inning homer, would sizzle them across again tomorrow. Either Mickey Harris, who was beaten by Brecheen in the second game, or Joe Dobson was expected to go for the Red Sox, though Manager Joe Cronin was none too certain about anything.

Bobby Doerr, the Sox second baseman, was spared at least part of his manager's travail through the fortuitous fact that he was stricken with a headache toward the close and sought, with Cronin's permission, the sanctuary of the clubhouse. He was expected to be okay by tomorrow.

Whether Hughson and the other five Sox throwers would recover completely from the knocking around they took was entirely problematical. The other five—it is only fair to Hughson to name them, too—were in the order of their appearance, Jim Bagby, Bill Zuber, Mace Brown, Mike Ryba, and Clem Dreisewerd.

Ryba, at 41, was the oldest of the lot, and he didn't do any worse than the others. They all looked alike to the Cards. No other team, incidentally, ever has used more flingers in a world series game. Box:

DETAILED ACCOUNT OF FOURTH GAME IN WORLD SERIES

FIRST INNING

SECOND INNING

Cardinals: Slaughter connected with a fast ball and sent it on a line into the right field stands, about 370 feet away, for a home run, to put the Cards ahead, 1-0. It was the first St. Louis run in 14 innings. Kurowski lined a double off the left field wall, barely beating Williams' fine toss to Pesky. Activity sprang up in the Boston bullpen. Garagiola flied to DiMaggio in center, Kurowski holding second. The pitcher warming up in the Red Sox bullpen was identified as Bob Klinger, a righthander. Walker lined a single into right field, Kurowski easily scoring with the Cards' second run. Walker attempted to steal second but Catcher H. Wagner apparently catching the signal, called for a pitch-out and threw to Pesky at second. Walker, caught midway between the bases, scrambled back to first and when Pesky threw the ball wild into the Red Sox dugout, Umpire Ballanfant sent Walker to third. Pesky was charged with an error on the play. Marion sacrificed Walker home with a squeeze bunt, Doerr throwing to York at first for the putout. Munger struck out, swinging. Three runs, three hits, one error, none left.

Red Sox: With Williams at bat, the Cardinals used a different type of shift as they had been doing in previous games. Marion switched from his shortstop position to second base, Schoendienst moved closer to first and back on the grass, but Kurowski remained at third. Williams ran the count to three and two and then drew a walk. Terry Moore made a running diving catch of York's terrific smash to right-center and Williams had to scramble back to first to avoid being doubled up. Al Brazle, a lefthander, started warming up in a hurry in the Cards' bullpen. Doerr flied to Slaughter who made a running catch near the right field stands. Slaughter raced into right center and hauled in Higgins's long drive. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

THIRD INNING

Cardinals: Schoendienst lined a single through the middle into center field and the umpire had to make a fancy leap to avoid being hit by the ball. Moore sacrificed Schoendienst to second but when Hughson first fumbled his bunt, then threw wild to first, Schoendienst raced to third and Moore continued on to second. Musial rammed a double to right-center field scoring Schoendienst and Moore and increasing the Cardinals' lead to 5-0. Jim Bagby, a righthander, and son of the famous Jim Bagby who pitched in the 1920 world series for the Cleveland Indians, replaced Hughson on the

OFFICIALS DISCUSS LINESMAN'S AIDES AT GRID MEETING

Action of the linesman's assistants was one of the chief topics discussed at the meeting of the Western Maryland and Eastern West Virginia Football Officials' Association last night in the K. of C. Home.

John Angellatta, local official, suggested that the younger and less experienced officials be used in handling the downs box whenever possible in order to get a more efficient job and give aspiring officials the benefit of the experience.

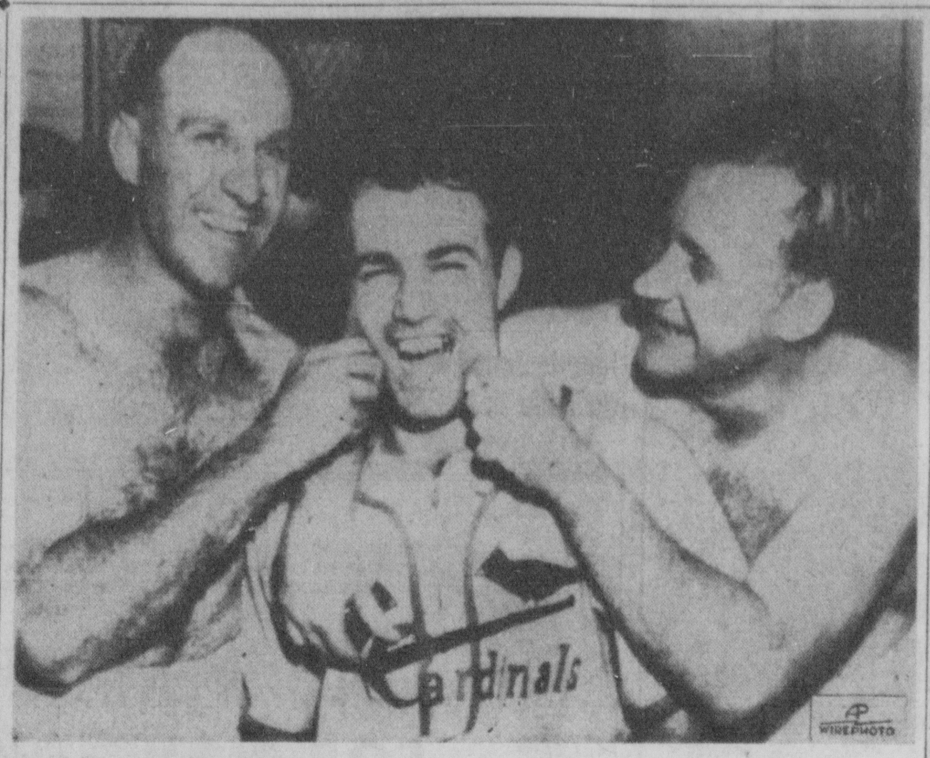

Commencing with the next meeting of the association, set for Thursday, October 17 at 8 p. m. in the K. of C. Home, an official will be assigned to handle each rule and will be responsible for all interpretations, answers and questions and play situations regarding that rule.

Ed Milbrada has been assigned Rule 6 — action common to free and scrimmage downs — for the next meeting.

Twelve coaches and officials attended. John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh presided.

PRESERVE HANDS—Most famous hands in boxing history are preserved for posterity by sculptress Ray Shaw in New York. The hands belong to Joe Louis, world's heavyweight champion.

Maryland Is 43rd State In Athletic Federation
Stress Eligibility Rules Ramey Is On State Board

By C. V. BURNS

Maryland is the forty-third state to affiliate with the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of pupil personnel for Allegany County schools, and a list of recommendations set forth by the national body is an indication that minimum eligibility rules for athletes are to become much stricter than those which prevailed in the past.

The federation recommends that state associations use eligibility rules at least as restrictive as those listed, namely:

A STUDENT IS INELIGIBLE IF:

1. 20 Year Rule: He has reached his 20th birthday.

2. 8 Semester Rule: He has attended a four-year high school eight semesters or a senior high school six semesters; or has graduated. (Attendance of 15 days of any semester shall be regarded as a "semester.")

3. Scholarship Rule and Consecutive Semester Attendance Rule: (a) He has failed to do passing work in at least 15 periods (three full credit subjects) per week. (b) Or failed to pass at the end of the immediately preceding semester, in 15 periods (three full credit subjects). The record at the end of the semester shall be final and scholastic deficiencies may not be made up in any manner.

4. Amateur Rule: He has used his athletic skill for personal gain, or has played on a team where one or more players received money for their services. Should he lose his amateur standing, he may be reinstated by the state executive body after the lapse of one complete year, provided he has not persisted in breaking the amateur rule.

5. Independent Team Participation Rule: He has, after becoming a member of a high school squad, taken part in an independent contest where admission is charged.

Item No. 5, if adopted in Maryland, will be of particular significance as a number of Allegany county high school athletes have played baseball for teams figuring in independent games where admission was charged. Under such a rule high school athletes would be barred from participating with independent teams charging admission. Those violating rule would be ineligible to compete in high school contests.

6. Transfer Rule: He transfers from one school to another without a corresponding change in his parents' residence. (Eligibility may be restored after at least one semester.)

7. Recruiting Rule: He has transferred from one school to another for athletic purposes because of undue influence by anyone connected with the school.

8. Enrollment Rule: He enrolled later than the beginning of the eleventh school day of the semester.

9. Athletic Award Rule: He accepts from any source a sweater, jersey or any other award exceeding one dollar in value other than those usually given, such as medals, trophies, fobs, letters and other athletic insignia.

10. Grade Rule: He has not been promoted to 9th Grade.

11. Physician's Certificate Rule: He has not presented during the year, a physician's certificate that he is physically fit for athletic competition.

Pennsylvania and West Virginia have been members of the national federation since 1925. The organization had its beginning in Chicago in 1920.

Here are some facts concerning state athletic associations:

Post-season games are prohibited in West Virginia. The Mountain State also bans all-star contests.

West Virginia and Pennsylvania ban spring football practice and also taboo in the Keystone State are spring football inter-school games.

Age limits also differ for scholastic sports. For instance in Texas the limit is 18th birthday of on or before May 1.

The 19th birthday if before a sports season is the limit set for schools in Maryland and Pennsylvania.

In West Virginia the 20th birthday is set as the limit.

It's 20 years, 6 months (Sept. 1) in Virginia while in Alabama, Arkansas, North Carolina and Oklahoma the 21st birthday is the deadline.

In 11 states schools may award only letters to athletes.

School award values in 18 states must not exceed $1.

Michigan and Pennsylvania limit awards to a value of $2, Montana and Wyoming to $3. West Virginia may accept award such as sweater if by high school.

In the majority of states those conducting tournaments for schools may award only cups and medals of small intrinsic value but there is no limit on value of awards in nine states, including West Virginia.

Ramey points out that the newly formed Maryland Health and Physical Education Association, representing 200 high schools with an enrollment of 49,000, is the federation's board of control in the Old Line State. Ramey heads District No. 1, which comprises Western Maryland schools. There are five districts in the state. Thomas C. Ferguson ,of the State Department of Education, heads the association.

Hearing Scheduled On Waterfowl Law

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10 (AP) — The State Game and Inland Fish Commission announced today a public hearing will be held Oct. 24 on a newly-issued regulation making it lawful to hunt waterfowl in boats propelled by hand with oars or paddles in streams not over 100 yards wide.

The meeting is set for 10 a. m. in the banquet hall, mezzanine floor of the Emerson hotel.

All persons interested in this regulation are urged to be present at the hearing and advise the commission of their opinion of said regulation. All present will be given ample opportunity to be heard.

Hunting License Change Opposed

Movement For $2.50 State Tag Unacceptable To Garrett Group

OAKLAND, Oct. 10 — Sixty or more sportsmen, members of the Youghiogheny Rod and Gun club met last night at the Manhattan hotel, Oakland, to air their gripes on existing hunting regulations and to hear from a member of the State Game department on the advantages of having certain areas marked off for game refuges.

J. R. Wilson, technician for the State Game Department, explained the idea behind the game refuges, so as to permit the raising of more rabbits, grouse, etc. Hunters questioned the advisability of closing the refuge to fox hunters and depriving them of the bounties, and there was considerable discussion on this point. The Mt. Nebo tract seemed to be the center of the controversy. It was recently wired by the State game department and it was reported that hunters had cut the wires in several spots. The tract was recently willed to the state by the late Charles McHenry Howard.

The subject of a $2.50 state-wide hunting license which is being pushed by city sportsmen and other outside of Garrett county, was fcund unacceptable to the club members here and they unanimously passed a resolution to that effect.

E. W. Adams, president, said it was the purpose of members to protect farmers from unscrupulous hunters and that they would endeavor to cooperate with farmers in keeping their lands posted against such hunters.

Fulcher P. Smith, member of the State Game and Inland Fish Commission, discussed both the game refuges and the state-wide license. A by-laws committee was appointed to prepare regulations for the government of the local group.

The Chicagoan won easily in an affair in which there were no knockdowns. The loss was Belfiore's second in 37 professional starts.

Texas On Top

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 10—In spite of the fact that the World Series is under way, we find more people today talking football than baseball. And the majority agree that Texas University belongs on top of the heap, as far as the new season goes.

Army and Notre Dame are ranked close alongside with Michigan in fourth place.

It remains to be seen whether Michigan can displace Army on Saturday. More than a trifle depends on Doc Blanchard's condition.

Any team that can pile up over 90 points against Missouri and the Oklahoma Aggies has to be something well above the ordinary. Both Missouri and Oklahoma A and M are strong, yet both were outclassed by one of the best teams that has come along in several years. Dana Bible's outfit has shown speed, skill and power, an unbeatable combination as a rule. Texas is in a tough conference, one of the toughest football knows. But it will take super play to keep the Longhorns from the top of their league.

Army can strengthen its hold on second place by beating a good Michigan team. Army will have extra trouble if Blanchard's leg is bad. The Wolverines have speed this fall—line speed and backfield speed—and they will be hard to take by any team not at its physical peak.

Another big game will bring Yale and Columbia together. Both the deep blue and light blue, the Bulldog and the Lion, are better than either has been in many years.

Yale, with a big, strong line, plus Levi Jackson's running, has the call, but Lou Little has a backfield that will always be dangerous, either along the ground or through the air. The combination of Kasprzak, Rossides and Kusserow can bring trouble to any defense. Columbia's main problem will be the job of handling Yale's bigger, stronger line.

Penn Faces Dartmouth

Pennsylvania's big team, one of the best that the red and blue has known in years, will get its first real test against a game, smart, scrappy Dartmouth bunch that will have no shining chance to win against too much power or too much all around strength. Pennsylvania must be placed up with the best in football.

The scramble in the South is still going on merrily, with Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama and L. S. U. still unbeaten and well equipped. Alabama's showing, so far, hasn't quite matched earlier expectations, but the stuff is there. North Carolina, Duke and Georgia Tech are still no pushovers for anyone. This next Saturday will be one of the big days for 1946, proving also another rugged test for Notre Dame, a powerhouse in line and backfield.

Allegany High School's football team will make its fourth attempt to break into the win column when it faces Coach Eddie Semler's unbeaten Hagerstown High School eleven under the lights at the local stadium at 8 o'clock.

Hagerstown's big team will go into the battle as the favorite as a result of its convincing triumphs over Waynesboro, LaSalle and Martinsburg.

The Maroon and Gray will send into action a line that averages 170 pounds and a backfield quartet scaling 160. The two "big guns" in Hagerstown's backfield are David Cianelli, the six-foot, 186-pound bruising, knee-pumping ex-Marine, who holds down the full back position and Lawrence "Peck" Martin, clever halfback, who does the passing for the Hub City team. Cianelli does the punting for the Washington County team and in last week's game against Martinsburg he averaged 51½ yards on three kicks.

It was learned yesterday that Noyes "Tommy" Powers, stellar fullback, and chief ground gainer, who suffered a back injury in practice last week and aggravated the injury in the Ridgeley contest, will not be in tonight's starting lineup. Pete Cecil is slated to take his place in the AHS backfield.

Sammy Cozad will be at the "mike" of the public address system at tonight's game. Probable starting lineups:

St. Louis Wins 12-3, Ties Two Series Records

Cards Gather 20 Bingles Off Six Boston Pitchers

By GALE TALBOT

BOSTON, Oct. 10 (AP)—Bashing six Boston pitchers, or reasonable facsimiles thereof, for a record-equalling total of 20 solid hits, the St. Louis Cardinals slugged out a one-sided 12 to 3 victory over the Red Sox today to again deadlock the World Series at two wins apiece.

An amazed crowd of 35,645 Sox rooters, sat for the most part in morose silence as the rampant Red Birds tied the previous record for hits set by the New York Giants in the 1921 series against the Yankees.

Three Get Four Hits

Every man in the Cardinal lineup, including Pitcher George Munger, joined in the thunderous outburst of bingles. Thee of them, Enos Slaughter, Whitey Kurowski and Joe Garagiola, tied another series mark by slashing four safeties apiece.

Calm in the midst of the carnage, Munger, who only two months ago still was sweating it out with the army of occupation in Germany, mowed the Sox hitting array down with nine scattered hits and permitted only one earned run as he made certain the play-off would return to St. Louis.

The lone honest tally made off the big righthander was knocked in by Rudy York who slapped a double into right-center field in the fourth inning after Ted Williams had lined a single.

The other two resulted from Bobby Doerr's home run in the eighth after Dom DiMaggio had reached base on a flagrant error by Shortstop Marty Marion. They never should have scored, and Munger, whose employment by Manager Eddie Dyer had been regarded as a considerable gamble, should have been credited with a one-runner.

Five Pitchers Pounded

By knocking tall Tex Hughson from the mound in the third inning with a concentrated assault and continuing to belabor his five honest but inept successors, the Birds from the banks of the Mississippi made it a brand new world series, and the stunning blow they administered to the American League champions might still be felt in the fifth game here tomorrow.

Munger's unexpectedly brilliant performance "set up" the Cardinal hurling staff and made it certain the Bostons would have to look once again at both Howie Pollet and Harry Brecheen, the two crack lefthanders who gave them so much trouble in the games at St. Louis.

Pollet Will Try Again

Manager Dyer said Pollet, who lost the opener at St. Louis on Rudy York's 10th inning homer, would sizzle them across again tomorrow. Either Mickey Harris, who was beaten by Brecheen in the second game, or Joe Dobson was expected to go for the Red Sox, though Manager Joe Cronin was none too certain about anything.

Bobby Doerr, the Sox second baseman, was spared at least part of his manager's travail through the fortuitous fact that he was stricken with a headache toward the close and sought, with Cronin's permission, the sanctuary of the clubhouse. He was expected to be okay by tomorrow.

Whether Hughson and the other five Sox throwers would recover completely from the knocking around they took was entirely problematical. The other five—it is only fair to Hughson to name them, too—were in the order of their appearance, Jim Bagby, Bill Zuber, Mace Brown, Mike Ryba, and Clem Dreisewerd.

Ryba, at 41, was the oldest of the lot, and he didn't do any worse than the others. They all looked alike to the Cards. No other team, incidentally, ever has used more flingers in a world series game. Box:

DETAILED ACCOUNT OF FOURTH GAME IN WORLD SERIES

FIRST INNING

SECOND INNING

Cardinals: Slaughter connected with a fast ball and sent it on a line into the right field stands, about 370 feet away, for a home run, to put the Cards ahead, 1-0. It was the first St. Louis run in 14 innings. Kurowski lined a double off the left field wall, barely beating Williams' fine toss to Pesky. Activity sprang up in the Boston bullpen. Garagiola flied to DiMaggio in center, Kurowski holding second. The pitcher warming up in the Red Sox bullpen was identified as Bob Klinger, a righthander. Walker lined a single into right field, Kurowski easily scoring with the Cards' second run. Walker attempted to steal second but Catcher H. Wagner apparently catching the signal, called for a pitch-out and threw to Pesky at second. Walker, caught midway between the bases, scrambled back to first and when Pesky threw the ball wild into the Red Sox dugout, Umpire Ballanfant sent Walker to third. Pesky was charged with an error on the play. Marion sacrificed Walker home with a squeeze bunt, Doerr throwing to York at first for the putout. Munger struck out, swinging. Three runs, three hits, one error, none left.

Red Sox: With Williams at bat, the Cardinals used a different type of shift as they had been doing in previous games. Marion switched from his shortstop position to second base, Schoendienst moved closer to first and back on the grass, but Kurowski remained at third. Williams ran the count to three and two and then drew a walk. Terry Moore made a running diving catch of York's terrific smash to right-center and Williams had to scramble back to first to avoid being doubled up. Al Brazle, a lefthander, started warming up in a hurry in the Cards' bullpen. Doerr flied to Slaughter who made a running catch near the right field stands. Slaughter raced into right center and hauled in Higgins's long drive. No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

THIRD INNING

Cardinals: Schoendienst lined a single through the middle into center field and the umpire had to make a fancy leap to avoid being hit by the ball. Moore sacrificed Schoendienst to second but when Hughson first fumbled his bunt, then threw wild to first, Schoendienst raced to third and Moore continued on to second. Musial rammed a double to right-center field scoring Schoendienst and Moore and increasing the Cardinals' lead to 5-0. Jim Bagby, a righthander, and son of the famous Jim Bagby who pitched in the 1920 world series for the Cleveland Indians, replaced Hughson on the

OFFICIALS DISCUSS LINESMAN'S AIDES AT GRID MEETING

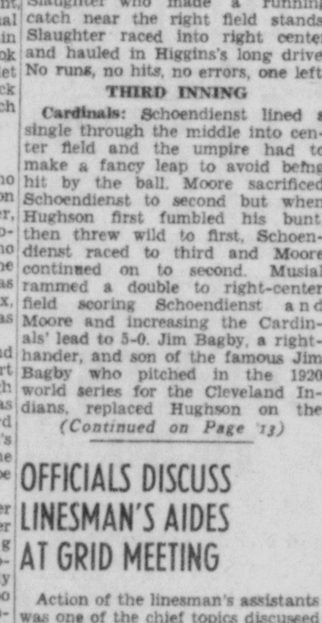

Action of the linesman's assistants was one of the chief topics discussed at the meeting of the Western Maryland and Eastern West Virginia Football Officials' Association last night in the K. of C. Home.

John Angeliatta, local official, suggested that the younger and less experienced officials be used in handling the downs box whenever possible in order to get a more efficient job and give aspiring officials the benefit of the experience.

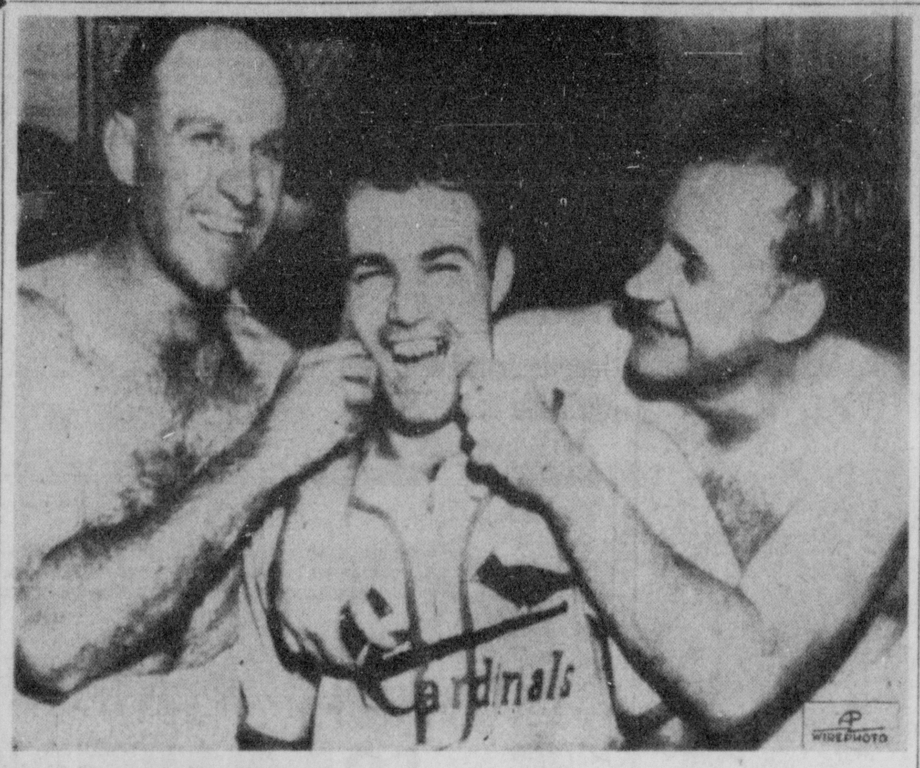

Commencing with the next meeting of the association, set for Thursday, October 17 at 8 p. m. in the K. of C. Home, an official will be assigned to handle each rule and will be responsible for all interpretations, answers and questions regarding that rule.

Ed Milbrada has been assigned Rule 6 — action common to free and scrimmage downs — for the next meeting.

Twelve coaches and officials attended. John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh presided.

PRESERVE HANDS—Most famous hands in boxing history are preserved for posterity by sculptress Ray Shaw in New York. The hands belong to Joe Louis, world's heavyweight champion.

Maryland Is 43rd State To Affiliate With Athletic Federation

Stress Eligibility Rules Ramey Is On State Board

By C. V. BURNS

Maryland is the forty-third state to affiliate with the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, according to Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of pupil personnel for Allegany County schools, and a list of recommendations set forth by the national body is an indication that minimum eligibility rules for athletes are to become much stricter than those which prevailed in the past.

The federation recommends that state associations use eligibility rules at least as restrictive as those listed, namely:

A STUDENT IS INELIGIBLE IF:

1. 20 Year Rule: He has reached his 20th birthday.

2. 8 Semester Rule: He has attended a four-year high school eight semesters or a senior high school six semesters; or has graduated. (Attendance of 15 days of any semester shall be regarded as a "semester.")

3. Scholarship Rule and Consecutive Semester Attendance Rule: (a) He has failed to do passing work in at least 15 periods (three full credit subjects) per week. (b) Or failed to pass at the end of the immediately preceding semester, in 15 periods (three full credit subjects). The record at the end of the semester shall be final and scholastic deficiencies may not be made up in any manner.

4. Amateur Rule: He has used his athletic skill for personal gain, or has played on a team where one or more players received money for their services. Should he lose his amateur standing, he may be reinstated by the state executive body after the lapse of one complete year, provided he has not persisted in breaking the amateur rule.

5. Independent Team Participation Rule: He has, after becoming a member of a high school squad, taken part in an independent contest where admission is charged.

Item No. 5, if adopted in Maryland, will be of particular significance as a number of Allegany county high school athletes have played baseball for teams figuring in independent games where admission was charged. Under such a rule high school athletes would be barred from participating with independent teams charging admission. Those violating rule would be ineligible to compete in high school contests.

6. Transfer Rule: He transfers from one school to another without a corresponding change in his parents' residence. (Eligibility may be restored after at least one semester.)

7. Recruiting Rule: He has transferred from one school to another for athletic purposes because of undue influence by anyone connected with the school.

8. Enrollment Rule: He enrolled later than the beginning of the eleventh school day of the semester.

9. Athletic Award Rule: He accepts from any source a sweater, jersey or any other award exceeding one dollar in value other than those usually given, such as medals, trophies, fobs, letters and other athletic insignia.

10. Grade Rule: He has not been promoted to 9th Grade.

11. Physician's Certificate Rule: He has not presented during the year, a physician's certificate that he is physically fit for athletic competition.

Pennsylvania and West Virginia have been members of the national federation since 1925. The organization had its beginning in Chicago in 1920.

Here are some facts concerning state athletic associations:

Post-season games are prohibited in West Virginia. The Mountain State also bans all-star contests.

West Virginia and Pennsylvania ban spring football practice and also taboo in the Keystone State are spring football inter-school games.

Age limits also differ for scholastic sports. For instance in Texas the limit is 18th birthday of on or before May 1.

It's 20 years, 6 months (Sept. 1) in Virginia while in Alabama, Arkansas, North Carolina and Oklahoma the 21st birthday is the deadline.

In 11 states schools may award only letters to athletes.

Michigan and Pennsylvania limit awards to a value of $2, Montana and Wyoming to $3. West Virginia may accept award such as sweater if by high school.

In the majority of states those conducting tournaments for schools may award only cups and medals of small intrinsic value but there is no limit on value of awards in nine states, including West Virginia.

Ramey points out that the newly formed Maryland Health and Physical Education Association, representing 200 high schools with an enrollment of 49,000, is the federation's board of control in the Old Line State. Ramey heads District No. 1, which comprises Western Maryland schools. There are five districts in the state. Thomas C. Ferguson, of the State Department of Education, heads the association.

All persons interested in this regulation are urged to be present at the hearing and advise the commission of their opinion of said regulation. All present will be given ample opportunity to be heard.

Hunting License Change Opposed

Movement For $2.50 State Tag Unacceptable To Garrett Group

OAKLAND, Oct. 10 — Sixty or more sportsmen, members of the Youghiogheny Rod and Gun club met last night at the Manhattan hotel, Oakland, to air their gripes on existing hunting regulations and to hear from a member of the State Game department on the advantages of having certain areas marked off for game refuges.

J. R. Wilson, technician for the State Game Department, explained the idea behind the game refuges, so as to permit the raising of more rabbits, grouse, etc. Hunters questioned the advisability of closing the refuge to fox hunters and depriving them of the bounties, and there was considerable discussion on this point. The Mt. Nebo tract seemed to be the center of the controversy. It was recently wired by the State game department and it was reported that hunters had cut the wires in several spots. The tract was recently willed to the state by the late Charles McHenry Howard.

The subject of a $2.50 state-wide hunting license which is being pushed by city sportsmen and other outside of Garrett county, was found unacceptable to the club members here and they unanimously passed a resolution to that effect.

E. W. Adams, president, said it was the purpose of members to protect farmers from unscrupulous hunters and that they would endeavor to cooperate with farmers in keeping their lands posted against such hunters.

Fulcher P. Smith, member of the State Game and Inland Fish Commission, discussed both the game refuges and the state-wide license. A by-laws committee was appointed to prepare regulations for the government of the local group.

Wray Carter Wins

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP) — Wray Carter, Chicago lightweight, captured his sixth victory in seven starts this year by taking a unanimous 8-round decision from Joe Belfiore of Philadelphia at the Rainbo Arena tonight. Carter weighed 131¼, Belfiore, 132.

The Chicagoan won easily in an affair in which there were no knockdowns. The loss was Belfiore's second in 37 professional starts.

Fair Weather Predicted

BOSTON, Oct. 10 (AP) — The weather bureau tonight forecast fair weather and warmer temperatures for tomorrow's fifth world series game between the Boston Red Sox and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Any team that can pile up over 90 points against Missouri and the Oklahoma Aggies has to be better than just good. It has to be something well above the ordinary. Both Missouri and Oklahoma A and M are strong, yet both were outclassed by one of the best teams that has come along in several years. Dana Bible's outfit has shown speed, skill and power, an unbeatable combination as a rule. Texas is in a tough conference, one of the toughest football knows. But it will take super play to keep the Longhorns from the top of their league.

Army can strengthen its hold on second place by beating a good Michigan team. Army will have extra trouble if Blanchard's leg is bad. The Wolverines have speed this fall—line speed and backfield speed—and they will be hard to take by any team not at its physical peak.

Another big game will bring Yale and Columbia together. Both the deep blue and light blue, the Bulldog and the Lion, are better than either has been in many years.

Yale, with a big, strong line, plus Levi Jackson's running, has the call, but Lou Little has a backfield that will always be dangerous, either along the ground or through the air. The combination of Kasprzak, Rossides and Kusserow can bring trouble to any defense. Columbia's main problem will be the job of handling Yale's bigger, stronger line.

Penn Faces Dartmouth

Pennsylvania's big team, one of the best that the red and blue has known in years, will get its first real test against a game, smart, scrappy Dartmouth bunch that will have no shining chance to win against too much power or too much all around strength. Pennsylvania must be placed up with the best in football.

The scramble in the South is still going on merrily, with Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama and L. S. U. still unbeaten and well equipped. Alabama's showing, so far, hasn't quite matched earlier expectations, but the stuff is there. North Carolina, Duke and Georgia Tech are still no pushovers for anyone. This next Saturday will be one of the big days for 1946, proving also another rugged test for Notre Dame, a powerhouse in line and backfield.

Allegany High School's football team will make its fourth attempt to break into the win column when it faces Coach Eddie Semler's unbeaten Hagerstown High School eleven under the lights at the local stadium at 8 o'clock.

Hagerstown's big team will go into the battle as the favorite as a result of its convincing triumphs over Waynesboro, LaSalle and Martinsburg.

The Maroon and Gray will send into action a line that averages 170 pounds and a backfield quartet scaling 160. The two "big guns" in Hagerstown's backfield are David Cianelli, the six-foot, 186-pound bruising, knee-pumping ex-Marine, who holds down the full back position and Lawrence "Peck" Martin, clever halfback, who does the passing for the Hub City team. Cianelli does the punting for the Washington County team and in last week's game against Martinsburg he averaged 51½ yards on three kicks.

It was learned yesterday that Noyes "Tommy" Powers, stellar fullback, and chief ground gainer, who suffered a back injury in practice last week and aggravated the injury in the Ridgeley contest, will not be in tonight's starting lineup. Pete Cecil is slated to take his place in the AHS backfield.

College Training Table Is Feeling Meat Scarcity

Coach Offers To Trade Two Tackles And Back For Nice, Juicy Ham

By ROBERT GRUBB

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—If you think things are rough in these days of shortages, pity the poor football player.

The college training table is feeling the meat scarcity and at least one squad is dining on horse meat—knowingly, that is. Replies to an Associated Press survey indicated, however, that while meat is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain, most schools have been able to get it.

Many coaches and trainers are wondering if and when the situation is going to improve. Out in Manhattan, Kas., Coach Hobbs Adams of Kansas State offered today to trade two of his big tackles and a quarterback for a nice, juicy ham.

Can't Rebuild Weight

It isn't any laughing matter in Pittsburgh athletic circles. A spokesman at the University says the Panthers are getting less than 20 per cent of their normal meat diet and the players can't rebuild their weight as fast as necessary without red meat. He estimates each player loses an average of 10 pounds a game.

Pitt trainer Howard Waite said some Pitt gridders never had regained the weight they lost in the Illinois game nearly three weeks ago.

So far no one has discovered any vegetarians among the grid stalwarts of the nation, and most authorities agree you can't play football week after week on a vegetable diet.

Michigan U. Trainer Roy Roberts, who was with the Army team before going to Ann Arbor, said in all his experience he never knew of a strictly vegetarian footballer. There are plenty of substitutes for meat, he declared, "but this present day fellow would squawk to high heaven if he didn't get his meat."

Lions Still Get Beef

The state agricultural schools have the edge on their city brethren. Up at State College, Pa., the Nittany Lions are still gnawing on beef, which comes from a surplus stored in freezer lockers. The training table supervisor, Miss Hazel Fall, says she will be able to keep beef on the table once a day for five or six weeks, providing she can get chicken and turkey to serve in between.

The city boys are really up against it, though. In Philadelphia, Penn is using seafood, eggs and poultry for backbone meals since there has been no meat for two weeks. Temple does not operate its own training table, so the boys have to take their chances in the cafeteria with the other students.

From West Point comes the encouraging word that the polo ponies are still safe. "There's a definite meat shortage here, but we haven't resorted to horse meat yet," said an Army spokesman.

Ingram Picks Navy 150-Pound Squad

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 10 (AP) — Comdr. Bill Ingram, coach of Navy's new 150-pound football team, passed out the rejection slips today when he cut his squad from 430 hopefuls to 44.

He wasn't happy about it, though. Shaking his head, he said, "I'll probably overlook a lot of good boys, but it can't be helped because all 150-pounders look alike."

Because of IC4A rules, under which the light-weight team will play, Ingram and his staff have had only three weeks in which to observe the squad.

Report Connie Macks May Soon Get Together

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10 (AP)—A reconciliation between Connie Mack, player-owner of the Philadelphia Athletics, and his 71-year-old wife may be in the offing as soon as the World Series ends.

The evening Bulletin reported today that confidants of the 83-year-old pilot said the couple had solved their dispute over Mack's will.

Player Changes Mind

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Werner Hasselman, Columbia tackle who withdrew from the football squad last week because of a shoulder injury, rejoined the team today.

Hasselman, who has hopes of making the U. S. Olympic team in 1948 as a shot putter, said he withdrew because he feared the injury might become permanent and deprive him of his Olympic chance.

"After watching Columbia defeat Navy I decided that I would rather play football than anything," he said today as he was re-issued his uniform.

Longhorns Get Invite

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 10 (AP)—Coach Dana X. Bible said the top-ranking University of Texas Longhorns received an invitation this morning to play in Mexico City Stadium in early January but no post-season plans will be made now.

"No post-season plans will be made until after Thanksgiving Day," said the Longhorn coach.

Alfredo Kawaigi, public relations director of the Mexican Bowl, announced from Mexico City that invitations had been mailed to the powerful Texas team and to the University of Illionis to play in the Mexican capital's new stadium.

Skidmore Has Grid Team

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Oct. 10 (AP)—Skidmore College, for a quarter of a century a haven of feminity, will send its first football team roaring into action Sunday, backed by the pick of 1,000 girls on the campus as cheerleaders and aided and abetted by a crew of "water girls."

The college announced today it had booked a game against Brown school, a local prep school, and added it was trying to arrange a game against Vassar.

The Skidmore squad is made up of 21 of the 46 men admitted this fall under a veterans emergency education program opening Skidmore's doors to men for the first time since the college was founded in 1922.

Vassar, which also admitted men for the first time, has not been heard from yet.

Chicagoan's 10-Under-Par Sets Course Record In $10,000 Event

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 10 (AP)—Jim Ferrier, Chicago pro, flashed a 10-under-par 62 to set the pace in the opening round of Montgomery's $10,000 open golf tournament today. He set a new record for the Beauvoir Country Club course.

Ferrier, one of the top money winners of the year, also equaled the record for PGA-sponsored tournaments, said Jerry Moore, traveling secretary for the pro organization.

He turned in an eagle and eight birdies over the 6,350-yard Beauvoir links and one-putted 11 greens.

One stroke behind Ferrier and equaling the previous course record was Ky Laffoon, pro from Orlando, Fla., who went over par on one hole but carded three eagles and four birdies to knock nine strokes off par.

Bunched at 64 were three more play-for-money entries, Dale Morey of Springfield, Ill., Dutch Harrison of Little Rock and Ellsworth Vines of Los Angeles, former national tennis champion.

Two pros finished the round with 65's — Canadian Open Champion George Fazio of Los Angeles and O'Neal (Buck) White, winner of the Memphis Open.

Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, fifth leading money winner in the PGA for the present circuit who shot a 65 in a practice round yesterday, was off two strokes in today's opening round and came in with a 67. Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., had the same score.

George Payton, from Hampton, Va., made it around the stylish 18-hole course in 68, and grouped around him with 69's were Freddie Haas of New Orleans, Harry Todd, Dallas, and Joe Kirkwood of Hollywood.

WALKER CUP MATCHES WILL RESUME IN MAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—The U. S. Golf Association announced today that the international Walker Cup matches between the best amateurs of Great Britain and the United States will be resumed at St. Andrews, Scotland, May 16 and 17, 1947.

Members of the eight-man American team which will attempt to bring back to this country the trophy held in England since a British team won it in 1938, probably will be announced at the annual USGA meeting in January.

Outbreak of the war prevented the teams from meeting in the matches scheduled at St. Paul, Minn., in 1940, and no matches have been held since.

Temple Squad Will Live On Train In Pittsburgh

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19 — (AP) — Temple University athletic officials will "play it safe" this week on the trip to Pittsburgh where the Owl football squad clashes with Pitt Saturday.

Because the power strike situation is unchanged, the football squad that leaves here Friday night will maintain headquarters aboard special cars during the stay there.

The gridders will eat their meals both before and after the game in the dining car and the "restaurant on wheels" also will be used for a blackboard talk on Saturday morning.

FRANKLIN PRAISES MEXICAN LEAGUE

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP) — Murray Franklin, former Detroit Tiger infielder, is ready for his second season in Jorge Pasquel's Mexican League.

Visiting his parents, the former University of Illinois baseball star declared today "I made more money by jumping to Mexico than I figured I could earn through baseball in the United States in five years."

Franklin left the Tigers last spring lured by a three-year Mexican League contract, living expenses in Tampico for himself, his wife and his child and a $7,500 bonus. "I found that Senor Pasquel more than lived up to his promises," he said.

RED SOX FAVORED TO WIN SERIES BUT AT REDUCED ODDS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Red Sox still are world series favorites with the bettors—but at greatly reduced odds.

Betting Commissioner J. J. Carroll, St. Louis, announced after the Cardinals squared the series at two games each today that a $20 bet on Boston to win the world championship would win $11 and that $2 backing St. Louis would win $3.

The odds on tomorrow's fifth series game, with Harris pitching, were 3-5 on Boston, and with Brecheen or Pollet pitching, 7-5 on the Cards.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10 (AP)—A reconciliation between Connie Mack, player-owner of the Philadelphia Athletics, and his 71-year-old wife may be in the offing as soon as the World Series ends.

The evening Bulletin reported today that confidants of the 83-year-old pilot said the couple had solved their dispute over Mack's will.

FOOTBALL BRIEFS

Player Changes Mind

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—Werner Hasselman, Columbia tackle who withdrew from the football squad last week because of a shoulder injury, rejoined the team today.

Hasselman, who has hopes of making the U. S. Olympic team in 1948 as a shot putter, said he withdrew because he feared the injury might become permanent and deprive him of his Olympic chance.

"After watching Columbia defeat Navy I decided that I would rather play football than anything," he said today as he was re-issued his uniform.

Longhorns Get Invite

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 10 (AP)—Coach Dana X. Bible said the top-ranking University of Texas Longhorns received an invitation this morning to play in Mexico City Stadium in early January but no post-season plans will be made now.

"No post-season plans will be made until after Thanksgiving Day," said the Longhorn coach.

Alfredo Kawaigi, public relations director of the Mexican Bowl, announced from Mexico City that invitations had been mailed to the powerful Texas team and to the University of Illinois to play in the Mexican capital's new stadium.

Skidmore Has Grid Team

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Oct. 10 (AP)—Skidmore College, for a quarter of a century a haven of feminity, will send its first football team roaring into action Sunday, backed by the pick of 1,000 girls on the campus as cheerleaders and aided and abetted by a crew of "water girls."

The college announced today it had booked a game against Brown school, a local prep school, and added it was trying to arrange a game against Vassar.

The Skidmore squad is made up of 21 of the 46 men admitted this fall under a veterans emergency education program opening Skidmore's doors to men for the first time since the college was founded in 1922.

Vassar, which also admitted men for the first time, has not been heard from yet.

Chicagoan's 10-Under-Par Sets Course Record In $10,000 Event

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 10 (AP)—Jim Ferrier, Chicago pro, flashed a 10-under-par 62 to set the pace in the opening round of Montgomery's $10,000 open golf tournament today. He set a new record for the Beauvoir Country Club course.

Ferrier, one of the top money winners of the year, also equaled the record for PGA-sponsored tournaments, said Jerry Moore, traveling secretary for the pro organization.

He turned in an eagle and eight birdies over the 6,350-yard Beauvoir links and one-putted 11 greens.

One stroke behind Ferrier and equaling the previous course record was Ky Laffoon, pro from Orlando, Fla., who went over par on one hole but carded three eagles and four birdies to knock nine strokes off par.

Bunched at 64 were three more play-for-money entries, Dale Morey of Springfield, Ill., Dutch Harrison of Little Rock and Ellsworth Vines of Los Angeles, former national tennis champion.

Two pros finished the round with 65's — Canadian Open Champion George Fazio of Los Angeles and O'Neal (Buck) White, winner of the Memphis Open.

Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, fifth leading money winner in the PGA for the present circuit who shot a 65 in a practice round yesterday, was off two strokes in today's opening round and came in with a 67. Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., had the same score.

George Payton, from Hampton, Va., made it around the stylish 18-hole course in 68, and grouped around him with 69's were Freddie Haas of New Orleans, Harry Todd, Dallas, and Joe Kirkwood of Hollywood.

WALKER CUP MATCHES WILL RESUME IN MAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP)—The U. S. Golf Association announced today that the international Walker Cup matches between the best amateurs of Great Britain and the United States will be resumed at St. Andrews, Scotland, May 16 and 17, 1947.

Members of the eight-man American team which will attempt to bring back to this country the trophy held in England since a British team won it in 1938, probably will be announced at the annual USGA meeting in January.

Outbreak of the war prevented the teams from meeting in the matches scheduled at St. Paul, Minn., in 1940, and no matches have been held since.

Temple Squad Will Live On Train In Pittsburgh

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19 — (AP) — Temple University athletic officials will "play it safe" this week on the trip to Pittsburgh where the Owl football squad clashes with Pitt Saturday.

Because the power strike situation is unchanged, the football squad that leaves here Friday night will maintain headquarters aboard special cars during the stay there.

The gridders will eat their meals both before and after the game in the dining car and the "restaurant on wheels" also will be used for a blackboard talk on Saturday morning.

FRANKLIN PRAISES MEXICAN LEAGUE

CHICAGO, Oct. 10 (AP) — Murray Franklin, former Detroit Tiger infielder, is ready for his second season in Jorge Pasquel's Mexican League.

Visiting his parents, the former University of Illinois baseball star declared today "I made more money by jumping to Mexico than I figured I could earn through baseball in the United States in five years."

Franklin left the Tigers last spring lured by a three-year Mexican League contract, living expenses in Tampico for himself, his wife and his child and a $7,500 bonus. "I found that Senor Pasquel more than lived up to his promises," he said.

RED SOX FAVORED TO WIN SERIES BUT AT REDUCED ODDS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10 (AP)—The Red Sox still are world series favorites with the bettors—but at greatly reduced odds.

Betting Commissioner J. J. Carroll, St. Louis, announced after the Cardinals squared the series at two games each today that a $20 bet on Boston to win the world championship would win $11 and that $2 backing St. Louis would win $3.

The odds on tomorrow's fifth series game, with Harris pitching, were 3-5 on Boston, and with Brecheen or Pollet pitching, 7-5 on the Cards.

Ralston-Buskirk Match Is Moved To Midland

LONACONING, Oct 9 — The shooting match scheduled for this Saturday will be held at Midland instead of Westernport park. Due to a baseball game scheduled for the Westernport park the transfer of the shooting match grounds was made. John Ralston and Frank Buskirk are the contestants.

Woman Testifies She Was Advised To Bet "Ringer"

Jockey Says He Learned Flying Kilts Ran As Rounco In South

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10 (AP) — A Washington housewife testified in criminal court today a capital city race horse owner told her in advance last November he planned to run a "ringer" at Pimlico track and expected to "clean up about $76,000."

Mrs. Lottie Bowers was a prosecution witness at the trial of James S. O'Donnell and Roland B. Sanner, both of Washington, on charges of false pretenses and conspiracy in connection with races at Pimlico last November 12 and 27.

Asked if she knew O'Donnell, Mrs. Bowers testified:

"Last November he told me he was going to put a ringer in and that he would clean up about $76,000. He told me to give him all the money I could get my hands on."

Mrs. Bowers said she gave O'Donnell $20 but received no settlement.

O'Donnell and Sanner are accused of running Flying Kilts, owned by O'Donnell, as Rounco, a horse trained by Sanner. The entry came home first in one race, worth $1,100, and picked up $150 for a third the other time out.

Clyde B. Inscoe, Washington salesman and horse owner, testified he bought Flying Kilts from O'Donnell for $2,000 last December at Charles Town, W. Va.

He said Flying Kilts "had pulled up sore" and that he understood the horse was put on a farm in West Virginia. Later he said he learned the horse was at New Orleans. He said Sanner told him New Orleans stewards contended Flying Kilts had been in a race there under the name of Willow Run, another horse Inscoe owns.

Jockey Joseph Matral, of Detroit, testified yesterday it was in New Orleans he learned a horse he had ridden as Rounco was really Flying Kilts.

During cross examination of Mrs Bowers, defense attorneys brought out testimony that there was ill feeling between her and O'Donnell, stemming in part from her sale of a farm to the horseman.

STARS FOR IRISH—Johnny Lujack, of Connellsville, Pa., back at the quarterbacking helm at Notre Dame after 36 months in the service, has played an important part in the two victories his team has scored over Illinois, 26-7, and Pitt, 33-0. Besides handling his duties — passing and kicking — with finesse, Johnny made two game-saving tackles against the Illini. In the game with the Panthers he completed 10 of 21 passes, fired two touchdown aerials and set up two other tallies with his unerring marksmanship. In addition to football at Notre Dame, Lujack has won monograms in basketball, baseball and track. "He's as capable as they come," Coach Frank Leahy says.

WHEELING:

Woman Testifies She Was Advised To Bet "Ringer"

Jockey Says He Learned Flying Kilts Ran As Rounco In South

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10 (AP) — A Washington housewife testified in criminal court today a capital city race horse owner told her in advance last November he planned to run a "ringer" at Pimlico track and expected to "clean up about $76,000."

Mrs. Lottie Bowers was a prosecution witness at the trial of James S. O'Donnell and Roland B. Sanner, both of Washington, on charges of false pretenses and conspiracy in connection with races at Pimlico last November 12 and 27.

Asked if she knew O'Donnell, Mrs. Bowers testified:

"Last November he told me he was going to put a ringer in and that he would clean up about $76,000. He told me to give him all the money I could get my hands on."

Mrs. Bowers said she gave O'Donnell $20 but received no settlement.

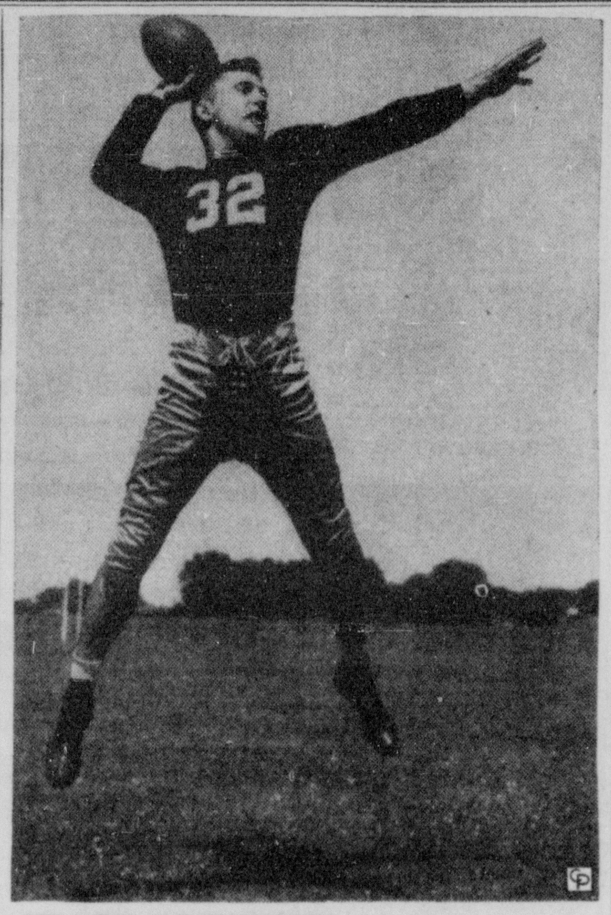

O'Donnell and Sanner are accused of running Flying Kilts, owned by O'Donnell, as Rounco, a horse trained by Sanner. The entry came home first in one race, worth $1,100, and picked up $150 for a third the other time out.

Clyde B. Inscoe, Washington salesman and horse owner, testified he bought Flying Kilts from O'Donnell for $2,000 last December at Charles Town, W. Va.

He said Flying Kilts "had pulled up sore" and that he understood the horse was put on a farm in West Virginia. Later he said he learned the horse was at New Orleans. He said Sanner told him New Orleans stewards contended Flying Kilts had been in a race there under the name of Willow Run, another horse Inscoe owns.

Jockey Joseph Matral, of Detroit, testified yesterday it was in New Orleans he learned a horse he had ridden as Rounco was really Flying Kilts.

During cross examination of Mrs Bowers, defense attorneys brought out testimony that there was ill feeling between her and O'Donnell, stemming in part from her sale of a farm to the horseman.

STARS FOR IRISH—Johnny Lujack, of Connellsville, Pa., back at the quarterbacking helm at Notre Dame after 36 months in the service, has played an important part in the two victories his team has scored over Illinois, 26-7, and Pitt, 33-0. Besides handling his duties — passing and kicking — with finesse, Johnny made two game-saving tackles against the Illini. In the game with the Panthers he completed 10 of 21 passes, fired two touchdown aerials and set up two other tallies with his unerring marksmanship. In addition to football at Notre Dame, Lujack has won monograms in basketball, baseball and track. "He's as capable as they come," Coach Frank Leahy says.

Community Chest Drive For $84,800 Underway

Maj. Gen. Joseph W. Byron Says Community Is Better Place To Live Because Of Agencies

"The impossible we do today; the miraculous takes a little longer," was a quotation Major General Joseph W. Byron of Hagerstown, used in his address last night at Central YMCA at the opening dinner of the 1946-47 Community Chest Campaign for $84,800 to operate the nine local Red Feather Agencies for another year.

Gen. Byron said this quotation probably best describes the attitude of solicitors and workers in every community enterprise, especially in drives for funds. "When the task begins, it looks next to impossible," he said, "but when people join forces and the community cooperate as Cumberland has a reputation for doing, the miraculous always seems to happen."

"Your community is a better community because of its Community Chest," he continued, as he referred to the work of the agencies among young people, aged, homeless, stranded, sick, helpless and infirm.

Gen. Byron recalled many experiences in his own efforts at community service and recounted experiences as head of the Special Services Division of the United States Army. A graduate of West Point, the General has travelled over all the world and said, "I've left this country at least a dozen times and each time I come back, I'm glad to return to a country where people believe in the privilege of helping others."

The subject of General Byron's address to the 150 campaign workers assembled for the kick-off dinner, was, "Long Range Planning."

For a program of long Range Planning he declared it is necessary to, "first, see where you've been; second, see where you are now, and third, see where you want to go." This is especially true in civic enterprises, he declared, as he urged all workers to inform themselves of the work the chest agencies have been doing, sell the public on the programs being undertaken now, and learn from those they solicit where agencies may have been delinquent in the past.

Gen. Byron expressed the opinion that the community chest, or any other public or private institution, set up on a democratic basis, must have a program of long range planning to meet the ever changing needs of the community. The best way to find this out, he said, is to have workers in campaigns report back, along with their contributions, suggestions and criticisms from those who give.

It is important to be realistic in campaigning, he continued. The facts must be faced, and people will accept facts. Any person asked to contribute to the chest, who knows the facts or who understands the realism of the work of chest agencies, will contribute liberally and willingly, he predicted.

President Gives Outline

Henry C. Swearingen, president of the Cumberland Community Chest spoke briefly on "The Chest Way Is the Best Way". He outlined and praised the work of this year's Budget committee, saying that many hours were spent at a number of different sessions in studying the needs and requests of the nine agencies. Mentioning each agency, he showed why they require various amounts to continue operation and outlined the work each is doing.

Swearingen concluded his remarks by saying, "Closing the Associated Charities, YMCA, Boy Scouts, Keating Nursery, Salvation Army, or any of the other agencies would be almost next to closing the public schools in Cumberland".

Col. George Henderson, general campaign chairman, introduced the speakers and also presented the campaign leaders, members of the board of directors and some of the guests.

Henderson called attention to the task of solicitation and urged workers to make their calls early and return reports promptly. The first report meeting will be Monday at noon at Central YMCA, and tentative plans are to close the campaign by October 23.

Chest officials yesterday called attention to three cities which have just completed their annual campaigns. Sioux Falls, S. D. with a paign. Sioux Falls, S. D. with a $233,250, subscribed $243,266. Rock $333,250 subscribed $243,266. Rock Island, Ill., with a goal of $85,000 subscribed $94,640. Nearly all major cities in the United States are staging Community Chest drives this month.

Swimming Course Will Be Offered Local Students

Board Of Education To Sponsor Classes For Sixth Grade Pupils

A new idea in the program of education was announced yesterday by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent, when he advised principals of Cumberland elementary schools that sixth grade children will be offered a course in swimming.

Kopp said all sixth grade children are eligible if their parents will sign a statement giving the child permission to enter into the course which will be given at the Y.M.C.A. three days a week beginning at 4:30 o'clock.

Program Explained

"For a long time we have thought that it would be a splendid achievement in our educational program if we could include in our schedule the opportunity for the learning of swimming on the part of the students," Kopp informed the principals. "We are now in a position to announce that an arrangement has been made with the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross to have every boy and girl in the City of Cumberland in the sixth grade of our public schools provided with this opportunity.

"This arrangement does not, however, make it obligatory for our children to take the swimming course, but it does offer the opportunity, and I am hopeful that boys and girls will take advantage of the offer," Kopp's message to the principals stated.

Instructors will be from the American Red Cross life saving and Water Safety Classes, Kopp said, adding that there will be one instructor and as many assistants as are necessary, all holding senior life savings cards.

The course will be under the direction of James E. Kelley, the superintendent announced, but it is presumed that no group will require more than four weeks to learn to swim. There will be no charge to the individual student for instructions, Kopp said.

Written Permission Necessary

A written letter will be required from each parent before the child is permitted to join the classes, Kopp informed the principals, but he stated that he has a confirmed feeling that there will be absolutely no danger of any mishap inasmuch as there will be adequate supervision, and while the program will not be under the immediate supervision of the Board of Education an obligation will be assumed in the whole program since it is being sponsored by the board.

The children who participate in the program shall be regarded as individuals who will enter the class directly from the home rather than as students from the school, Kopp said.

Boys, Girls Eligible

In strict school affairs, he explained, it is the policy of the Board of Education to have a teacher accompany a group of children to a place of assembly. In this instance, however, children must be regarded as individuals and not as a school group, Kopp said.

Both boys and girls are eligible to become members of the same class, Kopp explained, but it will be necessary for the students to furnish swimming suits. Since the securing of suits may be a problem, Kopp said, Kelley will try to make arrangements to secure proper equipment at a reasonable cost.

All is ready for the program at the pool and the instructors have been arranged for, Kopp said, the first principal who makes a request will have the sixth grade of that school placed first on the list.

The program should serve at least two purposes, Kopp said:

First — It should decrease the number of deaths from drowning, and second it should provide wholesome physical and health activity for the children of the community.

Former Veteran Fractures Leg While Hunting

Local Boy Injured, Runs Against Parked Automobile

Guy Vernon Price, Route 1, was admitted to Allegany Hospital last night at 8:30 o'clock for treatment of a fractured right leg suffered, he said, while hunting. Attaches said he told them the leg was broken twice while he was in Army service. His condition was good, they added.

Mrs. Catherine McKenzie, 303 Decatur street, a waitress at the Liberty Tavern, was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday at 10:15 p. m. after, she told attaches, she drank some disinfectant at City Cafe. Detective Thomas J. See investigated for city police.

Richard Hutchinson, 7-year-old son of Charles Hutchinson, Celanese worker, 923 Glenwood street, was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night at 6:10 o'clock for treatment of a deep laceration on the right side of the forehead.

The lad old attaches he was injured when he ran against a parked car while he was playing. Attaches, who said a general anaesthetic was used in treating the injury said his condition was "good."

Ervin W. French, 28, 623 Laing avenue, B. and O. yard conductor, was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday morning for a left knee injury. He told attaches he was hurt when he tripped over a hopper.

Roy Nixon, 32, 118 Polk street, was treated in the same hospital yesterday morning after he cut the

County Flier Fined In Federal Court

Bernard Miltenberger Is Assessed $200 As Result Of 1943 Crash

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10 (AP)—Bernard Miltenberger, Allegany County aviator, was assessed $200 and costs by Federal Judge William C. Coleman today on charges of flying or permitting to be flown a plane for which there was no valid airworthiness certificate.

Court attaches said it was the first case of its type heard in the Maryland Federal Court.

Assistant United States Attorney James B. Murphy told Judge Coleman that investigators found there was no certificate for the plane when the craft crashed while it was being piloted by Miltenberger near Cumberland.

The complaint filed by the government said the plane was flown without the certificate between December 1, 1941 and June 8, 1943, when the crash occurred. During that time, the complaint contended, the plane was flown a total of 184 hours and 50 minutes.

Miltenberger, whose address was listed as Cumberland, R.F.D 3, was not present at today's hearing.

The clinic, sponsored jointly by the State Department of Health and the State Department of Education, was conducted by Dr. M. L. Breitstein, Baltimore ear specialist, assisted by Miss Grace Hardman and Miss Anna Hardy, public health nurses.

Twenty-three of the cases handled were new. Thirty-one children were examined yesterday.

Scouts To Hold Logging Camp Over Weekend

Several Hundred Boys To Help Clear New Site Near Oldtown

Boy Scouts of this area will begin the task of clearing the site of their new camping grounds off Oldtown Road tomorrow, when the "Warrior Valley Logging Camp" gets underway.

According to Kenneth R. Jackson, local scout executive, boys and their leaders will leave from Scout headquarters on Union Street at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow, prepared to do a good job of clearing the campsite.

The logging camp idea is one which combines a little play with a little work in Boy Scout fashion, in order to get a big job done.

Will Organize Wood Gangs

Troops and patrols will be organized into woods gangs with a leader in charge of each. An area will be assigned each gang. The gang boss will decide how large an area each gang wishes to tackle, and as it is cleared it will be staked and marked.

Axe men, known in the logging business as "fellers" will start on opposite side of sections and cut brush or trees in a space before the roustabouts, swampers, toppers, sawyers and trimmers start to stack up.

Trees with straight trunks suitable for building log cabins will be trimmed and placed on skids. Crooked trees will be cut in four-foot lengths and corded. Saplings will cut in lengths from four to eight feet and stacked in pyramid-style for drying to be used later as fire wood.

All rubbish will be piled at designated places to dry and will be burned later. All stubs and bushes will be cleared as near the ground level as possible.

The time keeper will keep account of work done by the crews and each scout will receive his pay in "logging camp money." Pay rates will be based on the amount of work each scout does and the way his particular job is tackled. Rates of pay, in "stage" money will be from $100 to $200 per hour.

Amusement Is Planned

After the gangs have finished, and individual workers have been paid, they will be permitted to spend their earnings for food for supper and at amusement places known as "Hurdy Gurdy Arcade" after supper has been finished.

Jackson explained last night that the boys "get a big kick" out of affairs of this kind, and several hundred scouts are expected to participate.

The scouts will camp over night at the site and will return to the city Sunday morning in time for church. Those who wish to stay over, will attend a Scout Sunday School at the camp Sunday morning.

Boy Scout Troop 10 Receives New Charter

Boy Scout Troop No. 10, sponsored by the LaVale Volunteer Firemen, held its annual charter presentation ceremony last night at the LaVale Fire House. The charter was presented by local scout executive, Kenneth R. Jackson, LaVale, to Cromwell Zembower, representing the Fire company.

James S. Thayer, scout commissioner presented the scout's membership cards for the year to the scoutmaster, Eugene C. Kreissig, who in turn presented them to the boys.

The Troop was host to Troop No. 8 of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Bernard Beck scoutmaster, and Troop No. 4, Centre Street Methodist Church, Alvin Hall, scoutmaster.

Legion Horn Theft Admitted; Men Held On $250 Bond

All Four Waive Preliminary Hearings Before Hagerstown Magistrate

Four Hagerstown men, charged with stealing a bugle from Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion home, here, waived preliminary hearings yesterday morning when they were arraigned before a Hagerstown magistrate, and were ordered held on $250 bond each, for the November Washington County Grand Jury.

The men were arrested Wednesday night by two Hagerstown policemen, after Phil Fleming, commander of the local Legion Post, swore out a warrant charging them with larceny and receiving stolen goods after it was transported across a county line, Detective Wayne Sellman, of the Hagerstown Police Department, said.

Horn Taken From Home

The horn was reportedly stolen from the Legion home Friday night by four men who were visiting here, and is believed to provide a link in the theft of six slot machines that were taken from the home either that night or early Saturday morning.

Fleming said he went to Hagerstown Wednesday and swore out the warrant after he consulted with Stuart Bushong, Hagerstown attorney. He described the bugle as a silver plated instrument valued at $36.

Detective Sellman said the men, who were identified as Clyde Erickson, 19; Roland Snyder, 20; Robert Thomas, 20, and Wilbur Keefauver, 20, all of Hagerstown, admitted taking the horn when they were questioned yesterday, but denied that they had any part in the theft of the six slot machines.

They were arraigned before Magistrate Harry E. Snyder yesterday at 11:45 a. m., Sellman said and bond was posted shortly after the hearing by a professional bondsman.

Detained Saturday

Wednesday night Hagerstown police said the men were first detained Saturday after they were traced through a local taxi driver who reported seeing four men enter a car with a bugle. The Hagerstown police said the men were released after a short period of detention, when word was received from Cumberland to release them if the horn was recovered.

Fleming denied last night that the

Special Meeting For Contractors Set For Oct. 17

CPA, FHA Officials Will Explain Regulations Now In Effect

A special meeting for construction men in Cumberland and surrounding towns will be held Thursday, October 17, at 2 p. m. in City Hall auditorium, according to Edgar D. Vandegrift, chairman of the Mayor's Emergency Housing Committee.

Plans for the meeting were discussed yesterday at a conference between Mayor Thomas S. Post and E. Price Steiding, locality expediter for the National Housing Agency.

Steiding said O. Wilton Carman, Baltimore, state director of the approval section of the Civilian Production Administration, will be accompanied here by other state officials of the CPA and the Federal Housing Administration.

All directives and regulations in effect at the present time regarding procedures of obtaining permits for housing construction and essential non-housing construction will be discussed, as well as the procedure in using priority systems.

An explanation will also be given regarding the way in which priority regulations apply to securing materials for all types of construction.

All builders, contractors, hardware dealers and lumber suppliers in the Cumberland area are invited to attend the meeting, which Mayor Post approved at yesterday's conference.

Steiding explained that Carman, as head of the state CPA approval section, reviews and approves or rejects all applications for construction which do not involve veterans' housing.

This will be the first meeting to be sponsored by the Emergency Housing Committee since it was formed several months ago. Besides Vandegrift, other members are George Schwarzenbach, representing the merchants; Vincent Ingram, representing veterans' organizations; D. Clifford Goodfellow, realtor; Arthur J. Weber, lumber dealer; J. E. Callahan of the Tri-State Mine and Mill Supply Company, and F. Patrick Allender, representing the carpenters.

Roy W. Eves Tells Kiwanians About Rotary Activities

Exchange Speakers Program Informs Groups About Each Other

The history and objects of Rotary International and a review of the projects in which the local Rotary Club has engaged, was given to members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday at their meeting in Central YMCA by Roy W. Eves, a past president of the Cumberland Rotary Club.

Eves spoke to the Kiwanians in an exchange program aranged to inform the various clubs in Cumberland with activities and origin of other clubs. He said Rotary was organized in Chicago 41 years ago by Paul Harris, a 37-year-old lawyer who was in Chicage on a business trip and felt the need of a club or organization to promote fellowship. He added that Harris, a coal dealer, a merchant tailor and a coal operator were the first members of Rotary.

Tracing the history of Rotary Eves said the first convention was held in Chicago five years later with 60 delegates representing 16 clubs. Two years after the Chicago convention Rotary International was formed and today there are approximately 5,400 Rotary Clubs with approximately 250,000 members throughout the world.

The Rotary motto, Eves said is "He Profits Most Who Serves Most." He then explained the objects of Rotary, one of which is, "Development of acquaintance. He outlined the various classifications of membership, told how members are selected, and said "members of service clubs take pride in being selected for membership."

Organized Here In 1921

According to Eves the Cumberland Club was organized on March 11, 1921 with 35 charter members and of that number eight are still members of the club, and two of them have a perfect attendance record. The club membership grew to 60 and later to 90, Eves said, and today is about an average of 75. In the 25 years of Rotary in Cumberland 246 different men have been members.

Physicians Plan Pershing Street Medical Building

Drs. Jacobson And Jones Will Occupy Modern Structure

A building permit was issued yesterday by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, for a medical office building 26 by 50 feet for Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson to be constructed at 50 Pershing street, opposite the Cumberland post office.

According to Dr. Jacobson who has offices at 15 South Liberty street, the building will be a two-story semi-fireproof brick and steel structure of modern design, to house his own offices on the first floor and those of Dr. Emmett L. Jones on the second floor.

Plans for the building were completed by S. Russ Minter, local architect who described the proposed structure "as the last word in modern construction for physicians."

One of the features of the building will be radiant heat on both floors, Minter said. Radiant heat is an extremely new and modern system, developed only recently, and has not here-to-fore been installed here. The system involves laying of a series of heat pipes in the floor, which will be of poured concrete, so that heat radiates up from the floor evenly, throughout the entire structure.

The building will contain approximately 18 rooms, with adequate quarters on each floor for each physician. There will be offices, consultation rooms, examining rooms, laboratories, dressing rooms, reception rooms, nurses and secretaries quarters and several lavoratories.

Dr. Jacobson and Dr. Jones who now occupy the building at 15 South Liberty street, were required to find new quarters and since none seem available, they obtained priorities for a medical building. The Liberty street property they now occupy was sold recently to Mrs. Grace M Fisher, who indicated at the time that it would be razed to make way for a new theater.

Mrs. Leasure, a native of Lonaconing, who has lived in Midland for the past 14 years, made application to the committee for the position as housekeeper after reading the appeal in the NEWS yesterday morning for applicants for the job. She is well known to the three members of the committee as well as the Jones family. The committee and Mrs. Jones met with Mrs. Leasure last night and Mrs. Jones told the committee she was well pleased to have Mrs. Leasure care for the children while she is away, in fact she said, "I'm almost tickled to death over her selection."

The Midland committee announced that it will start work today on having another coal stove put in the Jones home and arrange to heat the upstairs, and also to fix up the bathroom.

Every mail brings more contributions to the fund and yesterday $302.50 was received at the NEWS office, bringing the total to date to the fund for the care of the Jones children to $4,333.94. Twenty contributions were received yesterday with the largest being a check for $100 from Farrady Post No. 24, the American Legion. Another contribution of $40 came from Frostburg, which consisted of donations made at the "Community Night" held in the First Methodist church as a part of the anniversary week celebration of the church.

A letter to the NEWS accompanying the donation said that at the suggestion of Rev. Watson E. Holley, pastor of the church, plates were placed at the door to receive contributions to the "Jones Family Fund". More Vets Using VA Contact Office

Over 20,000 Seek Advice In September Compared To 15,000 In August

A steadily increasing number of veterans are making use of services offered by the Veterans Administration Contact offices in the Maryland area, according to William A. Burns, officer in charge here.

Monthly contacts with veterans and members of veterans' families increased froh 15,040 in August to 20,281 in September, in Maryland, Burns said. This is exclusive of 6,750 telephone calls whereby information was given, and 2,290 letters that were sent to veterans in answer to questions.

Burns attributed the increase largely to extension of the contact service through the opening of new offices and to the fact that more veterans are taking advantage of the benefits offered them under recent liberalized laws.

There are now 11 VA contact offices covering 20 counties in Maryland, staffed by 46 contact representatives who are serving the needs of 240,000 Maryland veterans.

Burns said the Cumberland Contact Office, located at 111 Union street, here, offers information and assistance concerning various benefits to which veterans are entitled, and Allegany and Garrett county veterans and their dependents should visit the office whenever a problem of veterans' benefits arises.

Community Chest Drive For $84,800 Underway

Maj. Gen. Joseph W. Byron Says Community Is Better Place To Live Because Of Agencies

"The impossible we do today; the miraculous takes a little longer," was a quotation Major General Joseph W. Byron of Hagerstown, used in his address last night at Central YMCA at the opening dinner of the 1946-47 Community Chest Campaign for $84,800 to operate the nine local Red Feather Agencies for another year.

Gen. Byron said this quotation probably best describes the attitude of solicitors and workers in every community enterprise, especially in drives for funds. "When the task begins, it looks next to impossible," he said, "but when people join forces and the community cooperate as Cumberland has a reputation for doing, the miraculous always seems to happen."

"Your community is a better community because of its Community Chest," he continued, as he referred to the work of the agencies among young people, aged, homeless, stranded, sick, helpless and infirm.

Gen. Byron recalled many experiences in his own efforts at community service and recounted experiences as head of the Special Services Division of the United States Army. A graduate of West Point, the General has travelled over all the world and said, "I've left this country at least a dozen times and each time I come back, I'm glad to return to a country where people believe in the privilege of helping others."

The subject of General Byron's address to the 150 campaign workers assembled for the kick-off dinner, was, "Long Range Planning."

For a program of long Range Planning he declared it is necessary to, "first, see where you've been; second, see where you are now, and third, see where you want to go." This is especially true in civic enterprises, he declared, as he urged all workers to inform themselves of the work the chest agencies have been doing, sell the public on the programs being undertaken now, and learn from those they solicit where agencies may have been delinquent in the past.

Gen. Byron expressed the opinion that the community chest, or any other public or private institution, set up on a democratic basis, must have a program of long range planning to meet the ever changing needs of the community. The best way to find this out, he said, is to have workers in campaigns report back, along with their contributions, suggestions and criticisms from those who give.

It is important to be realistic in campaigning, he continued. The facts must be faced, and people will accept facts. Any person asked to contribute to the chest, who knows the facts or who understands the realism of the work of chest agencies, will contribute liberally and willingly, he predicted.

President Gives Outline

Henry C. Swearingen, president of the Cumberland Community Chest spoke briefly on "The Chest Way Is the Best Way". He outlined and praised the work of this year's Budget committee, saying that many hours were spent at a number of different sessions in studying the needs and requests of the nine agencies. Mentioning each agency, he showed why they require various amounts to continue operation and outlined the work each is doing.

Swearingen concluded his remarks by saying, "Closing the Associated Charities, YMCA, Boy Scouts, Keating Nursery, Salvation Army, or any of the other agencies would be almost next to closing the public schools in Cumberland".

Col. George Henderson, general campaign chairman, introduced the speakers and also presented the campaign leaders, members of the board of directors and some of the guests.

Henderson called attention to the task of solicitation and urged workers to make their calls early and return reports promptly. The first report meeting will be Monday at noon at Central YMCA, and tentative plans are to close the campaign by October 23.

Chest officials yesterday called attention to three cities which have just completed their annual campaigns. Sioux Malls, S. D. with a paign. Sioux Falls, S. D. with a $239,250, subscribed $243,266. Rock $233,250 subscribed $243,266. Rock Island, Ill., with a goal of $85,000 subscribed $94,649. Nearly all major cities in the United States are staging Community Chest drives this month.

Swimming Course Will Be Offered Local Students

Board Of Education To Sponsor Classes For Sixth Grade Pupils

A new idea in the program of education was announced yesterday by Charles L. Kopp, superintendent, when he advised principals of Cumberland elementary schools that sixth grade children will be offered a course in swimming.

Kopp said all sixth grade children are eligible if their parents will sign a statement giving the child permission to enter into the course which will be given at the Y.M.C.A. three days a week beginning at 4:30 o'clock.

Program Explained

"For a long time we have thought that it would be a splendid achievement in our educational program if we could include in our schedule the opportunity for the learning of swimming on the part of the students," Kopp informed the principals. "We are now in a position to announce that an arrangement has been made with the Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross to have every boy and girl in the City of Cumberland in the sixth grade of our public schools provided with this opportunity.

"This arrangement does not, however, make it obligatory for our children to take the swimming course, but it does offer the opportunity, and I am hopeful that boys and girls will take advantage of the offer," Kopp's message to the principals stated.

Instructors will be from the American Red Cross life saving and Water Safety Classes, Kopp said, adding that there will be one instructor and as many assistants as are necessary, all holding senior life savings cards.

The course will be under the direction of James E. Kelley, the superintendent announced, but it is presumed that no group will require more than four weeks to learn to swim. There will be no charge to the individual student for instructions, Kopp said.

Written Permission Necessary

A written letter will be required from each parent before the child is permitted to join the classes, Kopp informed the principals, but he stated that he has a confirmed feeling that there will be absolutely no danger of any mishap inasmuch as there will be adequate supervision, and while the program will not be under the immediate supervision of the Board of Education an obligation will be assumed in the whole program since it is being sponsored by the board.

The children who participate in the program shall be regarded as individuals who will enter the class directly from the home rather than as students from the school, Kopp said.

Boys, Girls Eligible

In strict school affairs, he explained, it is the policy of the Board of Education to have a teacher accompany a group of children to a place of assembly. In this instance, however, children must be regarded as individuals and not as a school group, Kopp said.

Both boys and girls are eligible to become members of the same class, Kopp explained, but it will be necessary for the students to furnish swimming suits. Since the securing of suits may be a problem, Kopp said, Kelley will try to make arrangements to secure proper equipment at a reasonable cost.

All is ready for the program at the pool and the instructors have been arranged for, Kopp said, the first principal who makes a request will have the sixth grade of that school placed first on the list.

The program should serve at least two purposes, Kopp said:

First — It should decrease the number of deaths from drowning, and second it should provide wholesome physical and health activity for the children of the community.

Boy Scouts of this area will begin the task of clearing the site of their new camping grounds off Oldtown Road tomorrow, when the "Warrior Valley Logging Camp" gets underway.

According to Kenneth R. Jackson, local scout executive, boys and their leaders will leave from Scout headquarters on Union Street at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow, prepared to do a good job of clearing the campsite.

The logging camp idea is one which combines a little play with a little work in Boy Scout fashion, in order to get a big job done.

Will Organize Wood Gangs

Troops and patrols will be organized into woods gangs with a leader in charge of each. An area will be assigned each gang. The gang boss will decide how large an area each gang wishes to tackle, and as it is cleared it will be staked and marked.

Axe men, known in the logging business as "fellers" will start on opposite side of sections and cut brush or trees in a space before the roustabouts, swampers, toppers, sawyers and trimmers start to stack up.

Trees with straight trunks suitable for building log cabins will be trimmed and placed on skids. Crooked trees will be cut in four-foot lengths and corded. Saplings will cut in lengths from four to eight feet and stacked in pyramid-style for drying to be used later as fire wood.

All rubbish will be piled at designated places to dry and will be burned later. All stubs and bushes will be cleared as near the ground level as possible.

The time keeper will keep account of work done by the crews and each scout will receive his pay in "logging camp money." Pay rates will be based on the amount of work each scout does and the way his particular job is tackled. Rates of pay, in "stage" money will be from $100 to $200 per hour.

Amusement Is Planned

After the gangs have finished, and individual workers have been paid, they will be permitted to spend their earnings for food for supper and at amusement places known as "Hurdy Gurdy Arcade" after supper has been finished.

Jackson explained last night that the boys "get a big kick" out of affairs of this kind, and several hundred scouts are expected to participate.

The scouts will camp over night at the site and will return to the city Sunday morning in time for church. Those who wish to stay over, will attend a Scout Sunday School at the camp Sunday morning.

Boy Scout Troop 10 Receives New Charter

Boy Scout Troop No. 10, sponsored by the LaVale Volunteer Firemen, held its annual charter presentation ceremony last night at the LaVale Fire House. The charter was presented by local scout executive, Kenneth R. Jackson, LaVale, to Cromwell Zembower, representing the Fire company.

James S. Thayer, scout commissioner presented the scout's membership cards for the year to the scoutmaster, Eugene C. Kreissig, who in turn presented them to the boys.

The Troop was host to Troop No. 8 of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Bernard Beck scoutmaster, and Troop No. 4, Centre Street Methodist Church, Alvin Hall, scoutmaster.

Legion Horn Theft Admitted; Men Held On $250 Bond

All Four Waive Preliminary Hearings Before Hagerstown Magistrate

Four Hagerstown men, charged with stealing a bugle from Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion home, here, waived preliminary hearings yesterday morning when they were arraigned before a Hagerstown magistrate, and were ordered held on $250 bond each, for the November Washington County Grand Jury.

The men were arrested Wednesday night by two Hagerstown policemen, after Phil Fleming, commander of the local Legion Post, swore out a warrant charging them with larceny and receiving stolen goods after it was transported across a county line, Detective Wayne Sellman, of the Hagerstown Police Department, said.

Horn Taken From Home

The horn was reportedly stolen from the Legion home Friday night by four men who were visiting here, and is believed to provide a link in the theft of six slot machines that were taken from the home either that night or early Saturday morning.

Fleming said he went to Hagerstown Wednesday and swore out the warrant after he consulted with Stuart Bushong, Hagerstown attorney. He described the bugle as a silver plated instrument valued at $36.

Detective Sellman said the men, who were identified as Clyde Erickson, 19; Roland Snyder, 20; Robert Thomas, 20, and Wilbur Keefauver, 20, all of Hagerstown, admitted taking the horn when they were questioned yesterday, but denied that they had any part in the theft of the six slot machines.

They were arraigned before Magistrate Harry E. Snyder yesterday at 11:45 a. m., Sellman said and bond was posted shortly after the hearing by a professional bondsman.

Detained Saturday

Wednesday night Hagerstown police said the men were first detained Saturday after they were traced through a local taxi driver who reported seeing four men enter a car with a bugle. The Hagerstown police said the men were released after a short period of detention, when word was received from Cumberland to release them if the horn was recovered.

Fleming denied last night that the

Steiding explained that Carman, as head of the state CPA approval section, reviews and approves or rejects all applications for construction which do not involve veterans' housing.

This will be the first meeting to be sponsored by the Emergency Housing Committee since it was formed several months ago. Besides Vandegrift, other members are George Schwarzenbach, representing the merchants; Vincent Ingram, representing veterans' organizations; D. Clifford Goodfellow, realtor; Arthur J. Roy W. Eves Tells Kiwanians About Rotary Activities

Exchange Speakers Program Informs Groups About Each Other

The history and objects of Rotary International and a review of the projects in which the local Rotary Club has engaged, was given to members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday at their meeting in Central YMCA by Roy W. Eves, a past president of the Cumberland Rotary Club.

Eves spoke to the Kiwanians in an exchange program aranged to inform the various clubs in Cumberland with activities and origin of other clubs. He said Rotary was organized in Chicago 41 years ago by Paul Harris, a 37-year-old lawyer who was in Chicage on a business trip and felt the need of a club or organization to promote fellowship. He added that Harris, a coal dealer, a merchant tailor and a coal operator were the first members of Rotary.

Tracing the history of Rotary Eves said the first convention was held in Chicago five years later with 60 delegates representing 16 clubs. Two years after the Chicago convention Rotary International was formed and today there are approximately 5,400 Rotary Clubs with approximately 250,000 members throughout the world.

The Rotary motto, Eves said is "He Profits Most Who Serves Most." He then explained the objects of Rotary, one of which is, "Development of acquaintance. He outlined the various classifications of membership, told how members are selected, and said "members of service clubs take pride in being selected for membership."

Organized Here In 1921

According to Eves the Cumberland Club was organized on March 11, 1921 with 35 charter members and of that number eight are still members of the club, and two of them have a perfect attendance record. The club membership grew to 60 and later to 90, Eves said, and today is about an average of 75. In the 25 years of Rotary in Cumberland 246 different men have been members.

Physicians Plan Pershing Street Medical Building

Drs. Jacobson And Jones Will Occupy Modern Structure

A building permit was issued yesterday by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, for a medical office building 26 by 50 feet for Dr. Samuel M. Jacobson to be constructed at 50 Pershing street, opposite the Cumberland post office.

According to Dr. Jacobson who has offices at 15 South Liberty street, the building will be a two-story semi-fireproof brick and steel structure of modern design, to house his own offices on the first floor and those of Dr. Emmett L. Jones on the second floor.

Plans for the building were completed by S. Russ Minter, local architect who described the proposed structure "as the last word in modern construction for physicians."

One of the features of the building will be radiant heat on both floors, Minter said. Radiant heat is an extremely new and modern system, developed only recently, and has not here-to-fore been installed here. The system involves laying of a series of heat pipes in the floor, which will be of poured concrete, so that heat radiates up from the floor evenly, throughout the entire structure.

The building will contain approximately 18 rooms, with adequate quarters on each floor for each physician. There will be offices, consultation rooms, examining rooms, laboratories, dressing rooms, reception rooms, nurses and secretaries quarters and several lavoratories.

Work is to be done by Edgar Vandegrift, local contractor and builder.

Dr. Jacobson and Dr. Jones who now occupy the building at 15 South Liberty street, were required to find new quarters and since none seem available, they obtained priorities for a medical building. The Liberty street property they now occupy was sold recently to Mrs. Grace M. Fisher, who indicated at the time that it would be razed to make way for a new theater.

More Vets Using VA Contact Office

Over 20,000 Seek Advice In September Compared To 15,000 In August

A steadily increasing number of veterans are making use of services offered by the Veterans Administration Contact offices in the Maryland area, according to William A. Burns, officer in charge here.

Monthly contacts with veterans and members of veterans' families increased from 15,040 in August to 20,281 in September, in Maryland, Burns said. This is exclusive of 6,750 telephone calls whereby information was given, and 2,290 letters that were sent to veterans in answer to questions.

Burns attributed the increase largely to extension of the contact service through the opening of new offices and to the fact that more veterans are taking advantage of the benefits offered them under recent liberalized laws.

There are now 11 VA contact offices covering 20 counties in Maryland, staffed by 46 contact representatives who are serving the needs of 240,000 Maryland veterans.

Burns said the Cumberland Contact Office, located at 111 Union street, here, offers information and assistance concerning various benefits to which veterans are entitled, and Allegany and Garrett county veterans and their dependents should visit the office whenever a problem of veterans' benefits arises.

County Flier Fined In Federal Court

Bernard Miltenberger Is Assessed $200 As Result Of 1943 Crash

BALTIMORE, Oct. 10 (AP)—Bernard Miltenberger, Allegany County aviator, was assessed $200 and costs by Federal Judge William C. Coleman today on charges of flying or permitting to be flown a plane for which there was no valid airworthiness certificate.

Court attaches said it was the first case of its type heard in the Maryland Federal Court.

Assistant United States Attorney James B. Murphy told Judge Coleman that investigators found there was no certificate for the plane when the craft crashed while it was being piloted by Miltenberger near Cumberland.

The complaint filed by the government said the plane was flown without the certificate between December 1, 1941 and June 8, 1943, when the crash occurred. During that time, the complaint contended, the plane was flown a total of 184 hours and 50 minutes.

Murphy said the certificates are issued after a yearly inspection by the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Miltenberger, whose address was listed as Cumberland, R.F.D 3, was not present at today's hearing.
